SCHEPPS TO TELL ALL ABOUT THE MURDER DRAFT OF ORDINANCE COMPLETED SCHEME DISCOVERED BY MAYOR AND COMMISSIONER DONNELLY TO SMUGGLE CHINESE

Of Rosenthal the Gambler—Witnesses Were Heard by the Grand Jury Today

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—Sam Schepps became the leading figure in the Rosenthal murder case today when he appeared before the grand jury prepared to repeat the story he told Dist. Atty. Whitman in which he corroborated in many essential details the accusing confession of "Bald Jack" Rose implicating Police Lieutenant Becker in the killing of the gambler.

It was the story of Schepps that Whitman desired the grand jury to hear before returning further indictments in the Rosenthal case. The district attorney was clearly confident that before nightfall indictments would be returned against seven persons. Those to be indicted are said to be:

Rosenzweig (Lefty Louie), Horowitz (Gyp the Blood), Cronin (Dago Frank), and Miller (Whitney Lewis), the four alleged murderers; Jack Sullivan and William Shapiro and Lieut. Becker on a superceding indictment. The states attorney said that Schepps testimony was not necessary to the conviction of Becker, but it gave the case against the police lieutenant added strength. Schepps has told Whitman how he talked with Becker a few hours before Rosenthal was shot and how he with others went out to get an affidavit from Dora Gilbert, the divorced wife of Rosenthal.

Schepps then told of the ride uptown the night of the killing, of the gathering of the gunmen and how he and Rose waited for the news of Rosenthal's death.

It was after the murder was committed that Schepps played his most important part in the Rosenthal murder. That was as a go-between for Becker and the panic-stricken Rose, who was hiding in an uptown apartment house. Schepps said he made several visits to Becker to consult with him as to what course Rose should pursue. Becker, he said, advised Rose to remain in hiding, but Rose was thoroughly frightened and wanted to give himself up.

Several bank officials who have information regarding Becker's bank accounts were under subpoena to appear before the grand jury today along with several other witnesses in the police graft cases. Schepps' counsel, demand Sandler, declared while his client was in the grand jury room that Schepps would make a clean breast of everything.

Other witnesses examined today were the clerk of a hotel at Far Rockaway, where the gunman located after the shooting, and a photographer who made a picture of the scene. Detective Charles B. Pitt, described as Becker's press agent, also testified.

These witnesses, it was said, completed the testimony desired by the district attorney before he asked the grand jury to present a blanket indictment. The citizens' committee, appointed at the Cooper Union mass meeting, announced today that its counsel in the investigation that it purposes to undertake into police conditions is Jos. F. Cotton.

Mayor O'Donnell, Commissioner Donnelly and City Auditor Page, this morning completed the draft of a new ordinance to regulate and control the financial transactions of the city. It embodies most of the recommendations made by Mr. Rex with a new feature providing for a city comptroller on whom will be centered authority and responsibility in the financial affairs of the departments.

The main features of the ordinance are appended:

An Ordinance Prescribing Methods of Accounting and Defining the Duties of the City Auditor and City Treasurer.

Be it ordained by the municipal council of the city of Lowell, as follows:

Section 1.—The financial year shall begin on the first day of January, and end on the thirty-first day of the following December, including both days.

Bookkeeping

Section 2.—The city auditor shall be the general accountant for the city. He shall keep a complete set of books and accounts which shall comprise all of the financial transactions of the city through the various departments under their respective appropriations (in accordance, so far as practicable, with the distribution of accounts provided by the municipal schedule of the United States census office for cities of the size of Lowell). All transactions relating to the "Revenue" and to the "Expense" of the current year shall be separated from transactions pertaining to other years, and from transactions relating to loans, construction, purchases or sales of land, and other "Capital" accounts of the city.

Doubtful Claims

Section 3.—If the city auditor shall have any doubt concerning the validity of any account or bill presented to him, he shall refer the same, with his objections thereto, to the municipal council for their decision thereon, and if said municipal council shall allow such bill or account, he shall certify the same as having been allowed by them.

Accounts Receivable

Section 10.—The city auditor shall open an account with the city treasurer, wherein the city treasurer shall be charged with the amount of taxes the amount in detail of all bonds, notes, mortgages, leases, rents, interest and all other sums receivable, in order that the value and description of all personal property belonging to the city may be known at any time at the office of the city auditor.

Pay Rolls

Section 11. The city auditor is hereby authorized to allow for payment all payrolls for wages required to be paid.

Americans and Chinamen Placed Under Arrest—Clever Work Done by the Officials

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—A scheme to smuggle Chinese into this country at Buffalo and bring them to New York by automobile was discovered today by the police and five Chinese and two Americans were arrested. A policeman who did not like the looks of an immense bundle in the rear of an automobile that appeared on his beat before daylight made the chauffeur open the bundle and revealed three badly-frightened Chinamen. A search among neighboring houses brought to light two more of the Chinese and a white man named Burton Tranks, who admitted, the police say, that he was in charge of the smuggling expedition. The chauffeur, who described himself as Arthur Pierce of East Averno, a suburb of Buffalo, told the police he was getting $25 a day for carrying the Chinese from Buffalo to New York. The police have not been able to learn who employed Pierce and Tranks to do the job.

The prisoners were turned over to the federal authorities charged with violating the law prohibiting the importation of Chinese.

CHILDREN OF MARY OF ST. PETER'S AT WILLOW DALE

Chelsea Car Men Are at Mountain Rock—Many Lowell People Went to Revere Beach

The members of the Children of Mary of St. Peter's parish, which includes the young girls, crowded into two large cars this morning and went to Willow Dale for their annual outing. They assembled at the church at 8.30 o'clock and the start was made at 9 o'clock. When the party passed through Merrimack square the little ones were singing and cheering their popular spiritual director, Rev. W. George Mullin, who had charge of the trip.

The children arrived at their destination shortly before 10 o'clock, and from that time until 5.10 this afternoon, when the return trip was started, all greatly enjoyed the day. At noon lunch was served and during the afternoon a grand list of sports was carried out.

Chelsea Car Men Here

The employees of the Maplewood stable car barn, which is the Bay State street railway station in Chelsea, passed through this city in two large cars at 10.45 this morning, enroute for Lynn.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 20.—Thomas E. Glynnan, councilman leader, who with 17 other aldermen, is charged with having accepted or having agreed to accept bribe money in return for closing a city street for the benefit of the Wabash railroad, appeared today before Justice Stern for examination in police court. The cases of several of the other accused aldermen are to be heard immediately after that of Glynnan.

As soon as the tests began the attorneys for each side started heated arguments on technical features of the questioning and the examining proceeded slowly.

DEATHS

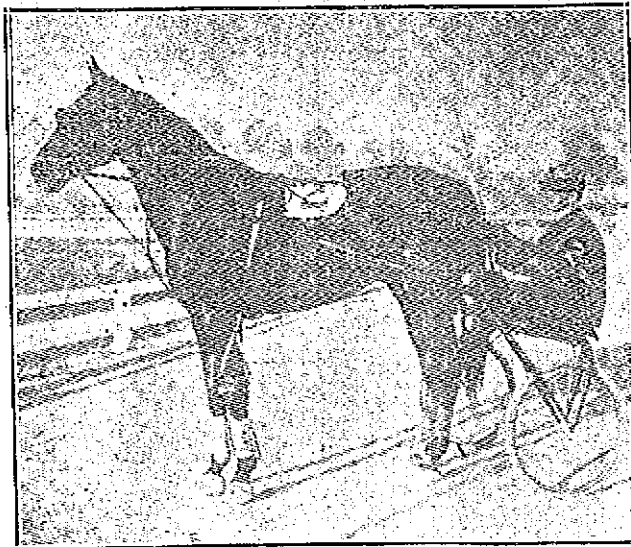

BEAUGER—Mrs. Julia Beauger, nee Foucher, aged 75 years, died this morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Mathilda Potier, 74 Fisher street. She is survived by her daughter, four sons, Elmer, Louis, George and Mathias, as well as a sister, Mrs. Marcelline Drouin of this city and two brothers, Andre and Narcisse Foucher of Canada.

THE O. M. I. CADETS

Every evening this week the O. M. I. Cadets' armory, the immaculate Conception school hall, will be open from 7 to 8 o'clock, so the young soldiers may congregate and plan for the annual encampment, which will open at Milligan's grove on next Tuesday. Tomorrow and Friday evenings practice drills will be held and Rev. Denis A. Sullivan, O. M. I. chaplain, desires all cadets to be present.

The arrangements for camp are completed and everything is in readiness for the maneuvers.

GRAND CIRCUIT RACES AT ROCKINGHAM PARK

BADEN, 2.05 1/4

The $3000 Purse for 2.05 Pacers the First Event—Other Big Events Slated

All roads lead to Rockingham park. Salem, N. H., today and will continue to lead in that direction for the remainder of the week. The event means the opening of the Grand Circuit and New Hampshire for the first time has a track in the circuit chain.

Rockingham is the splendidly appointed plant that at a cost of $1,000,000 was erected as the New England home for thoroughbred racing.

The big Rockingham Fair opened today and while the weather was not as propitious as the talent and pleasure seekers would have it, there was a fair day attendance and activity was everywhere.

Wilbur Dandley, formerly with The Sun, is the fair manager. Mr. Dandley is a thorough horseman and he has secured an entry that will make the inaugural Grand Circuit meeting in the Granite state one that will provide the greatest racing carnival that section of the land has ever known.

The circuit horses are the leading attraction of Rockingham Fair, which in its opening year is certain to rank with the best fairs of the country. The grounds at Rockingham are so spacious that the crowding, racing, and so annoying at many exhibitions, will be lacking.

The meeting opened today with the $2000 purse for 2.05 pacers, the feature, with the three-year-old trotters, 2.11 pacers and 2.18 trotters filling out the card.

Rockingham had hundreds of visitors yesterday. Some called to see the show horses, others to see the racing, and a considerable number were on hand to watch the change of the broad walk around the upper turn of the track into "Looney Lane," but it was the race horses that were the leading attraction.

The racing card for today was as follows:

2.15 CLASS, TROTTER, PURSE $1000
Larable Gyp, bg, Driving Club stable, Providence.
Peter Reed, blh, R. E. Thompson, Brighton.
Susiewood, bm, George R. Gallard, Providence.
Metallio, bh, J. E. Marston, Pittsfield, N. H.
Harry Bligen, big, G. H. Barnes, Waverly.

VERY LARGE ATTENDANCE

At Funeral of Mrs. Dempsey This Morning

With solemn and impressive services the remains of Mrs. Margaret Dempsey, widow of the late Patrick Dempsey, were laid to rest in the Catholic cemetery this forenoon. The esteem in which she was held was made manifest by the large concourse of people who attended the services at St. Patrick's church and escorted the remains to the grave. The funeral cortege was one of the largest seen in this city for a considerable time as the old residents turned out in great numbers to pay their tribute of respect to a woman who was noted for many Christian virtues, a kindly heart and generous nature. She was recognized by all who knew her as a most devoted wife and mother, always insistent upon honesty, right and duty, and all else. There were many clergymen in attendance at the funeral, all friends of the deceased or of her family.

Rev. John J. McHugh was celebrant of the solemn high mass, with Rev. J. A. Curtin as deacon and Rev. William J. O'Brien of Boston as sub-deacon. The funeral services were held in the sanctuary during the mass and funeral service. Mrs. O'Brien, pastor of the parish; Mr. Hurley of Portland, Me.; John J. Lyons of Manchester, N. H.; Rev. M. O'Brien of Chicago, Ill.; Rev. P. A. Sharkey of Quincy, Mass.; Rev. Dennis Sullivan, O. M. I. of this city; Rev. John W. Corbett of Winchester and Rev. Timothy Curtin of Lynn.

The following sons-in-law of the deceased acted as bearers: Dr. J. F. Lennon, of Pawtucket, R. I.; Col. J. H. Carmichael, of this city; Dr. Thomas E. Harrington, of Boston; Mr. James P. Quinn, of Lynn; George H. Leach of Lowell and Mr. William Harrington of Manchester, N. H.

The ushers were: Patrick Keyes, Charles Marron, Harry and Leo Farrell of Pawtucket, R. I.

As the remains were borne into the church the choir sang "Sun and Sea." The church quartet, composed of Miss Alice E. Murphy, Mrs. James Morris, Mr. John J. McNabb and Mr. Andrew McCarthy rendered Terry's harmonized mass. The solos of the Iberia were sustained by Prof. P. P. Haggerty, and "De Profundis" solos by Edward F. Shen. At the close of the mass, the choir sang "In Paradisum."

On the grave were laid a great array of beautiful floral tributes, some of which were sent from distant friends and relatives of the family.

At the grave the committal prayers were read by Mr. Hurley, assisted by Mr. O'Brien. Fathers Lyons, Boland, Corbett and McHugh. The funeral arrangements were in charge of J. Keyes and the undertakers were O'Donnell & Sons.

INJURED WIFE

PETALUMA, Cal., Aug. 20.—Mrs. E. W. Mason, wife of the secretary of an oil company, lay in the road beside their overturned auto yesterday, fatally injured and begged her husband to end her agony by shooting her. Ten minutes later death relieved her.

When Mason lost control of his car and it veered into a ditch and overturned under it. Mason could reach his home and sounded it repeatedly before some farmers heard the call. His wife was dead before help came. Mason will live.

If your piano needs tuning call at Bellis's, 610 Merrimack street.

NEW SUN BUILDING

MANY OF THE BEST OFFICES ALREADY SECURED

The new Sun building, Merrimack square, is now nearing completion. Already several of the offices are rented to representative professional men and those who are desirous of locating in the new building should secure a reservation immediately, before all the best offices are taken.

Eight floors will be devoted to offices so arranged that they may be used singly or in suites and subdivisions will be made in single rooms when desired. Some of the features of the building are its fireproof construction, its speedy and safe elevator service, its sanitary plumbing, tiled toilet rooms, vacuum cleaning and perfect ventilation. Another important feature is its low rate of insurance on the contents of the building on account of its fireproof construction.

All the offices are outside offices, that is, they front either on Merrimack square or Prescott street, or on the sixteen foot alley in the rear.

Reservations may be made by calling at The Sun (temporary office), 115 Paige street. Telephone 269.

GRAFT INVESTIGATION

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—A widespread investigation of graft in its offices has been taken up by the United States Express Co. according to a published report here today.

J. W. Mayhew, head of the company's secret service department, came here a short time ago to take charge of the investigation. It is reported that Mayhew's investigation has already shown irregularities in the employment of help, extra time, pay to employees in the purchase of supplies and equipment, and the employment of extra porters and wagons.

CHARGED WITH MURDER

BANGOR, Me., Aug. 20.—The grand jury for Penobscot county today returned a true bill for J. S. Gray of Carmel, charging him with the murder of Naomi Mitchell of North Carmel on July 24. Gray is held in jail without bail pending his arraignment. He has already confessed to the crime in the presence of witnesses.

WAR ON RATS

DECLARED AT THE CHARLES TOWN NAVY YARD

BOSTON, Aug. 20.—War was declared at the Charlestown navy yard yesterday. As soon as the strains of the reveille had died away, and sailors and marines were sleeping struggling from their hammocks, the proclamation was read which led to the taking of nearly 500 lives before daylight.

Without the sound of fire or drum the enemy marched to their death, while business went on in its usual routine in Charlestown and none knew of the slaughter behind the navy yard walls.

Happily, not a single one of Uncle Sam's men fell before the enemy, though several were wounded. The marines did the most deadly work. Four hundred and sixty of the enemy passed away, while the hundreds that were wounded were dragged to their own encampment by their comrades.

Hordes of devastating rats were the enemy and they were defeated. They have roamed the barracks and the officers' quarters for so long a time that they had begun to believe they were there by divine right.

It is expected that there will be another battle today.

BOSTON PRIEST

IS MAKING FIGHT AGAINST THE GAMBLERS

BOSTON, Aug. 20.—That he will continue to fight against crap shooting on the streets in South Boston until it is entirely wiped out, and that he will endeavor to arouse public sentiment to such a pitch that it will be an effective weapon in his crusade, is the declaration of Rev. F. Mortimer E. Twomey of St. Eulalia's church, South Boston.

"Do not think that I am finding fault with the police," however, said Fr. Twomey. "I know most of the policemen in this district and I know them to be faithful and conscientious men. But you know how hard it is for men in uniform to get close to these gangs. These gangs of men pay small boys a few coppers to watch for the policemen and to tip them off when there is danger."

"It is the gangs that I am after. They are made up of grown men as well as boys. It is said that not much money is won and lost in these crap games. People believing this are indifferent. But it is not so that only a few cents are involved. I have known men to cough home Saturday nights and lose their whole week's wages in a half hour in gambling on the public streets."

"Our street corners at night are crowded. These loafers stand there and insult girls who pass. They move in gangs, and are the worst influence possible on the boys of South Boston who are growing up."

The M. T. I. Bachelor Girls will hold a meeting this evening at 8 o'clock in Mathews hall to make arrangements for their summer dancing party.

AUTOMOBILE NEWS

THE LOCAL AUTO DEALERS HAVE HAD A GOOD SEASON

Are Now Waiting for the Arrival of Next Year's Models—
Other Auto News

The local automobile dealers are now making big preparations for the arrival of the 1913 models and it is expected that within a month the different agents will be displaying the new models.

The 1912 season proved to be very successful and it is expected that the coming season will be even more successful.

The Popular Buick
The Lowell Automobile company, with sales and show rooms and garage in Appleton street, corner of Post Office avenue, and general repairs shop in Aren street, near the Middlesex street station, has just closed one of the most successful years in the history of the company and the credit for the same is due in a large measure to the business ability and personality of Mr. Frederick B. Emerson, the general manager of the local company and Mr. Milo W. Hale, Jr., that clever salesman, together with expert demonstrators and machinists in the employ of the company.

This company is agent for the celebrated Buick pleasure and commercial cars and those who have lived in Lowell for any length of time know full well that there are more cars of that make in the city today than any other make of car. It might be said that the car is sold at a reasonable price, for it is, but it has the power, the beauty of design, the practically silent engine, an equipment which is not surpassed by cars which sell for more than twice the price of the Buick and all in all can well be called the popular automobile.

The Buick company has established an enviable reputation for building high grade serviceable cars and the 1913 line represents the best efforts of its mammoth organization. The success of the past season—when the entire output was sold early in June—evidence of the quality of the Buick product and an indication of what may be expected for 1913. The claim of the company that "no car at any price can give more real motor car value" seems to be a well known fact or else there would not be so many Buick cars in this city at the present time. Every model in the line is so built that it will not only protect, but enhance the reputation so emphatically won and so firmly established.

The pleasure cars for 1913 vary from the model 21 roadster selling at $350 to the model 10 five passenger touring car which is listed at $1550. These prices include every practical improvement that has been demonstrated in value, either in the operation of the car or the convenience and pleasure of its owner.

The slogan of the Buick company is "When better automobiles are built Buick will build them." In conversation with the automobile editor of The Sun this morning, Manager Emerson stated that although the number of Buick cars, both pleasure and commercial vehicles, far exceeded those of previous years, that at the present time there is not a new Buick for sale, even the demonstrating cars having been sold. The only Buick that is left is a second hand 2 A truck which has been completely overhauled and repainted and is now on exhibition in the show room and will be sold at a sacrifice.

Sales During the Week
During the past week, which is considered by all dealers the worst week in the season, inasmuch as it is supposed to be the week just prior to the showing of next year's cars, several cars were sold through the agency of the Lowell Automobile company.

Mr. E. A. Lapham, purchased a model 10 Buick and A. E. Wilson of Greenfield, Mass., is now the possessor of a 2 A truck. A model 35 will soon be delivered to Mr. E. A. Proctor of Ayer, Mass., and Supl. Royal P. White, of the Stilling mills has purchased a model 35 Buick.

Continuing Mr. Emerson said: "We have cleared out everything but a second hand truck and expect that our 1913 models will be on exhibition either next week or the week following. The demand for Buicks has been so great that we have got to send our orders in early but the order for next year's Buicks will be much larger than they were during the season of 1912 but we will surely sell every one of them as we have done this year."

Excellent Fire Equipment
The two Oakland cars for the use of the deputy chiefs of the fire department have been delivered and with the automobile protective and chief's car, already in service, and the three pieces of big apparatus which Commissioner Barrett intends to purchase, will place the equipment of the Lowell fire department on a par with the fire department of any city the size of Lowell in the United States.

Commissioner Barrett, Chief Hosmer of the fire department and in fact every citizen in Lowell has realized by this time that the automobile will soon supplant the horse and put the department on a very high standard. Although the Lowell fire department under the careful guidance of Chief Hosmer is recognized as one of the best departments in the country, the addition of self-propelled vehicles means better service and less loss of property and lives.

Deputy Chief Edward F. Saunders, who is proficient in the art of operating and caring for an automobile, has been operating his machine with success for several days and within a few days Deputy Chief James C. Sullivan will be seen racing his car through the streets when an alarm of fire rings in. Deputy Saunders' machine will be located at Engine 6 house in Fletcher street, while Deputy Sullivan's car will be stationed at Hose Company No. 1 house in Central street.

F. E. Adams, agent for the Pratt-Elkhart car in Lowell and vicinity, delivered a 1913 model to J. B. Packard of Acton, last week. Among the improvements noted on this car this season is an electrically controlled lighting and self-starting device.

MATRIMONIAL

Mr. Ralph S. Hickey and Miss Margaret L. Harley were united in marriage yesterday afternoon at St. Michael's parochial residence by Rev. J. Mullin. The bride was attended by Miss Helen E. Hickey, sister of the groom, while the best man was Mr. Alexander Harley of Fall River, Mass., a brother of the bride. After the ceremony a luncheon was served at the home of the bride, and the immediate relatives of the family, after a short wedding trip they will reside in this city.

MILITARY RIFLE TOURNAMENT

Wakefield, Aug. 20.—Marksmen from the New England states, the marine corps, the United States army and New Jersey competed in the eighth annual meeting of the New England Military Rifle Association which opened today. Weather conditions were poor, a steady rain falling during the early part of the day. Five matches were on the card.

THE NATIONAL TOUR

Their Will be Many Entries This Year

Entries are going to be numerous for the 1912 National Reliability Tour of the American Automobile Association, much known as the "Glidden," which will start from Detroit, Mich., during the second week of October, and will run through Adrian, Port Wayne, Muncie, Anderson and Indianapolis to Louisville; thence from Louisville to Nashville, with two brief detours en route—one to visit the Lincoln farm near Hendersonville, and the other to the Mammoth Cave.

From Nashville the route will go down through Columbia, Tenn., to Florence, Sheffield and Tusculum, Ala., where a turn west will be made to the Mississippi river at Memphis. The tour will then go nearly directly south to Jackson, Miss., thence west to Vicksburg, and either return to Jackson or follow a southeasterly direction below Vicksburg, entering the main line at a point below Jackson. Its final course will be from Baton Rouge to New Orleans.

The A. A. A. National Tour is always the leading event of its kind in the automobile world, and this year should be greater than any of the previous ones. It will be, in effect, a "Glidden-Glidden" tour, as it is traversing interesting sections of Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, Tennessee, Mississippi and Louisiana, will open up a through line between the North and the South that will be sure to attract a great deal of tourist travel. It will also be the greatest possible stimulant to good roads in the territory through which the tour travels.

FROM OCEAN TO OCEAN

New Transcontinental Tour Mapped Out

The first complete road route between New York city and the Pacific Northwest has just been completed by the arrival in Seattle of A. L. Westgard, official A. A. representative, who left the metropolis on July 11 for the purpose of charting a complete transcontinental route via Buffalo, Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Bismarck, N. D., Miles City, Billings, Livingston, Butte, Missoula, Montana, and Spokane, Wash. Between New York and North Dakota, the schedule laid out in advance was easily kept; but owing to a cloudburst and heavy rain there was a delay of over a week along the Yellowstone river in Montana, which made it impossible for the expedition to reach the Anaconda Good Roads convention. However, some of the stretches that were covered with difficulty have already been slated for improvement; and good roads interest has been aroused throughout Montana.

One excellent result of this trip, which appropriately was made with a Pathfinder car, will be a complete log with odometer distances, all landmarks and other necessary information through to Yellowstone National park, and also to Glacier National park. The transcontinental route passes through Livingston, Montana, but upon arrival there, Mr. Westgard went down to Gardiner, the northern entrance to the park, in order to get complete details. Similarly on arrival at Kalispell, he made a northward detour to Glacier National park, taking equally complete notes, and of course, this also makes a complete route, connecting Yellowstone and Glacier National parks.

SUMMER SCHOOL

REBELS BEATEN

HAS SOLVED A VERY IMPORTANT PROBLEM

MOCTEZUMA

DOUGLAS, Ariz., Aug. 20.—Rebels numbering 450 were defeated in an attempt to capture Moctezuma, according to advices received here. Moctezuma is an important town less than 100 miles southwest of this point on the border.

Foreigners are preparing to leave the district. There are many Americans at El Tigre, Nazari and Gumpas. Many small towns have been taken by rebels. A group of 600 rebels hold the San Luis pass and the rebels appear to be in a position to retain their position until the entrance of the main rebel army.

Two Beauty Secrets for Summer Months

Hair requires frequent shampooing in summer because of the great amount of dust and soot in the air, and if you dissolve a teaspoonful of cantharox in a cup of hot water you will have ample mixture for a cleansing, invigorating and wonderfully satisfying shampoo. After using cantharox, the hair dries quickly and evenly, and will be ever so soft and brilliant even in the hottest weather. Then you can do your hair up in any style with little effort.

A spumax lotion is ideal for hot weather, because it permits the pores to do their work properly, and when this is done pimples, blackheads, oiliness and fine lines vanish. To make, add 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine to ½ pint witch hazel (or not water), then put in 4 ounces spumax. After the spumax lotion is applied to the face it is invigorating and imparts a youthful charm and tint to any complexion.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

THEATRE VOYONS

Though of course most Lowell fans are rooting for the Red Sox in the American league, they are much interested in the fight Connie Mack and the Washington bunch are making for second place. Today the Theatre Voyons shows in complete games between these two teams played on the Philadelphia grounds and shows it most clearly. Then an interesting trip through a baseball factory is given and with the camera one sees every stage in the making of the ball from the start till it is put into play.

LAKEVIEW DANCE HALL

Tomorrow night a prize two step will be held at the hall, and as many couples have signified their intentions of participating in the event, the number is sure to be a hummer. Four prizes will be awarded, two firsts and two seconds, and all are well worth winning. Not only to the participants is such an affair very enjoyable but those who view it from the pavillion windows also derive great amusement. Added to the prize number, vocal selections will be given at all sessions by Miss Ethel Knowlton, Lowell's pre-eminent soloist.

LAKEVIEW THEATRE

"A Western Girl," a mixture of riotous fun, singing, dancing and some odd complications, opened a week's engagement at the Lakeview theatre yesterday, and Manager Jewell ought to be tickled to death to think he has such an engaging combination. The offering is put forward by the Huffle Stock company, of which John Huffle, a real comedian, is the head and fore-front. As the title indicates, the piece is laid in wild and woolly sections of the land and sombrero, lariat and big pistols—always carried discreetly in the belt—of the play prominent parts. Girls that know how to sing and dance and comedians who are past masters at the art of making a good thing seem to be given afternoon and evening during the remainder of the week.

The special attraction at the park during the week, is given by the Chamberlain, expert cowboy lariat throwers and swingers. This attraction holds forth on the open air stage and is free to all.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Five tastefully selected acts put on by clever vaudeville artists form the very pleasing and amusing program at the Merrimack Square theatre this week and a large number of patrons were delighted by the performance yesterday afternoon and evening. The whole bill is a very well selected intermingling of good music, both classical and rag time, dancing and singing and there is no monotonous feature. It is just the right combination to please an audience.

A sketch by Egan and De Mars in which they introduced their "Texas Tommy Dance," scored a decided hit and called forth prolonged applause.

Mr. Egan was the rare gift of originality which gives added pleasure to an audience. He has a good voice and his natural wit elicited many a hearty laugh. Miss Elenora Burr is a lively little miss and has a way of winning over her audience from the very start. In addition she is a clever dancer as is also her partner and the two present a delightful act in which there is not a dull moment.

"Mortimer Snow," "The Composer," is a well written and well staged playlet, with a pleasing and well balanced mingling of comedy and pathos. The parts are very well carried by Mr. Snow and Miss Williams and the former, though he experienced the setback of a severe cold, handled the piece in his usual entertaining way.

Harrington and Lenns, singers of the old songs, possess exceptionally good clear voices and render very well several difficult duets.

Francis Carnate has something decidedly new in the line of juggling and loop rolling and his act is altogether very enjoyable one.

Miss Elenora Burr, the blind girl, is a violinist of rare talent and ability and executed a number of difficult

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 29.—Being dependent on dry conditions there was little prospect of any tennis at the Casino during the forenoon hours today, owing to a heavy rainstorm. TRAIN JUMPED THE TRACK WHILE GOING AT 25-MILE CLIP

Crash Occurred Near Lakeport, N. H.—Mail Clerk Though In- jured, Stuck to Post

LACONIA, N. H., Aug. 20.—That only one man, Harvey Conant of Concord, N. H., mail clerk in the mail car, was injured when passenger train No. 69 northbound on the White Mountain division of the Boston & Maine was wrecked about 2 1/2 miles above the Lakeport station at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon is considered a miracle by the railroad officials and the 293 passengers escaped without injury.

The train, made up of a locomotive, mail and express car, baggage car, smoker, two day coaches and two parlor cars, due to leave the Lakeport station at 2:15, was running 25 miles late and when on the curve about 2 1/2 miles above Lakeport, toward The Weirs, left the rails, the baggage car and mail cars standing up and jumping about 15 feet from the track.

The smoker and day coaches all left the track and the front trucks of the first parlor car left the track, the last parlor car remaining on. The tender of the engine turned over on its side, but the big engine while off the iron kept right side up.

The mail car was badly damaged, a part of the side being ripped away, while inside the mail was scattered in every direction. The mail clerk, Harvey Conant of Concord, was thrown against the side of the car and injured about the hips.

He refused to leave his post and, settling on the floor of the car, went to work to repair his mail. He was examined by Dr. A. H. Harriman of Laconia while at his work and pluckily stuck to his job, refusing all entreaties to be taken to a house or a hospital.

The express matter was in a section of this car and the express messenger, F. P. Hobbs of Concord, was thrown about in the car, but fortunately escaped with only a few scratches on the face. The contents of this car were piled up in a heap with the express safe on top.

H. E. Bines, baggage master, from Rochester, Mass., escaped without injury, although thrown about in this car. The trunks and grips were mixed, but the damage here was not so bad as in the mail car.

The smoker and day coaches, while leaving the rail, were not badly damaged and most of the passengers injured. The only damage to the smoker was to the forward trucks. The passengers were shaken up and for a second or so badly frightened, but there was not the least bit of excitement, and all rushed from the cars as soon as they came to a stop.

The collapse of the women passengers was remarkable, as they showed no excitement or hurry, and after learning that no one had been seriously injured they stood about the wreck talking and laughing as if nothing had happened.

It is only with thankfulness that the passengers gaze at the position of the cars after leaving the train, for if the cars had gone off the other side to the right they would have plunged into the water of Lake Pausus and the wreck would have been another story.

Track Badly Torn Up

The track was torn up, rails twisted in every direction and telephone poles were completely demolished. Wrecking crews from Concord, Woodsville and Lyndonville, Vt., were rushed to the scene and are at work clearing away the wreck and getting the track opened for traffic, which will be resumed in the morning.

The express south was sent down over the northern road and the local train No. 72 was made up at Lakeport, the train from the north running to the wreck and the passengers being conveyed around.

The train was in charge of conductor T. B. Mank of Boston, Engineer George W. Calkins of Concord and Fireman Roy Knocks of Concord. When the news of the wreck reached Laconia doctors were rushed to the scene, but their services were not needed.

A large number of the members of the summer colony rushed to the scene of the wreck in their power boats, many of them living on the opposite shore of the lake having heard the crash of the wreck, and it was only a few minutes before they were on the spot to render aid if it had been necessary.

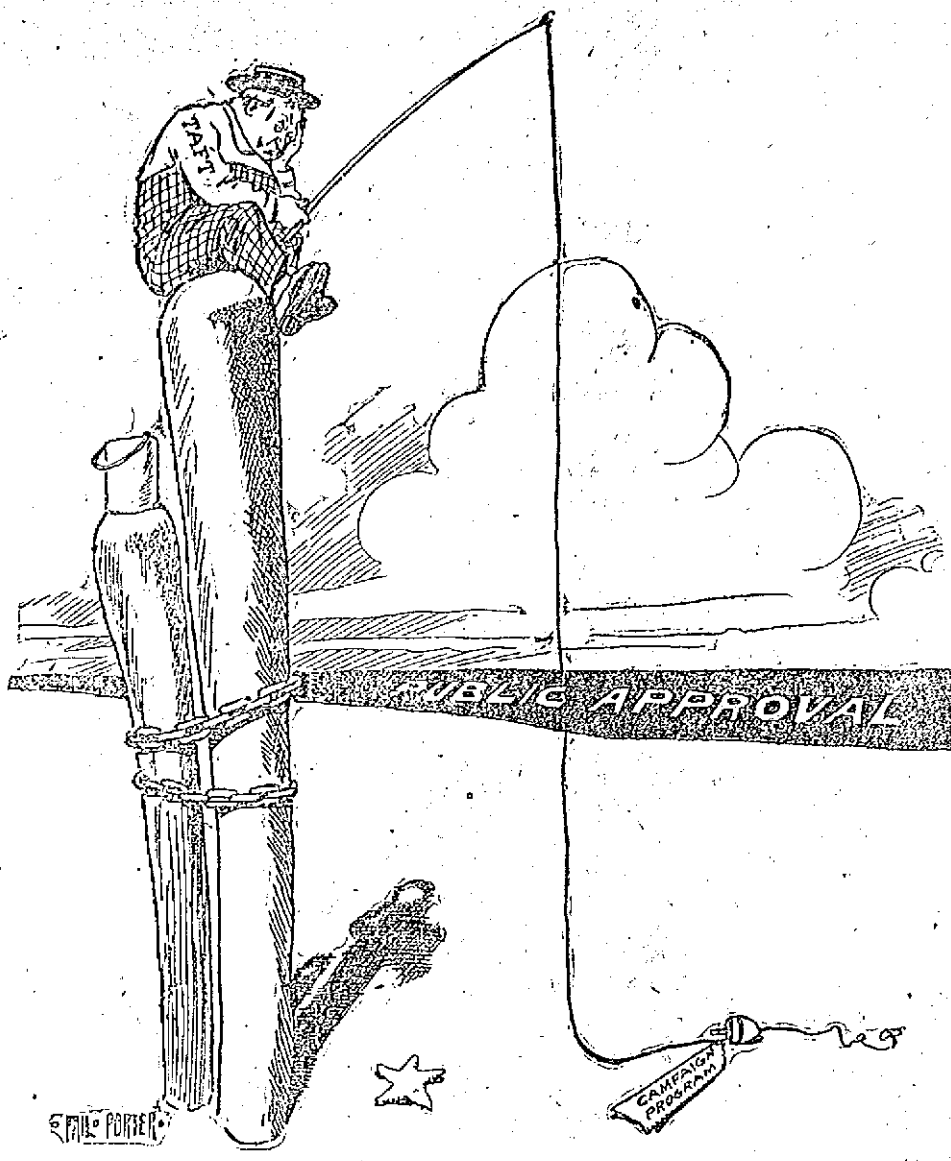

Taken Away By Steamer

The steamer Belle of the Isles put into the wreck and carried such passengers as wished to go to The Weirs, while a number of the passengers were carried to The Weirs in power boats.

The wreck was visited by a large crowd this evening from Laconia and The Weirs. The cause of the wreck is not known, but the railroadmen suppose it was either a spread rail or a defective wheel on the mail car.

Mrs. George Lovell, who lives on what is called the White Oak road, saw the crash from her home and was the first to telephone to The Weirs railroad station. It is understood that George W. Calkins, the engineer, was the engineer on the north-bound freight that met head on with the south-bound freight just above The Weirs on Sept. 15, 1909.

Mr. Calkins at that time was thrown from his cab into the lake and swam ashore.

EBB-TIDE

FISH AND GAME

WOMAN ALLEGES ALIENATION OF HUSBAND'S AFFECTIONS

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 20.—Charging a conspiracy on the part of her husband's family to alienate his affections and that the conspiracy was successful to such an extent that on May 20, 1910, he fraudulently procured a divorce while she was visiting friends in New York, Mrs. Katherine N. White, has started suit for $100,000 against Arthur O. White; her husband's mother, Mrs. Catherine Scammon; his aunt, Mrs. Helen Tuttle, and Charles H. Gilman, son-in-law of Mrs. Scammon.

The suit has aroused much interest because of the position of the Scammons and Tuttle and the immense amount of money said to be represented by the defendants in the action. It is said that the combined wealth of Mrs. Scammon and her sister, Mrs. Tuttle is between $30,000,000 and $50,000,000. In Milwaukee the family has immense property holdings and has property in New York and in Asbury Park, N. J.

That is the value given them if you lose the use of them.

You, therefore, wish to keep them smooth, soft, white and refined—a Lady's hands.

Some common laundry soaps eat color out of cloth and beauty out of hands.

We make a laundry soap which is good for the hands, which outsells all others in New England twice over.

It is also marvelously quick in washing the clothes clean, fresh, like new. It is safe for washing the daintiest fabrics.

One reason for its magic quality is the amount of Borax used in its manufacture—5 times as much as all other laundry soaps made in New England combined!

Costs the same as other laundry soaps—5c, at your dealer's.

The sentence probably referring to a Franklin young woman with whom he has been this summer. Chapman was arrested at his home on Prospect street, his mother calling the police. He had been creating a disturbance there, it is said, and according to the police had choked his mother while under the influence of drink. He says that he used a watch crystal to cut his arm, but the police think he took a glass jar in which his mother had sent tea for him. He was committed to the state asylum at Concord.

How to See Colorado and the Yellowstone

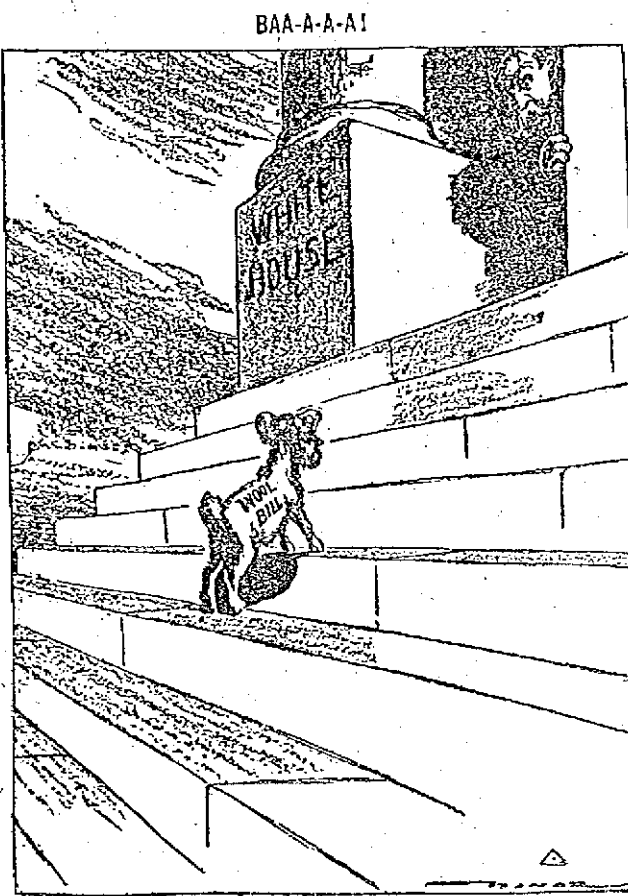

If all means make your plans include Colorado. A week of that glorious air will do you good for a lifetime. And that wonderful sky. Even Italy cannot match it for clear, deep, turquoise beauty. Then the mountains—they tower above you everywhere seeming to raise your spirit with them into the cool and restful cloudland. It's a new experience.

But you must also see the Yellowstone to complete your vacation. And it's easy if you take advantage of the reduced fare rates offered to summer tourists. Your ticket will take you through Colorado, the Regal Rockies and on to Salt Lake City and then swing you northward to the wonderful Yellowstone country. Neither pictures nor words can give you an idea of the beauty of the geysers, mud volcanoes, brilliantly colored rocks, mysterious rivers, thundering waterfalls, precipices, chasms, canyons and the million-year old mountains you will see there. Your trip will give you a fresh enthusiasm.

I am employed by the Burlington Route to answer all your questions. I'll tell you the cost, the best places to see, send you our handsome folders, and even arrange to get your tickets and Pullman berth if you'll write telling me about when you would like to go. When you write me, a postal will do. Alex. Black, New England Pass. Agent, C. B. & Q. N. R., 224 Washington St., Boston, Mass.

PITCHER WEAVER MADE GOOD

He Allowed Lynn But Two Hits, Lowell Winning 10 to 1

LYNN, Aug. 20.—Norman Weaver, Jimmy Gray's latest acquisition to his pitching staff, twirled against Lynn at Ocean park yesterday afternoon, and his exhibition was one of the best seen here this season. He held the Lynn men to two hits and at no time did he lose control of the situation. He displayed a great variety of shots and his cross fire delivery worked to perfection.

Lynn served up three pitchers to the champs and all looked alike to the boys who are fighting hard to top the flag for the second consecutive time. Britton started in the box and he lasted just two and one-third innings. Weaver then took the mound against Lowell on Saturday was the next victim. He remained on the firing line one and two-thirds innings. Leonard was the final selection and he finished out the game.

Eddie McGamwell had an exceptionally fine day, both at the bat and in the field. He made three hits, two of which came with men on bases, and in the field he played his usual star game. Magee, Miller and Lavigne accumulated two apiece and all other players with the exception of Babe De Groff connected with a drive.

There was nothing doing until the first of the third and there was enough action in that session to make up for all that was lacking in the preceding innings. The trouble started when first, first up, cracked out the first hit of the game which landed him on first and he also had the honor of scoring the first run. After "Shorty's" hit, Lavigne plunked the ball to left for two bases, but the little fellow was sent on third. Clemens scored De Groff on a single to right. Lavigne was held on third by McDonald's fine throw to the plate. Clemens stole second. Magee singled to left and Lavigne and Clemens scored. At this point Britton was relieved by Weaver. Magee stole second. De Groff singled to left and Weaver scored. De Groff then scratched a single to Logan, and despite the fact that Eddie had the fly caught, Logan threw to first and the throw was wild, Magee scoring. McGamwell going to second and De Groff to third. Miller dropped one to centre and Rube and Eddie counted. On the throw home, Miller went to second. Boutelle found De Groff up for the second time in the inning and was retired on a fly to Orcutt. Just a half dozen runs to the good.

In the fourth Lowell scored two more. Lavigne went out on a fly. Weaver singled. He was forced to second on Clemens' ground out to centre for two bags, and De Groff worked his second pass, filling the sacks. McGamwell was there with the little bingle, and Clemens and Magee scored. De Groff tried to steal third and was out a mile.

Lynn scored its only run of the game in the fifth. Logan walked. Boutelle flied to Clemens. McDonald fanned. Weaver grounded to Boutelle, who lost the ball and the Weed was safe. Leonard walked, filling the bases. Wallace was passed, forcing in Logan. With three on and the fans yelling for a hit, Strands sent out a high one to left field. Nuff cut one run.

Lowell added one in the seventh. De Groff flied out. McGamwell singled, but the latter went out when he attempted a "delayed steal." Miller doubled to left and stole third and he came home on Wilson's poor throw to get him going into third. Boutelle flied to the infield.

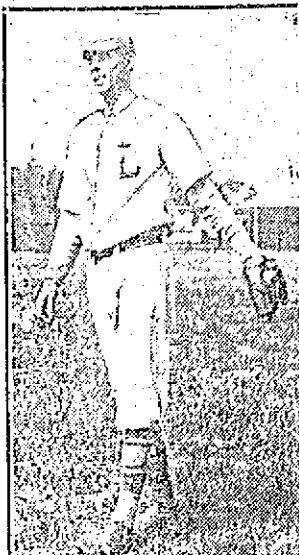

In the eighth Lowell scored its tenth and last run of the game. De Groff hit on Cooney's error and went to first when Lavigne hit to right. Weaver flied to McDonald. Lavigne took a good lead off first and drew a throw, which landed him safely on second, while De Groff was waiting. Clemens walked. Magee came to bat and as he struck out, Lavigne and Clemens worked a double steal. De Groff walked for the third time, during the game. With the bases all occupied, McGamwell batted one. At Weaver, which the latter copped and the inning and the scoring for the day were all over. The score:

STRUCK BY BARREL

BOY HAD NARROW ESCAPE FROM DEATH

John Smith, aged about 10 years, residing in School street, had a narrow escape from being badly hurt about 11 o'clock this morning when a barrel filled with either cocoa or chocolate tumbled down a flight of stairs at 33 John street and struck the boy, who was about to ascend the stairs. Two men were engaged in carrying the barrel up the stairs when they lost their grip and the barrel rolled down. The Smith boy was at the bottom of the flight and although he saw it coming and tried to get out of the way it struck him and knocked him into the street. The boy complained of a lame shoulder and soreness about the side, but he was able to walk to his home.

MORNING FIRE

BLAZE ON MARKET ST. CAUSED AN ALARM

The firemen were called to 152 Market street in response to an alarm from box 125 at 5:17 o'clock this morning to extinguish a blaze in one of the rooms. One of the occupants of the house was smoking breakfast on an oil stove when the fire evidently had leaked from its register, caught fire. A stream from an extinguisher put it out to the blaze. One side of the wall was scorched but other than that no damage was done. The house is owned by Harry Demaras.

DODGERS NOT FOR SALE

New York, Aug. 20.—The two Cincinnati baseball fans who came to New York this week with proposals for the purchase of a controlling interest in the Brooklyn National League club will apparently have to return without accomplishing their plan. A statement issued by Secretary Ebbetts of the club declares that the Dodgers are not for sale.

Bresnahan Tires of His Job
As Leader of the CardinalsBRESNAHAN

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 20.—Roger Bresnahan is getting thoroughly disgusted with his job as manager of the Cardinals, and it is all because of interference on the part of the woman owner of the club, Mrs. Britton. The duke had about concluded a deal recently whereby infielder Huggins and outfielder Ellis were to be swapped for outfielder Mitchell and infielder McDonald of the Reds when Mrs. Britton came along and called the deal off. The failure of the trade is particularly disappointing to Huggins, who was slated to manage the Cincinnati club next season. Huggins formerly played a star game at second base for the Reds and has been mentioned as a candidate for the job of managing the team many times. As a result of the trade falling through Bresnahan is so angered that he says he'll never attempt another, and from all indications it looks as though there will be no pilot for the local club next season. Roger declares that if his hands are always to be tied he would sooner be traded to some other team.

EDUCATION NOTES

The sand block, the slide, the giant stride, the horizontal bar, indoor baseball diamonds (for boys and for girls), courts for volley ball and tennis ball, running track and jumping pit, and a skating rink where the climate permits, these are some of the desirable features of an up-to-date school playground, as planned by Mr. Henry S. Curtis in a bulletin just issued by the United States bureau of education. Mr. Curtis shows how the attitude of the public has changed in the last ten years, since the great play movement burst upon us. The typical school playground used to be as bare and forbidding as a prison; the modern spirit requires that it shall be roomy, inviting, well cared for, open at all times to the children, and equipped with every safe means for enjoyable, profitable play.

George Peabody college for the training of teachers, at Nashville, Tennessee, is attracting wide attention in its effort to raise a million dollars for its endowment fund. The college is conspicuous for its high aim. Believing that "the most important educational need of the south is trained leadership," it seeks to furnish that leadership. It seeks to do for teaching in the south what Harvard and Johns Hopkins have done for medicine, and what Teachers' College of New York has done for teaching. The amount needed for the new undertaking is $1,500,000, and the trustees of the Peabody fund have offered $400,000, provided the college will raise the million.

A striking instance of the prevailing cosmopolitanism of American life is afforded by the German Presbyterian Theological School of the Northwest, where a group of students showed the following races represented: Jew, Bohemian, Mexican, German, Slovak, Russian, Japanese. The basis of the work of the school is German, a thoroughly equipped Bohemian course parallels the German course; and the sciences and mathematics are taught in English; while other languages are taught as required.

"In Rome, in the time of the republic, 64 days in every year were devoted to public festivals recognized by law. The American republic has not reached such a number of holidays, but

CRUMBS OF BASEBALL
Culled by "Sul" From Circuit Dope Sheets

Jesse Burkett has a new twirler, named Fanwell. Wonder if he does any well?

Down in Fall River they are predicting a first division team. Oh, well, we thought the same thing a while ago.—Haverhill Record.

Fred Parent is playing a great game at second base for the Orioles. Baltimore fans cannot figure it out how he was dropped from the big ring.

There comes a report from down Lynn way that "Billy" Cooney, disgusted with his inability to get a hit, would like to buy one. "Rube" De Groff could sell him one and never notice it.—Exchange.

Unlike a certain leader, McGraw in prosperity or adversity, does not seek to belittle other clubs nor press against himself by slurring a rival team.

Kerins did not umpire. Wonder what the matter was. If he had not what the blue envelope he must have taken a day off to get his eye back.—Worcester Post. Both reasons sound good.

Lawrence got away with two games from Lynn Monday. When a team can play 18 innings without making an error they deserve to be at the top.—New Bedford Standard.

Larry Gardner is making the fans around the circuit sit up and take notice by the fine article of ball he is playing for the Red Sox. Larry is one of the most natural all around players in the game.

Fortune fools one city just the same as another. We've been through it a good many times, but after a good break for a fairly long period we will be ready to be fooled again.—Haverhill Record.

New Bedford and Fall River manage to pay off the ball players, but how they do it is a problem. Certainly the money does not come from home patronage.—Worcester Post.

Al Moulton, who was sold to the St. Louis Browns by the Lowell club, has torn a ligament in his arm and may not be able to play again this season. Moulton was sent to Memphis by the Browns.—Exchange.

Arthur Lavigne demonstrated anew at Ocean park Friday that he is the finest throwing backstop in the New England league. It's no effort at all for him to shoot 'em down to second, and shoot 'em right.—Lynn Item.

Any player who is holding up a mark of 300 or better during the present New England league season is certainly doing good work when the calibre of the pitchers unearthed in the threat this year is taken into consideration.

The New England league magnates are foolish if they stand for New Bedford and Fall River against Worcester. Worcester has money to play in the cities and the guarantee does not cover expenses in some cases.—Worcester Post.

Pitcher Carl Thompson, recently handed down to Brockton by the Highlanders, has shown so much ability with the Skeemakers that the Highlanders will take him back as soon as the New England league season closes.—Exchange.

The Lynn Item says: Just now the most likely order of the leading teams of the New England league to finish in the cellar is Lawrence for the top place, Lowell for second, Worcester for third and Brockton for fourth—just as they stand today. Accidents, however, may upset this probability.

With the way Lowell has been slugging during the past couple of weeks, Lawrence has done well indeed to remain in first place, but a break will have to come soon unless the locals take a brace in their stick work. The pitchers alone are responsible for the position of the local aggregation.—Lawrence Telegram.

Says the Fall River News: "It is about time that the stockholders, the directors or whoever controls the team should expend some money and give the people who pay their way into the game a good run for their money. Then baseball would be a paying proposition in this city."

Maloney made a spectacular reappearance in the Brockton lineup. He scored the winning run for the Shoemakers over New Bedford by singling, stealing second and coming home on a wild pitch. Maloney has been assigned to right field, for the present, anyway, and McLane has taken himself out of it.—Lynn Item.

Haverhill allows Cooney to go to Lynn. Dan Cooney is never satisfied unless he is making a trade or selling a player.—Worcester Post. You may have the right dope but the sales, trades and releases this year have worked out fine.—Haverhill Record. Yes, very fine, for us—Clemens and McGamwell fall in nicely.

The Ocean Park Stars had a chance to secure Mike Lynch for shortstop (this regular position), but the directors of the club passed him up over Terry McGovern's recommendation. Mike has just about rounded out that Lawrence crew into a pennant winner.—Lynn News.

"Smiling" Hoff fits the Lawrence pitcher to perfection. He's a cool, heady box worker and never allows anything to worry him. He's got the benders, too. So has Pearson, but the two have different styles of delivery.—Lynn Item.

Just why Burkett should have tried so hard to avoid playing Thursday's game is a mystery. If he really wants to win the pennant it is clearly bone-headed policy for him to throw away a single chance to add a victory to his list. Every game he misses is very likely to put him in a hole. He could not have been wanting to save Van Hook's team, inasmuch as the Busters' opponents this afternoon are the Fall River bunch.—Exchange.

Pat Maloney, the young outfielder who was sold to the New York Americans for $10,000 (stage money), has been sent back and found wanting. Pat should make a world-beater in another year, but it can hardly be expected for him to go up and make good right away.—Exchange.

The baseball writer of the New Bedford Times gives the pennant to Lowell, with Worcester second and Lawrence third. He praises Jimmy Gray for his policy of spending money freely in acquiring players and paying them well to keep the good ones and get their best work.—Brockton Times.

The majority of players who lined up for Brockton the other day have had some connection with the New York American league team. There is Thompson to start with, a former Highlander, who goes back to the Fall River club, then there is Pat Maloney, the player who did more than anyone else to break up the old ball game, and who stepped down from the big leagues for the first day yesterday; Klennine Smith, who leaves to report to Harry Volthorn Sunday night, was in left field and on first we find Mal Barry, who leaves at the end of the New England league season. If a glance is cast over towards second base Leo O'Dwyer may be seen strutting around, another former Highlander. Last, but not least, our range wanders toward center field and are able to make out Larry Howard, twice sold to the Highlanders for immediate delivery, but who developed a shyness of the majors, and beat it for the seashore when he was sent to New York. Rutledge, Boardman and Johnny Sullivan were the only ones who had no connection with the Highlanders.—Brockton Times.

AMATEUR BASEBALL
The A. G. Cadets defeated the C. M. A. C. Juniors on Saturday. The score, 12 to 0. The features of the game were the pitching of Lemire and Barry, the batting of Bernier and the fielding of Gregoire.

The Tyler A. C. team would like to arrange a game for Saturday, Aug. 24, with the Hurons, the St. Anthony A. C. team, or some other strong amateur team.

The St. Anthony A. C. team would like a game on Saturday, Aug. 24, with the Elmira A. C. team, the Rangers or the Bellevues.

The Westford A. A. desire a game for Saturday, Aug. 24.

The "Cardinals" state that they accept the challenge of the "Hustlers" for a game on Saturday, Aug. 24. In case this game is refused, they would like a game with any 19 or 20 year old team in the city for the summer day. Address all challenges to J. Sunderland, 120 Charles street.

The Dixwells defeated the West Chalmers on Saturday by the score of 11 to 0. On Saturday, Aug. 24, they will play the L. B. C. team of Lawrence on the Alken avenue grounds.

The Lincolns defeated the Bleachery A. A. by the score of 14 to 7. Saturday, Aug. 24, they will play the "Crabs" and the "Hustlers" at the Bleachery. Hall kept the hits well scattered except in the 7th inning, when the Bleachery bunched hits for four runs. Next Saturday the Lincolns and South Ends will clash.

The members of the O. M. I. Cadet baseball team are requested to report at the school hall at 7:30 o'clock this evening, without fail. Signed by W. Conroy, manager, and J. Telf, captain.

The Coburn A. C. baseball team defeated the Ponies on Saturday, the score being 11 to 0 in their favor. The features of the game were the batting of "Souther" Curtis. The Coburns won like a game on Aug. 24th, with either the Crimsons A. C., the Orioles, the Bellevues, the Beachmonts or the Tiger A. C., preferably with one of the latter two.

The Coburn Juniors would like a ball game with either the Crimsons A. C., the Tiger A. C. of North Chalmers, the Orioles, or the Pilgrims A. C., preferably with one of the latter two.

The baseball team of the state primary at Tewksbury defeated the J. P. S. team in a well played game on last Saturday by the score of 4 to 0. The infirmity team will play the Elmira Independents at Tewksbury on Aug. 24th.

The All-Star Juniors of Pawtucketville defeated the Rockdale A. C. team by a score of 4 to 4 on last Saturday. A game is desired for Saturday, Aug. 24, with the Tyler A. C., or any other 15 or 16 year team. Answer through this paper or address Vincent Horton, 76 Boylston street.

The Shedd Park team wishes a game on Saturday, Aug. 24, with the C. Y. M. team, the Lincolns, the Highlanders or any other strong team. Answer through this paper or address Vincent Horton, 76 Boylston street.

The J. P. S. team is without a game for Saturday, Aug. 24, and would like to hear from some strong team of amateurs. The Westford A. A. preferred. Address J. Madden, Filling Shoe Co.

AMERICAN OUTLAW DEAD WAS HUNTED BY TROOPS

He Defied All Authority and Pursued Career of an Elephant Poacher

LONDON, Aug. 20.—Hunted down by British soldiers in the depths of the jungles of Central Africa where for years, in defiance of all authority, he had pursued the career of an elephant poacher and illicit ivory trader, James Ward Rogers, an American, is dead. He was shot down by a little force of troops which had been sent into the wilderness in pursuit with orders not to return without the outlaw, dead or alive.

News of Rogers' death came formally today to the British colonial office from Capt. V. C. Fox, Inspector of Mongalla province, who commanded the expedition. Although told in an official report, the story revealed is one of the most dramatic in colonial annals.

For years Rogers had carried on his lawless trade, which popular opinion credited with netting him a fortune. The remote regions along the Lado Enclave and the Congo boundaries were the scenes of his operations. Time after time British officials of the Sudan had tried in vain to trap him. It was this prolonged defiance which determined the government to crush the old man.

Capt. Fox's report shows that in his long operations Rogers had done more than had been dreamed of by the colonial office. He had established an organized administration over the wild, trackless country, and among the natives was a virtual if uncrowned king.

The success of the outlaw in handling his "subjects" and in the pursuit of his trade drew from Capt. Fox, in his report, the tribute that Rogers' work was worthy of a better cause.

Not since the explorer Henry M. Stanley pierced the jungles in 1871 and found Dr. Livingstone, has such a tale of hardships, trials and dangers come out of Africa. Capt. Fox's report, in this respect, resembles most nearly perhaps the tale of Gen. Funston's dogged pursuit of Aguinaldo in the Philippines.

For the purpose of tracking the outlaw, the English commander was given a non-commissioned subordinate and six Sudanese soldiers. Forty carriers and six mules for the transportation of supplies were part of his equipment. His instructions were plain—not to return until the outlaw was captured.

With a soldier's disregard for red tape, Capt. Fox, in his report falls to mention details in describing the man hunt. Apparently the denouement of the jungle drama came three months ago.

The pursuers then had spent weeks plunging through the almost impassable jungle. Rogers cunningly led them through the densest swamps and forests and across deep streams. Before the outlaw was overtaken he had crossed the Nile into the Belgian Congo.

Crossed Nile

Creeping up the Uganda bank of the Nile, the expedition pushed forward for six weeks before the quarry was located. Fox and his men then had worn their clothes to tatters and exhausted their supplies, leaving them facing starvation in the wilderness.

The last 12 hours of the pursuit were particularly trying. The chase led over a mountain with Rogers' men only a short distance in advance. As they fled, the ape-like natives sent howls and taunts at their pursuers.

Dramatic in the extreme is Captain Fox's description of the death of Rogers. Into the jungle into which they descended from the mountain his party came suddenly upon a camp. A native approached the English officer and said:

"The commander wants you to come in. He is sick and cannot come out."

Entering the hut, Captain Fox found himself in a room dimly lit by a candle. A white man was lying on a couch and beside him sat a companion, also white. For a time there was a dead silence. Captain Fox believing he had been led into a trap, then he asked:

"Which is Mr. Rogers?"

"Mr. Rogers has been shot," replied the outlaw's companion.

"Yes," interrupted Rogers, "and by your men."

"Come stand right here so I can look at you," Rogers continued. His eyes were blazing and from beneath a blanket he drew a revolver and pointed it at the officer.

"I am a dying man, I guess," he said. "I didn't think they could kill old Rogers, but they got him this time."

"Still you are in Belgian territory," and you stand more chance of arrest than I do."

Fearing that the revolver which menaced him might be discharged at any moment, Captain Fox argued with the outlaw in order to gain time. Finally, the outlaw turned to his companion, whom he addressed as doctor, and said:

"I want you to witness what I say, doctor. Captain Fox, I am a dying man, so I would not lie about anything. This was my show and all my money. I am afraid I have brought you into trouble, doctor."

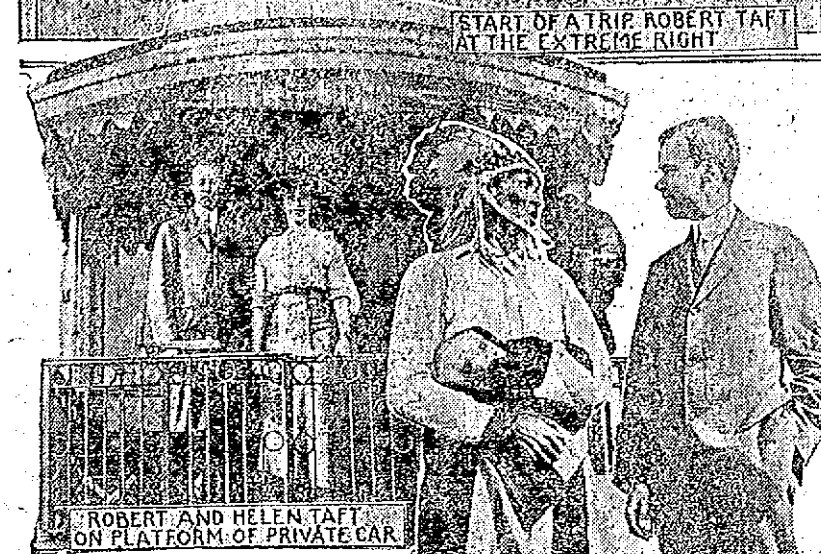

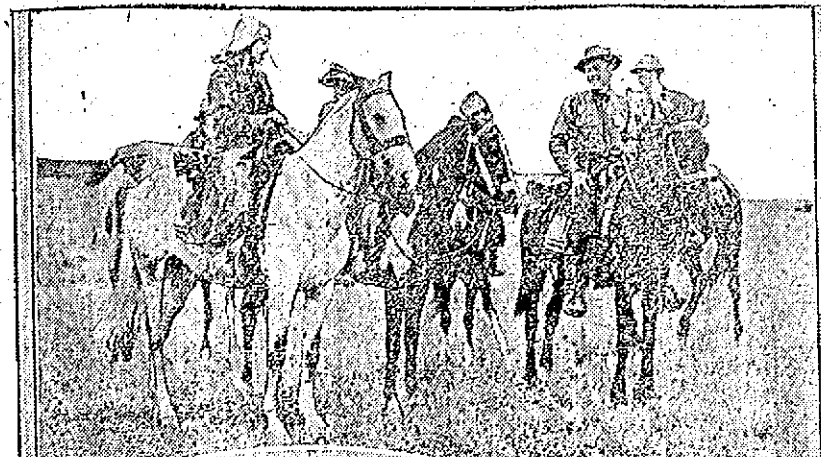

"Well, I had my good times as well as bad. I can't stand religious people. If you have religions, just live up to them."

A noise in his throat interrupted the old man's words.

"Say, did you hear that?" he exclaimed. "That's the death rattle. I've heard that too many times to make any mistake."

This prediction proved correct, for these were his last words.

Miss Helen Taft and Her Brother Robert on a Tour of Glacier National Park, Mont.

GLACIER PARK, Mont., Aug. 20.—Miss Helen Taft and Robert Taft, daughter and son of President Taft, are spending a month in a tour through

Glacier National park. Miss Taft arranged the party, which also includes Miss Martha Bowers, daughter of the late attorney general of the United States; Lloyd W. Bowers, her brother, and also Miss Isabel Vincent, daughter of President and Mrs. George E. Vincent of the University of Minnesota. Mrs. Vincent is chaperon of the party.

$5000 FORFEIT

TO STAGE THE JOHNSON-JEANNETTE BOUT

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—Assurance that the proposed bout between Jack Johnson and Joe Jeannette would be staged in this city advanced a step last night when the McCluhan brothers posted with the sporting editor of a New York newspaper a certified check for $5000 as a forfeit bid to stage the bout at the St. Nicholas A. C. Sept. 25. It was said here that Johnson was expected to post a $5000 forfeit in Chicago.

There is still great doubt that the state athletic commission, which regulates boxing in New York state, will allow the two colored men to appear here. Some months ago when promoters here were trying to get Johnson to appear, the members of the commission let it be known that they would oppose the idea.

HELD IN $1000

WOMAN WAS CHARGED WITH CONSPIRACY

BOSTON, Aug. 20.—Mrs. Marie Savarino of Buckingham court, East Boston, was held in $1000 by the United States commissioner yesterday, charged with conspiracy in an alleged "white slave" case. She is accused of having purchased a ticket for Carmine Viorio and accompanying her to New York. Mrs. Savarino will have a hearing Aug. 26.

The commissioner also held in $3000 personal recognizance, Harry A. Wright, head of a detective agency, on a charge of concealing George Baum, an alleged deserter from the United States army. He will have a hearing Aug. 27.

THE CARDINAL

MAY GO TO THE EUCHARISTIC CONGRESS

It is the general opinion among the Catholic clergymen of the archdiocese who are intimate with the movements of Cardinal O'Connell that the latter will attend the Eucharistic congress to be held in Vienna, Sept. 12 to 15, and that in consequence he will not arrive home before the early part of October and possibly his arrival in Boston may be later.

His Eminence left New York the latter part of June on one of the Holland line boats for a tour of the continent and since he left no definite information has been received as to when he will be in Boston. Advice from those in Vienna, however, indicate that he will attend the Eucharistic congress.

Added weight is given to this news as the Rev. Frederick A. Murphy, O. F. M., who has been doing missionary work in China for some years, will leave on the Ivernia from New York for Vienna Thursday. He will head the delegation from the United States to the congress. On his arrival there it is expected that he will meet the cardinal to complete arrangements for a series of lectures to be given in the archdiocese by him in October to raise funds for the missions in Hupch province, China.

LARCENY CHARGED

BOSTON, Aug. 20.—Claimed by the police to be interested in a $10,000,000 corporation for international financing, Dr. Solomon Lemov, a chiropractor, was arrested yesterday by Inspector Lynch of police headquarters and turned over to the Fitchburg authorities, who had a warrant charging Lemov with the securing of $116 worth of jewelry from J. P. Holbrook in Fitchburg May 3.

Lemov lives at 315 Essex street, Salem, where he is well known. Lynch arrested him in the business district, where he was trying to locate a friend who has an office in that vicinity.

NAT C. GOODWIN

GIVEN 18 MONTHS

MAN SENTENCED FOR LARCENY OF PINS

BOSTON, Aug. 20.—Charles P. Harris, 47 years old, of 35 West 133rd street, New York, was sentenced to 18 months in jail by Judge Murray in the municipal court yesterday afternoon on the charge of the larceny of two stick pins valued at $1125.

The pins belonged to Mame, co-leader of the orchestra at the new Copley-Plaza hotel, and were stolen on the trip from New York on the sleeper yesterday morning. Harris was the night porter.

When he arrived in Boston the musician reported his loss to the police and Inspector Harry Pierce of police headquarters was sent to investigate. The pins were found in the toe box of the buffet.

Harris appealed and was held in $1500 bail for the grand jury.

SUN YAT SEN SCHOONER ASHORE

IS REPORTED TO HAVE BEEN MURDERED IT PROBABLY WILL BE A TOTAL LOSS

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 20.—Rumors that Dr. Sun Yat Sen, first provisional president of China, had been assassinated in Peking yesterday by the soldiers of President Yuan Shi Kai caused great excitement in Chinatown. The rumors could be traced to no authentic source, but varying accounts of the alleged assassination were posted on bulletin boards throughout the Chinese quarter.

At the offices of the Chinese consul general and the two Chinese daily newspapers, no news of an attack upon Dr. Sun had been received and the report of his death was given little credence.

Cablegrams were despatched to Peking, however, inquiring as to the safety of the former revolutionary leader.

According to the rumors placarded in Chinatown, Dr. Sun had left Shanghai for Peking yesterday, to undertake the renewal of hostilities, as the result of the execution of Generals Chang Chen Wu and Aeng Wei.

PLYMOUTH, Mass., Aug. 20.—The schooner Petrel, owned by George Young of Boston, Capt. H. H. Field master, lies on the rocks north of White Horse beach and will probably be a total loss, as the water is over her at high tide and it is thought her bottom is stove in.

The craft came in yesterday forenoon in the fog and ran on the rocks. Capt. Augustus Rogers and his crew from the Manomet life-saving station boarded her and took the captain and crew off and housed them at the station.

This was the boat's first trip here. She was a lobster smack and came in for a load of lobsters. The wind has been easterly all day and there was a heavy surf rolling, so, as the schooner struck at low tide, the sea made a clean sweep over her at high water. The schooner was built four years ago and is of 16 tons and is valued at $5000 with $1000 insurance.

COMPLAINT MADE

THAT BREAD WAS KNEADED WITH BARE FEET

BROCKTON, Aug. 20.—Complaint was made to Executive Officer Abbott W. Packard yesterday that bread is kneaded with bare feet in one bakery and that conditions about the bakery are such that interference by the board is warranted.

The people who have been buying and eating the bread are loud in their protests against conditions that exist. It is claimed that the flour is placed in a trough, water added and that the bakers step in a trough and tramp about in their bare feet until the composition is kneaded into dough.

A rigid investigation is being made. It is said that one of the bakers, when asked about the foot kneading, said that everything was all right because all the men who did it washed their feet before so doing.

NEW VOTERS

5,000,000 EXPECTED TO APPEAR AT POLLS THIS YEAR

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—Nearly five million new voters are expected to appear at the polls this year, according to an estimate prepared here for the republican national committee. There will be 355,000 male voters enfranchised by August 31st and 1,350,000 women and newly naturalized citizens. There will be 2,432,200 male voters. The number of women voters is estimated at 1,657,000, making a total of approximately 5,000,000 persons who may vote for president. In 1908 there were 22,517,000 eligible voters and the number of votes cast was 14,889,442.

FACTORY GIRL GIVES UP

Too Sick to Work—Doctor Advised Operation. Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y.—"I run a sewing machine in a large factory and got all run down. I had to give up work for I could not stand the pains in my back. The doctor said I needed an operation for female trouble but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helped me more than the doctors did. I hope that every one who is suffering will get the Compound. My pains, nervousness and backache are gone and I have gained five pounds. I owe my thanks to your medicine for it is the working girls friend, and all women who suffer should write to you for special advice."—Miss TILDE PLENZIG, 3 Jay St., Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

When a remedy has lived for over thirty years, steadily growing in popularity and influence, and thousands upon thousands of women declare they owe their very lives to it, it is not reasonable to believe that it is an article of great merit.

We challenge anyone to show any other one remedy for a special class of disease which has attained such an enormous demand and maintained it for so many years as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

The testimonials which are constantly being published in these advertisements of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound are guaranteed to be absolutely genuine.

New Jersey Day at Sea Girt; Women's League Greets Gov. Wilson

SEA GIRT, N. J., Aug. 20.—One day recently was set apart at the "Little White House" here as "New Jersey day." On that occasion Governor Wilson received hundreds of visitors from different parts of the state, many of them members of the Women's League.

The governor made a speech, in which he emphasized the fact that the help of the women was needed in this fall's campaign because they know about the cost of living. Mrs. J. Boardman Harriman, the president of the league, also spoke.

RATS ARE COMMON HERE SOME BIG SPECIMENS

One Scared Local Typewriter, Another Chased a Dog—Dr. Carroll's Views on Rats

The spread of the bubonic plague has called attention to the menace of rats spreading it over this country. Speaking of rats this morning a local grain merchant said that a few years ago when he was in a different store, his place was infested with rats. They were good strong, well fed rats too, and they did not seem much afraid. If a man came along badly they would get out of his way, but if it were a boy or the lady typewriter they would hesitate to see which would step aside first.

"I remember one morning," said he, "the typewriter was first to open the store. When she unlocked the door and took a step inside she saw several rats intensely looking at her as if with great curiosity. She stopped and looked at them expecting to see them make a hasty retreat; but there they stood as if to say 'Good morning Miss Typewriter!'"

Finally one of the rats started to

of the rat ridden village of Hamelin and how the—

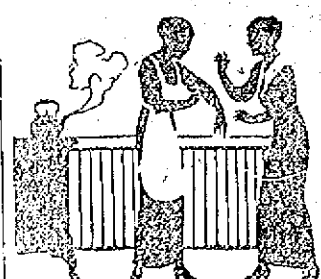

They fought the dogs, and killed the cats. And bit the babies in the cradles. And ate the cheeses out of the vats. And licked the soup from the cook's own ladles. Spilt upon the eggs of salted sprats. Made nests inside men's Sunday hats. And even spoiled the women's chateaus, by drowning their speckling in chateaus. With shrieking and squeaking in fifty different sharps and flats.

When the Pied Piper was employed by the mayor to charm the rats we are told that—

"Into the street the Piper stept, Seeking first a little child, As if he knew what magic slept In his quiet pipe the while. Then, like a musical adept, To blow the pipe his lips he wrinkled. And green and blue his sharp eyes twinkled. Like a candle-flame where silt is sprinkled. And ere three shrill notes the fine utter'd.

You heard as if an army muttered; And the muttering grew to a grumbling; And the grumbling grew to a mighty rumbling; And out of the houses the rats came tumbling: Great rats, small rats, lean rats, Brown rats, black rats, grey rats, Tawny rats. Grave old plodders, gay young friskers. Fathers, mothers, uncles, cousins, Knocking tails and picking whiskers. Families by tens and dozens. Brothers, sisters, husbands, wives. Followed the Piper for their lives. From street to street he piped advance. And step for step they followed danc- ing. Until they came to the river Weser. Wherein all plunged and perished. Save one who, stout as John the Baptist, Swam across and lived to carry As he the manuscript he cherished. To Ratland home, his Commentary."

There is a good hint for Mayor O'Donnell in how to rid our city of rats but perhaps with the subdivisions.

For Times Like This Keep Toiletine

Accidents in the kitchen and home happen frequently. You reach your arm with steam, cut your finger, burn your thumb, get your hand caught in a drawer or door.

These, and many other little things, cause painful injuries which, unless attended to at once, may result seriously.

Toiletine is good for every skin injury. It takes out the pain and cures it at once and quickly heals the broken, inflamed skin.

maps due to the fact that man is by nature a lazy animal and will make no unnecessary effort unless spurred to it by some circumstance in his environment. It has been necessary for plague to ravage so many times before he has learned that the rat, the mouse and the ground-squirrel are among the most deadly animals with which he has to deal.

Severe Indictment of Rats The doctor then turned to a periodical from which he quoted this indictment of the rat:

That rat is the carrier of plague is too well known to merit more than a passing reference here. They are also afflicted with a leprosy-like disease which closely resembles, both in its etiology and in its pathology, the leprosy of man. A number of other diseases exist commonly among them, the organisms of which are believed to be capable of producing human disease. They are also the hosts for a legion of parasites, while fleas, lice and ticks, infest their hairy bodies.

The rat, then is a menace to us physically. He also threatens us commercially. Traveling in the bodies of ships, and dogging the commercial highways of the world, he is the "old man of the sea" whose appearance in the community is the sign of impending pestilence and the resultant commercial disaster. Bubonic plague is essentially a disease of commerce and not only does harm through the human sacrifices which it claims, but also because of the great fear it engenders leaves a heavy commercial tribute. A rat will consume approximately a bushel of grain in a year. If the cost of the grain taken at $1.00, the cost to the community is $1.00. But the depredations of rats are not confined to relatively cheap articles; the choicest fabrics and leathers, books and objects of art—none of these is spared; poultry and eggs, seeds and bulbs—all are destroyed by these vermin, and still the indictment against the rat is not complete. Unless we mention the many disastrous fires which have been caused by the rat's fondness for phosphorus which leads them to gnaw matches which have been carried to their nests. These are composed of dry and very inflammable material and are usually hidden in some secret labyrinth between floors and walls, and the fire reaches unquenchable proportions before its discovery. We must add to the charge of arson that of theft, for there are numerous instances on record in which rodents have carried away, for pure wantonness, jewelry and other articles of considerable value.

When we campaign against the rat, we not only destroy his abiding-place and exclude him from the home of man, but we also endeavor to separate him from his food-supply as well, because the famished rat does not linger. The point of attack is the garbage-can. If we could ensure that every garbage-tin in a city was water-tight, well covered and maintained in a clean condition, we could feel a reasonable security from rats and flies. It is not enough, however, that garbage-cans be light and empty; the contents require careful supervision. This comprehends a study of the city's entire refuse-disposal system and if necessary its reorganization to meet the sanitary needs of the municipality.

The harbor, furnishing as it does both a harbor and a commissary for the rat, should be rat-proofed by the installation of concrete floors; the manure should be kept in air-tight metal-lined boxes and the stable itself should be screened and connected with the sewer.

Rats at Seaports

The Journal of the American Medical association said the doctor is making a great fight for the extermination of rats especially at seaport towns where vessels land from the countries where the plague has been found. Speaking of rats in the seaports a writer in this magazine says:

"The one thing for which the harbor or dock commissions of the interested municipalities should provide is a rat-killing brigade or corps whose duty would be to wage a constant war on rodents in and about wharves. In addition to their labor about the docks, they should also be sent aboard ship on arrival to rid it of rats. One of the interesting sights on arrival at the port of London is to observe the rat-uniformed band of rat killers come aboard ship and commence their operations before the passengers have even disembarked."

GOVERNOR WILSON ADDRESSES GERMANS

Candidate Begins His Outdoor Campaign

HOBOKEN, N. J., Aug. 20.—Governor Woodrow Wilson tasted the difficulties of outdoor campaigning here yesterday when he addressed the annual picnic of the Plattdeutsche Volkfest Verein, a German-American organization from the entire metropolitan district.

From a high improvised balcony the governor spoke while bands paraded in other parts of the park and thousands of people surged back and forth on the fringe of a crowd deeply massed about the speaker. Quite frequently there were interruptions of applause and remarks.

"We are asking ourselves this question," said the governor, "as we face the coming elections in November, 'what is the open road to get what we want?'"

A man in the heart of the crowd took advantage of his rhetorical pause and answered, "Taft." There was a moment's silence, when another voice nearer the front shouted "Wilson." The crowd took it up and cheered. When the demonstration had subsided, the governor named the director of the man who had answered "Taft" and continued with a smile:

"Our friend over there is perfectly welcome to use his seat, but if he goes that way he will find that he is in a blind alley, because there is one thing that was proved at Baltimore, and that is that the people of the United States elect their candidates and the bosses do not."

The governor dwelt upon the responsibility of the government in making this country attractive to the foreigner, so that when he did come he would find it a "place of economic opportunity, where a man may choose his own career."

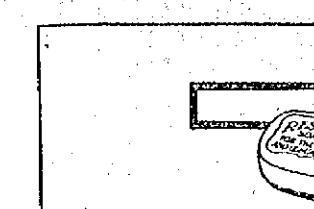

My Ears Are Free "Now, one of the things that make me confident of the future," continued the governor, "is that the men who are offering themselves to you on the ticket that I happen to be on are free men. Nobody owns them. So far as I am concerned, I not only have not made a promise to any man, but no man has dared ask me to make a promise. My ears are free, therefore, to hear the counsels of my fellow-citizens."

"If you people standing here want your government you can have it, and the people of the United States have the right to know that they want their own government and they are going to have it. All I ask is the privilege in taking part in taking possession in the name of the people, for when I see a great company of people like this around, who will stand up merely to hear a speech, I know that something is going to happen in the United States. I know that the people of this country have determined to take possession of their own affairs in order that their own thoughts may get translated into the affairs of government, and I know by the present constitution of the great party that I belong to that there is a way in which they can get it. Therefore, I am one of those who is entering upon this campaign with absolute confidence."

The governor spoke of the hopes of immigrants in looking toward America as a place where they could escape "all of the things that seemed to limit them at home."

"For example," continued the governor, "one of those who have a great admiration for your distinguished emperor, and yet at the same time, I know why most of you came. The world is throwing off most of the older forms of government, and the men of the greatest initiative, the men of the finest spirit of enterprise, in this day, seek some free field in which their energies may be realized as they could be realized nowhere else, where government is bound by the confinement and restrictions of classes and order and old-established institutions which seem to put men upon a plane upon which they were born and in which they are contented, because there is something in every one of us that makes up a democrat—not necessarily with a big 'D', but necessary with a little 'd'."

Prosperity Basis "It will be a fine day when we won't have to ask ourselves whether we do offer those who come from the other side of the water the kind of country and the kind of government they think they are going to get. It will be a fine day when we know that every man who comes in at the port to make this his permanent home will find this liberty and freedom and justice do obtain in America. When they find that there are big combinations of business, but that these big combinations are made to mind their own business; that there are great enterprises of industry in this

Dr. Carroll on Rats

Dr. Carroll, chairman of the board of health, when asked by a San representative what he knew about rats replied that while the subject is an unpleasant one, yet it is widely under discussion throughout the country in view of the fact that great precautions have been adopted to prevent the im- portation of rats from countries in which the bubonic plague has ap- peared. "The infection is undoubtedly spread by rats. It is probable that this is not the only kind of disease that is disseminated by rats."

Entering upon a scientific view of the subject the doctor said:

The harbor, furnishing as it does both a harbor and a commissary for the rat, should be rat-proofed by the installation of concrete floors; the manure should be kept in air-tight metal-lined boxes and the stable itself should be screened and connected with the sewer.

The Journal of the American Medical association said the doctor is making a great fight for the extermination of rats especially at seaport towns where vessels land from the countries where the plague has been found. Speaking of rats in the seaports a writer in this magazine says:

"The one thing for which the harbor or dock commissions of the interested municipalities should provide is a rat-killing brigade or corps whose duty would be to wage a constant war on rodents in and about wharves. In addition to their labor about the docks, they should also be sent aboard ship on arrival to rid it of rats. One of the interesting sights on arrival at the port of London is to observe the rat-uniformed band of rat killers come aboard ship and commence their operations before the passengers have even disembarked."

GOVERNOR WILSON ADDRESSES GERMANS

Candidate Begins His Outdoor Campaign

HOBOKEN, N. J., Aug. 20.—Governor Woodrow Wilson tasted the difficulties of outdoor campaigning here yesterday when he addressed the annual picnic of the Plattdeutsche Volkfest Verein, a German-American organization from the entire metropolitan district.

From a high improvised balcony the governor spoke while bands paraded in other parts of the park and thousands of people surged back and forth on the fringe of a crowd deeply massed about the speaker. Quite frequently there were interruptions of applause and remarks.

"We are asking ourselves this question," said the governor, "as we face the coming elections in November, 'what is the open road to get what we want?'"

A man in the heart of the crowd took advantage of his rhetorical pause and answered, "Taft." There was a moment's silence, when another voice nearer the front shouted "Wilson." The crowd took it up and cheered. When the demonstration had subsided, the governor named the director of the man who had answered "Taft" and continued with a smile:

"Our friend over there is perfectly welcome to use his seat, but if he goes that way he will find that he is in a blind alley, because there is one thing that was proved at Baltimore, and that is that the people of the United States elect their candidates and the bosses do not."

The governor dwelt upon the responsibility of the government in making this country attractive to the foreigner, so that when he did come he would find it a "place of economic opportunity, where a man may choose his own career."

My Ears Are Free "Now, one of the things that make me confident of the future," continued the governor, "is that the men who are offering themselves to you on the ticket that I happen to be on are free men. Nobody owns them. So far as I am concerned, I not only have not made a promise to any man, but no man has dared ask me to make a promise. My ears are free, therefore, to hear the counsels of my fellow-citizens."

"If you people standing here want your government you can have it, and the people of the United States have the right to know that they want their own government and they are going to have it. All I ask is the privilege in taking part in taking possession in the name of the people, for when I see a great company of people like this around, who will stand up merely to hear a speech, I know that something is going to happen in the United States. I know that the people of this country have determined to take possession of their own affairs in order that their own thoughts may get translated into the affairs of government, and I know by the present constitution of the great party that I belong to that there is a way in which they can get it. Therefore, I am one of those who is entering upon this campaign with absolute confidence."

The governor spoke of the hopes of immigrants in looking toward America as a place where they could escape "all of the things that seemed to limit them at home."

"For example," continued the governor, "one of those who have a great admiration for your distinguished emperor, and yet at the same time, I know why most of you came. The world is throwing off most of the older forms of government, and the men of the greatest initiative, the men of the finest spirit of enterprise, in this day, seek some free field in which their energies may be realized as they could be realized nowhere else, where government is bound by the confinement and restrictions of classes and order and old-established institutions which seem to put men upon a plane upon which they were born and in which they are contented, because there is something in every one of us that makes up a democrat—not necessarily with a big 'D', but necessary with a little 'd'."

Prosperity Basis "It will be a fine day when we won't have to ask ourselves whether we do offer those who come from the other side of the water the kind of country and the kind of government they think they are going to get. It will be a fine day when we know that every man who comes in at the port to make this his permanent home will find this liberty and freedom and justice do obtain in America. When they find that there are big combinations of business, but that these big combinations are made to mind their own business; that there are great enterprises of industry in this

THE WONDERLAND OF THE WEST

Fish can be Caught in the Lake and Cooked in the Hot Spring

Now come humane organizations and societies that have the "basis of the field, the fowls of the air, and the fish of the sea" at heart and say that tourists in the Yellowstone Park have been wantonly and feloniously inhumane. In other words these societies propose to stop the practice of standing on the cone which surrounds the hot spring in Yellowstone lake, throwing a line in the cool waters of the lake, catching a fish and in a twinkling flipping the line around so that the fish lands in the hot spring and is cooked in a jiffy. Lots of people have thought this was great fun and it is probable none of them have regarded it as a misdemeanor, but viewed in the light of humanitarianism it is a cruel practice. As a matter of fact there are enough novelties in this Park without cooking a live fish and as there are two such hot pools on the west arm of the lake, bubbling hot springs which come up in the cold water, the sight of such springs is wondrous enough.

Yellowstone Lake, though a feature of the park not often written about, is interesting for its beauty and extreme altitude, 7,721 feet above the sea, and almost the highest known lake in the world. It has an irregular outline and the shores are densely wooded. The snow white peaks that border it contrast with the lapis lazuli of its waters. The bears and deer walk calmly down to its shores and drink with no thought of danger and the peaks around are named from men identified with its discovery: Colter peak immortalizes John Colter, the trapper and explorer, who was the first white man to see the park; Mount Sheridan commemorates General Phil Sheridan, who was in the park as early as 1875; and Stevenson peak and island were named after James Stevenson, of the Hayden survey. The lake is navigated by a steel steamer, built in the Mississippi valley and transported across prairies and mountains to this mountain-girt sea.

Many travelers know of the geysers, hot springs, and the Grand Canyon of the Yellowstone, but entirely aside from these natural phenomena the park is an ideal spot for camping.

Castle Geyser in action

There are mountains to climb, small canyons, waterfalls, valleys to explore, streams to be whipped. There are at least four thousand hot springs, large and small; a hundred geysers, big and little; fifty lakes, from the Yellowstone down to many small bodies of water. There are rivers and mountain brooks, over one hundred mountain peaks, thirty waterfalls and there are animals galore.

With the security that animals feel in this park they become a prominent feature and there is no better place for the city man to enjoy animals of the wild in their native state. The elk, deer, antelope, and mountain sheep understand that they have the freedom of the whole area. The bears in particular seem to enjoy it for they grow sleek and fat and feed from the garbage cans at the back of the hotels. It is a delightful sight as the coaches drive along to see the elk slake their thirst in some mountain stream or several deer quietly feeding in the woods and totally unconcerned by mere man. The deer are rapidly increasing in numbers and are more often seen than the elk, who seclude themselves in the valleys and timber. Many hundred mountain sheep live on Mt. Evans. They seek the fastnesses in summer and come out in the spring and fall near the hotels. As they are fed much by the soldiers of the park who is situated in the park limits they are slowly becoming more domesticated.

One of the busiest workers in the park is the little beaver. There are many colonies of them, always burrowing, building houses or damming streams. Along the brooks in a certain beautiful part called colloquially "Xanexy's" there are dams, houses, ponds and slides and in the morning or evening they may be seen swimming about in the water or cutting down trees on land and laying in their stores of food for the winter. An energetic effort has been made to increase the buffalo herd by corraling them where they can be protected. They are in a large pasture at Mammoth Hot Springs and appear to like the situation. Today they are among the best buffaloes in the United States, and though many were young calves caught on the range of the wild herd and brought here they are fine specimens of an animal that the United States government ought never to allow to become extinct.

If possible one should plan to remain weeks in this park to enjoy the fishing. Six days is the regulation trip and very well for one whose time is limited. But one must leave with many things unseen. Fortunately the government has expended large sums of money on roads, and new surveys have been taken, with re-straightened, re-widened, and re-graded stretches there are over two hundred miles of an excellent system designed for coaches and teams. Though in one year as many as twenty-five thousand people visit this park few realize its history. The first man to see any portion was John Colter, who left Lewis and Clark on their return and by chance passed through part of this region. Folsom and Cook, James Bridger and others went through the country in early times, but its real discovery dates to the Washburn expedition in 1870—made up of prominent men from Montana with a small escort of United States cavalrymen, who made an extended tour and on their return told the world what they saw. This is called the Washburn-Doane expedition, and though most of the party kept diaries Lieutenant Doane kept an accurate and long account. It was largely to the efforts of these men that the tract was set aside for a National Park, and today the only regret is that it was not made larger. The withdrawal of this tract did not harm agriculture for the altitude is too high for this to be carried on successfully, and on the other hand its size, attractions and healthful air make it an ideal playground for the people.

Some one has said that no matter what wonder of nature he heard of, as he would not deny its possibility after he had visited the Yellowstone Park for there are so many astounding revelations on every hand. The geysers are, of course, the most prominent feature, and as they erupt at different times they are always interesting. From the Giantess, which is active every two weeks, with a violent eruption that resembles the explosion of artillery, through Old Faithful which is beautiful and erupts regularly every forty minutes to smaller geysers like the Lioness and Cuts they never lack for admirers. The steam rises majestically several hundred feet and falls in iridescent rain-drops. The crater of the oblong geyser is 30 by 50 feet, hence its name. Following an eruption the interior is exposed to a depth of several feet and lined with large globular formations. It is one of the best interior geyser constructions in the park. Two large openings appear in the bottom and one can look down to unknown depths. Eruptions vary from six hours to two days, and last only a few minutes and the steam rises about twenty feet. But these are only a few of the beauties whose gorgeousness of apparel astounds. There are paint pots—holes containing mud of various colors that can be used for paint and there are obsidian mountains and rumbling volcanoes.

Chief among the minor beauties is the lovely green hot pool, rimmed with black sand and called on this account the Black Sand pool. There is a Sunset lake, whose colorings resemble the most beautiful evening glow, and in which every shade of red is seen, and there is the Punch Bowl, an elevated spring that boils furiously within a rim of yellow and saffron and red. Most marvelous of all there is an Emerald Pool, something on the greenish-blue order, the scalloped rim and shelving bottom being exquisitely tinted. In another part of the park is Tricarbonate Lake, and there is Turquoise Spring, the former, the largest hot spring in the world, two hundred and fifty by eight hundred feet in size and unsurpassed for beauty in color. Turquoise Spring is smaller and its name indicates the prevailing color.

Of course, the climax in the Yellowstone Park is the crowning glory—the Grand Canyon of the Yellowstone. The Grand Canyon of the Colorado is much larger, but the coloring of the Yellowstone Canyon is sui generis and superb. According to United States geological survey it is 1,200 feet deep and the upper falls are 109 feet, and the lower falls are 308 feet. Opinions differ as to the comparative beauty of these falls, but though there are canyons longer and deeper than this, none combine the peculiarity of formation, the volcanic and chemical phenomena and the vividness of color. It has been called the culmination of sculpture and color glory and is a fitting climax to a tour of the park. A fine roadway leads to it, there are excellent lookout points from which one can view the falls at an advantage and a new concrete bridge crosses the river near the upper falls so they can be seen with little effort.

By current consent the term Wonderland has been applied to this park for it is the largest that we have, comprising 3,317 square miles, and it is impossible to enumerate the variety of phenomena. The Yosemite, Grand Canyon of the Colorado, Niagara and the Yellowstone have little in common—each is distinctive—but America has conferred a benefit on the entire world by saving this park for the people and their heirs forever.

Formerly it was popular to enter the park, make the circuit and return the same way. But recently more persons are entering at one entrance and passing out of the other—that is entering by the north and making the tour and leaving by the south entrance or vice versa. This method gives diversity of scenery going and coming to the park and enables one to see the beauties of Colorado as well as the interesting Dakotas and Northern States. The arch, however, which is considered as the official entrance to the park and which was dedicated by President Roosevelt in 1903 is at Gardiner, Montana. No railways or electric lines are allowed in the area and its care rests with the government. There are many instances of expensive road construction, new mountain trails have been laid out and bridges built. Some of the roads have cost many thousands of dollars per mile, and as Congressional appropriations are proverbially small one is surprised with what discretion the government engineers have builded.

UNCLE SAM— "Spendthrift"

UNCLE SAM in the role of a spendthrift is rather an unusual one in which to see the provident, economical old gentleman. But that he fits it—and every day in the year at that, too—is attested by the fact that daily at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing and at the United States Treasury at Washington, D. C., he takes over three and one-half million dollars and throws them away. Not only does he put them out of circulation but he literally destroys them for all time. And he does this without a pang of regret or a feeling that he is being prodigal in doing so.

This fortune that is daily destroyed is composed of bills that have been spoiled in the making at the Bureau and others that have become worn out through circulation and replaced by new ones. Six of his employees—five men and one woman—see to it that this wholesale destruction of money is complete and keep closely tally upon every note in the huge bundles they toss into the macerating machines that chew them up into pulp. This pulp—no longer recognizable as currency—is then sold to a firm in New York that manufactures it into a very fine grade of writing paper.

The committee of six is appointed officially by the President to witness this daily destruction of a fortune that even a king might envy. Last year they put the quietus on the modest little sum of four hundred million dollars in National Bank notes and a good bit more than twice that amount in United States and Treasury notes and gold and silver certificates. Though they themselves cast millions to the winds each day with complete nonchalance, their salaries are truly as modest as those of the average Government clerk.

At noon each day the committee meets at the Bureau for its "spendthrift" work. The ceremony is also witnessed by a representative of every department of Government that has to do with currency. The committee includes: James F. Huguely, chairman and representative of the Registrar of the Treasury, J. C. McGrath, acting for the Treasurer of the United States; U. L. Adams, representing the Secretary of the Treasury; Charles Scheneman, for the Comptroller of the Currency; and Captain W. W. Meredith, who watches out for the interests of the Bureau itself. The remaining member, Miss Louise Lester, of Maryland, acts as the official representative of "the public" at the burial rites over the "dead" money.

She was appointed to her responsible position only a short while ago by the President and is the first woman to have ever filled it. Every Saturday the scene of destruction shifts from the Bureau to the Treasury and there the assemblage of witnesses is increased by the addition of representatives of the various National Banks of the country that send in worn-out currency to be redeemed.

To one unaccustomed to seeing millions of dollars picked up and dumped into a macerating machine like so much waste paper, the spectacle of the committee at work is indeed startling. Each morning they report to the Treasury along with the rest of the Government clerks, for they are really bookkeepers in that department. Then they enter a little one-horse bus that conveys them over to the Bureau of Engraving and Printing where their real day's work begins.

The flat, iron, padlocked lid is lifted off the big, cylindrical vat in which the pulp from the day before has been reaping and they examine it to see that it is all there. The entire committee, or proxy, must be present at this inspection. The pulp is then mechanically fed into a machine that rolls it out into strips for shipment to the paper manufacturer who buys it. The entire inspection is made under rigid guard. The room itself is entered through three doors, each of which is unlocked and locked again by a guard as the committee passes through them. Not so much as a single scrap of paper in any of these rooms must be unaccounted for and the visitor is always accompanied by one of the employees.

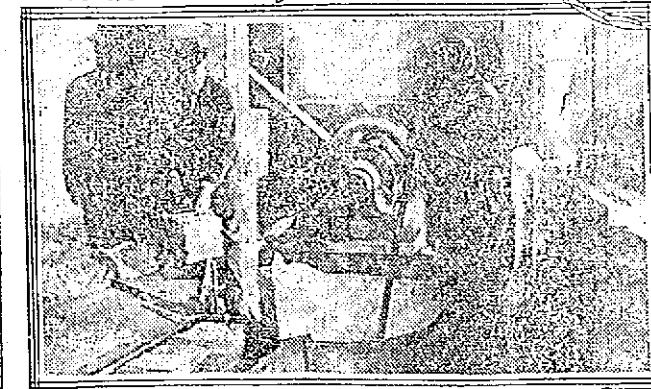

This task accomplished, the committee returns to the Treasury. For several hours they are busy counting and checking huge bales of money to be destroyed on the following day. The work is very exacting and requires nimble fingers as well as a mind that is "good at figures." Accurate listing is made of the exact number and the serial numbers of the bills which range in denominations from "ones" up to "thousands." Huge bundles of them have to be counted, checked, packed in trunks and made ready for transfer to the Bureau. Not even a blank sheet of paper that is too soiled for manufacture into money is permitted to go uncounted or undestroyed.

About one o'clock they make another trip to the Bureau, this time to destroy the money they had counted the previous day. Hugo trunks, stuffed full to the brim with the paper currency, are opened. The bills are tied up in bundles that total approximately four thousand dollars each. The committee gathers in a circle around the "mouth" of the macerator and the work of destruction begins.

The cords confining each bundle are cut, the paper wrapper removed and the sum for which the average man would be willing to work an entire year is tossed into the macerator as though it were so much trash. Bundles after bundle of the "root of all evil" is dropped into the rapacious maw of the machine until all have been disposed of. Then the lid is clamped down and the committee returns to the Treasury to spend the rest of the day in further counting of money and bookkeeping.

A King's Ransom on a Single Table

Dropping Spoiled Stamps and Bills into Cylinder

A powerful chemical, soda ash, totally obliterates the ink on the notes in the macerator and bleaches them a grayish white. In former years this pulp could be bought in Washington by visitors in the form of miniature Washington Monuments and other similar souvenir shapes. It requires seven per cent. of this soda ash in the macerator to entirely remove all color from the notes and as each trunkful of money is weighed that before the whole is dumped into the machine. But not more than fifteen hundred pounds of paper money—think of it!—can be emptied into the macerating cylinder at one time.

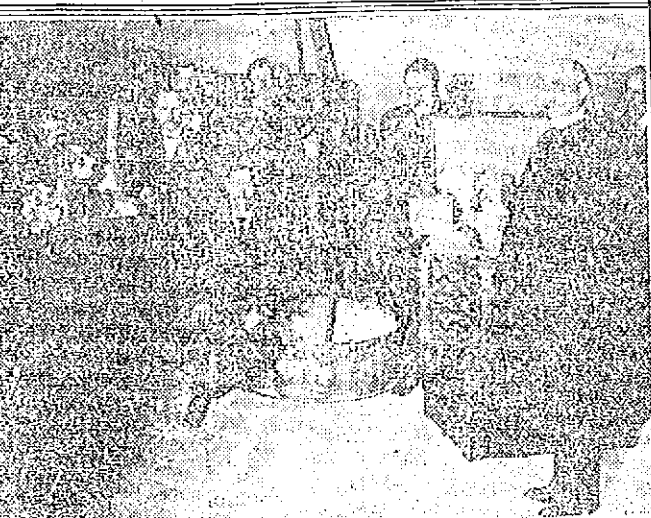

It takes twenty-four hours for the soda ash to accomplish its task of reducing a king's ransom to a mere mass of soggy pulp; but it does its work thoroughly and when, on the following morning, the cylinder is opened by the committee, it no more resembles currency of the realm than would a wad of soft white paper that had been wet and packed into a preserving jar.

That the members of the committee should become utterly indifferent to the fact that they throw away such colossal sums each day is quite natural—for familiarity breeds contempt even for money. For all they seem to care, the thousand-dollar bills might just as well be so many cancelled checks.

Miss Lester, however, being somewhat new to her work is still able to thrill now and then over the strangeness of it all—that is, when she has the time to think about it. But what woman wouldn't, for what woman could be utterly impervious to the fact that she was in a position to "throw money away" without a single solitary word to even mention the word "extravagance" to her?

These men who make their living

The Millions in these Five Trunks will Soon be but a Mass of Shapeless Pulp

The Committee and Part of Working Force

by putting greenbacks out of commission for good and all are packed men. They possess unusual ability as accountants and most of them have held their unique position for years. The pulp itself is sold to the firm that purchases it for about $20,000 a year. Made originally from the finest quality linen scraps it loses none of its superior qualities even after it has been chewed up by the macerator. The purchasers manufacture it into a very distinctive and easily writing paper that can generally be recognized by its peculiar bluish-gray color and the tiny threads, or fibres, that run through it.

On the appointed day each week the task of destroying misprinted and damaged bank-notes is carried out at the U. S. Treasury, which has its own macerating machines way down in the depths of that huge Government structure. Before the proper witnesses, a similar process of destruction is followed. The notes given to the macerator here are those that have been turned into the Treasury for redemption by National Banks. The face value of the notes is paid in gold or silver certificates of course before the worn-out notes themselves are destroyed.

E. L. Schriener, Chief of the Redemption Division, is in charge of the working force at this little "fortune splitter" and about a dozen representatives of nearly a thousand banks are always present when the bills are macerated. Mr. Schriener receives the bills as they come in from the banks and checks off the packages into which they are tied before packing them in trunks for transportation to the macerator.

Though the bills have been counted before they reach his office, the count is verified under his supervision and every note checked up beyond possibility of escaping the fate awaiting it. Three of his clerks, for example, count millions of dollars in a single day. Generally the tables in his office are littered with a few millions or so done up into bundles that are packed together like the proverbial sardines in a can.

These bundles are packed in the huge trunks provided for that purpose in which they are carried to the macerating room under ground. The machine there is a sort of "melting pot" that reduces the notes to pulp in a few hours instead of in twenty-four as is required by the cylinders in the Bureau of Engraving and Printing. The pulp obtained from this "eat 'em alive" machine is sent by wagon to the Bureau and added to their supply, the whole being shipped to the New York purchaser.

Strange as it may seem, every now and then a letter is received at the Bureau asking that some of the money be turned over to the writer instead of throwing it away. Even charitable institutions have requested a share of the condemned currency and have put up strong appeals on the grounds that they could accomplish so much good with it.

As a matter of fact this wholesale destruction is not an extravagance on Uncle Sam's part, for the notes destroyed are so worn and frayed through much handling that they simply can't be used any longer. Uncle Sam is economical to the extreme and he is ever on the alert to save wherever he can. Under Secretary MacVeach a new system has been installed that is said to effect a saving of $100,000 annually.

This is accomplished by having the sub-Treasuries over the country cancel mutilated bills instead of forwarding them to Washington for cancellation as was formerly done, thus effecting a big saving in expressage. A sub-Treasury now cuts a note to be cancelled in half, perforates one of them with a certain device and forwards it to Washington by registered mail. Upon receipt of this, the second half is forwarded, thus precluding the loss of the note en route by theft.

The task of throwing away millions is done as systematically as though it involved the shipping of products in a wholesale commercial house, a regular schedule being followed. Carved and spoiled postage stamps—an additional phase of the work—are macerated on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at the Bureau. Thursday each week witnesses the disposal of mutilated United States notes, while on Tuesdays the macerating machines are fed on redeemed and mutilated Internal Revenue stamps.

Every Saturday the "melting pot" in the Treasury is "kept boiling" with spoiled National Bank notes. But these are special assignments for the regular work of sending millions where they won't come back is carried on day in and day out.

MAINE AND VERMONT.

It is not so long ago since the Maine election was awaited in the presidential year to sound the keynote for the republican party. But Maine so long ready to accept anything republican has become democratic, having now a democratic governor and democratic representatives in the United States senate. The republican party in Maine is split in two as a result of the Roosevelt defection. Indeed the Bull Moose party seems to have the upper hand of the Taftites, yet both are working under a truce by which it is agreed that neither will try to annihilate the other. This will keep the differentiated national spellbinders away from Maine so far as the various divisions of the republican party are concerned. Governor Wilson will probably speak there; but interest will centre in the Maine election as indicating now, not republican but democratic strength to offset the result in Vermont which will be regarded as an accurate republican barometer. Maine sent Taft delegates to Chicago, Vermont sent six for Taft and two for Roosevelt. The republicans hope to carry Vermont, because the Roosevelt element is weak. If the latter should cut much of a figure, however, there is a possibility that Wilson might carry the state. The situation in both states is intensely interesting and is being closely watched by politicians throughout the country as affording a difficult study in probabilities. The democrats are hopeful of carrying Maine and it is alleged in some quarters that if Taft does not carry Vermont he may as well give up the contest as hopeless.

The Vermont election will be held early in September and that of Maine a week later. The result in each case will be hailed as indicating political sentiment all over the country.

Gov. Wilson is wise in deciding to read no more speeches. It is probable that if Mr. Bryan had not read his speech at Madison Square Garden in 1896 the result of the election would have been different.—Johnston Democrat.

The reading of Bryan's speech at Madison Square Garden was a memorable event in more ways than one. The heat was so oppressive that the audience cast off all the clothing that decency would permit and Bryan himself was the only man of the 10,000 present who was able to wear a coat. Several ambulances in the rear of the hall were kept busy carrying off those overcome with the heat. Bryan certainly got a warm reception and the sweltering thousands yelled themselves hoarse for the next president who as it happened was at a considerable distance away at that particular time. As to the merits of the speech very few who heard it read could pass an opinion until they read it in the newspapers, but it was a great speech. Its great length, not the reading, did the damage.

SWATTING THE FLY

There is little question that there have been fewer flies this summer than in other summers. The campaign against them now going on for some years has produced its expected and desired effect. The best part of it has been not the mere swatting of the fly but the prevention of its propagation. That is what told. With fewer breeding places for the pestiferous and disease-carrying insect, the crop has been smaller and less work produced for the swatters. Cleanliness is the pest's greatest foe, and householders and storekeepers can do much for its extermination by keeping their premises clean.

THE EAR MEN

The session of the otologists in Boston directed attention to the deafening noises from the elevated and surface cars, the early morning racket of the milkmen and other teams that do their work while the people sleep. The aurist must needs find much in Boston to increase his view of the importance of his calling. There is quite as much in the modern city to injure the hearing as there is to injure the sight, and that is saying a great deal.

WHY THE DELAY?

Our government is acting strangely in delaying so long in the matter of recognizing the Chinese republic. Possibly the fear of hurting the feelings of Japan or some of the other monarchial governments in the East explains the delay. If we did not have the Philippines on our hands we should not be so much afraid to act.

While the price of beef has increased over fifty per cent. in a year, the price of American meat in London has decreased very considerably in the same time. Why such a contrast? Because England has been importing cattle from her colonies, Canada, Australia and New Zealand as from Argentina and Mexico. Had President Taft signed the farmers' free list bill the importations of cattle from Canada, Argentina and Mexico would have reduced the price in this country. Yet the republicans tell us that their party tariff is not responsible for the high cost of living.

The fight for the gubernatorial nomination between Foss and Pelletier will wax warm from this time onward. The governor of course, has a great advantage in being in office and controlling the machinery of government; but Pelletier is a vigorous campaigner, a hard hitter, when he gets going. He represents the insurgent democracy. It is customary now to have the titles progressive and insurgent applied to the candidates that claim to branch out towards new policies.

The graft and vice revelations in New York as a result of the Rosenbath murder are really shocking. It is time now for other cities to see that no such grafting business is being carried on with the protection or connivance of the police. Is there any other city in the country harboring a vice trust with 1200 or even a smaller number of women under its control?

If Supt. Thomas knows his business, and we believe he does, he knows full well how the surplus water gets into the city mains. Yet while others carry on a controversy over the matter, the one man who knows is silent. Why?

Candidate Wilson is not making wild promises that can never be fulfilled. He is keeping within the range of probability.

CITY COUSIN

Seen and Heard

A little boy who was very much puzzled over the theory of evolution questioned his mother thus: "Mama, am I descended from a monkey?" "I don't know," the mother replied. "I never knew any of your father's people."

A learned man has said that the three hardest words to pronounce in the English language are "I was mistaken." When Frederick the Great wrote to the senate, "I have just lost a battle, and it's entirely my own fault," Goldsmith says, "His confession showed more greatness than all his victories."

The Australians are evolving a new English language of their own. With three of their words—"barracking," "barrickin," and "barragoo"—we are all familiar, but there are hundreds of others to be found in the dictionary of "Australian English" compiled by Professor Morris. The Sydney Bulletin is offering a prize for the "best sonnet" written in the Australian language. That is to say, a sonnet that would not be understood outside of Australia, says the London Chronicle.

The blueness of sea water is in constant ratio to its saltness. In the tropics the tremendous evaporation induced by the blazing sun causes the water to be much saltier than it is in high latitudes. For about 30 degrees north and south of the equator the waters are of an exquisite green. Beyond these latitudes the blue changes to green and in the Arctic and Antarctic oceans the greens are almost as vivid as the tropical blues.

The extraordinary blueness of the Mediterranean has two causes. Few large rivers of fresh water run into this sea, and, moreover, the Mediterranean is virtually landlocked and exposed to a powerful sun, so that evaporation is rapid. By actual test the waters of the Mediterranean are heavier and saltier than those of the Atlantic ocean. But blue and green are not the only colors observed in the sea. In January, 1903, a river of yellow water three miles wide was observed running parallel with the blue gulf stream. It stretches from Cape Florida to Cape Hatteras, and its color was undoubtedly due to some tropical blueness.

BEAUTIFUL HANDS AND ARMS

A FAMOUS BEAUTY GIVES HER SECRET TO THE WORLD

A Free Prescription You Can Prepare at Your Own Home

Many women take perfect care of their face and clothes, yet neglect their hands. Rough, red hands are almost as unattractive as ill-kept teeth. It is a simple, easy matter to keep your hands smooth and beautiful. The following prescription, which you can compound at your own home, is famous for the marvelous, instantaneous result it gives:

Get from your druggist one ounce of Kulus Compound. Put it in a two-ounce bottle, add quarter of an ounce of white hazel, fill with water and shake well.

You will be surprised at the result which applied to your face, arms or neck. Blemishes of every kind disappear as if by magic. Freckles, tan, rough skin, coarse pores, yield instantly to this application. This is the private prescription of a famous Parisian beauty.

SECRETARY DUFFY HAS PEACE PLAN

NEW BEDFORD, Aug. 20.—Secretary Duffy, who finds that there is a feeling among the operatives that it is possible to meet the manufacturers in conference it should be done, has been working on a plan which he will present to the executive committee of the Weavers' union Wednesday night.

This plan is different from any heretofore offered or suggested, and while Secretary Duffy would not intimate its vital points before the executive committee has had a chance to pass upon it, he said that those associates to whom he had outlined the plan are favorably impressed with it.

It is the general impression that the weavers must make the first move toward settling the strike, and following the statement of a prominent manufacturer that the mills would not open Labor day or for some time after Labor day, unless the present trouble was settled, it has been urged that some effort be made by the weavers to see if some plan could not be presented to the manufacturers which is better than the grading system, which the manufacturers say must be shown to them before they will consider a conference. Secretary Duffy says he thinks he has hit on a plan that will protect both the weaver and the manufacturer, as well as any other operative who is at fault in the manufacture of bad cloth.

Treasurer Hancock of the general strike fund regrets that the collectors taken last week were better than the week before. All destitute cases are being taken care of, and there seems to be only a slight increase in the number of operatives who appear to ask for assistance.

An important meeting of the spinning union will be held tomorrow night, to take action on the strike.

HAVERHILL MEN WENT ON A FISHING TRIP
HAVERHILL, Aug. 20.—Adelard LaBelle and James Bradley, it is feared, were drowned while fishing Sunday at Chadwick's pond in the Bradford district.

Labelle, who lives on Lewis street, left his home last Saturday afternoon with Bradley, intending to go to the Powwow river at East Kensington, N. H. He told his wife that he would return Saturday evening, and as she has heard nothing from him since then, Mrs. LaBelle last night reported his absence to the police.

An investigation showed that Labelle and Bradley missed the train to East Kensington, and instead went to Chadwick's pond. They spent Saturday afternoon fishing there, and were seen again Sunday. As they had not returned home last night, Mrs. LaBelle became alarmed, and fears that the two men, while fishing, have been drowned. The police, after investigating last night and finding no trace of the men from the campers at the pond, declined to begin grappling today.

Almost Lost His Life
S. A. Stid, of Mason, Mich., will never forget his terrible exposure to a mercurial storm. "It gave me a dreadful cold," he writes, "that caused severe pain in my chest, so it was laid for me to breathe. A neighbor gave me several doses of Dr. King's New Discovery which brought great relief. The doctor said I was on the verge of pneumonia, but to continue with the Discovery, and I did so and two bottles completely cured me." HAVERHILL EMPLOYEES HAVE List of Grievances

HAVERHILL, Aug. 20.—David A. Belden, president of the Massachusetts Northeastern Street Railway company, and Franklin Woodman, the general manager, will hold a conference today with a committee of the newly formed local of the Amalgamated Association of Street Railway employees, when a list of grievances prepared by the union will be discussed.

The union was recently formed by National Pres. Fay and National Sec. Sullivan of the Amalgamated association and it is said that 135 employees have joined. Yesterday morning a meeting was held, at which it was decided to apply for a charter, and officers were elected. A committee prepared a list of grievances and last evening 100 employees held a meeting in Tanner's hall at which addresses were made by Pres. Belden and Mr. Woodman.

The committee submitted the list of grievances and it was agreed to hold a conference today. The company operates 140 miles of tracks extending from this city to Hampton and Salisbury beaches, Newburyport, Lawrence, Lowell and Nashua, N. H. The company employs 265 motormen and conductors, and those prominent in the union say that if their demands are not granted the union men will quit work. The principal demand is for the recognition of the union, as there is no question of wages.

The men also ask that employees be given the choice of cars according to seniority. The men, under the present system, are assigned to cars by the division superintendents. An article asking impartial treatment regarding Sundays off duty is also included.

Pres. Belden said tonight that he knew little regarding the movement and could not make a statement about the attitude of the road toward the union, which, he understood, had been formed. He said that whatever demand was made would have to be considered by the directors.

He is a member of that board, which is composed of five members, two of whom are in Europe, so that he said it would be impossible for him to call them together before September. He believed that the success of the Boston Elevated strike increased interest in the union movement and that his road was feeling the result of it.

Another meeting for the night force of motormen and conductors was scheduled after they finished their work. It was not believed that it would be over before 3 a. m. tomorrow.

HAVERHILL, Aug. 20.—Because her father, it is said, objected to her marriage with the man of her choice, Lillian J. Marble, aged 17, daughter of Frank E. Marble of 393 Pleasant street, ran away from home Saturday and married Frank Tracey, aged 21 in Putnam, Conn.

Her father swore out a warrant for her arrest on a charge of being a stubborn child and last night she was arrested and booked at the Worcester police station. She was booked under the name of Marble, but told the officer in charge that her name is Mrs. Frank Tracey in spite of what her father says.

"Father had a man picked out for me, but I did not love him. I loved Frank, so I ran away and married him," she told the police.

MAN FOUND $2600
AND RETURNED MONEY TO RIGHTFUL OWNER
WORCESTER, Aug. 20.—After picking up a roll of money containing $2600, Alfred Mayhew, a collector for the C. T. Sherer company, located the owner and returned it. He made a tour of the banks and found that the package was made up for the Standard Elevator company, and he delivered the bankroll to its rightful owner.

The money was dropped by one of the company's paymasters. The elevator company refused to discuss the case, but it is understood that a substantial reward was paid Mayhew for his honesty.

A LITTLE NONSENSE

THE FISHING CRAZE. "I notice that your garden doesn't look very promising this year."

"No, every time my husband got to digging in it he found worms, and they always reminded him of his fishing tackle."

A POOR SPECIMEN. "Hear Dobbs over there bragging about his wife."

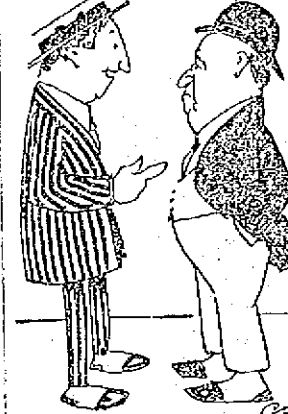

"What's he saying?" "He's telling Marks that all he is he owes to her."

"Humph! Do you call that bragging?"

QUITE RIGHT. "What a brilliant marriage! He is worth several millions and she will inherit at least a billion."

"Would you call that a marriage, or a merger?"

HANDICAP. "So you are busted again? Well, there's a sucker born every minute."

"Yes, and take it from me, old chap, there's a shark born every second."

WORK ENOUGH. "What did you raise on your place this summer?"

"Only the mortgage."

AN AVIATRICE. "Jack—do you think Tom loves her?"

"Fred—the worships the very ground she flies over."

MISS LUCILLE DE MAR

Member of the Team of Egan and De Mar Appearing This Week at the Merrimack Square Theatre

AMUSEMENT NOTES

THEATRE VOYONS

Though of course most Lowell fans are rooting for the Red Sox in the American league, they are much interested in the fight Connie Mack and the Washington bunch are making for second place. Today the Theatre Voyons shows a complete game between these two teams played on the Philadelphia grounds, and shows it most clearly an interesting trip through a baseball factory is given and with the camera one sees every stage in the making of the ball from the start till it is put into play.

LAKVIEW DANCE HALL

Tomorrow night a prize two step will be held at the hall, and as many couples have signified their intentions of participating in the event, the number is sure to be a hummer. Four prizes will be awarded, two firsts and two seconds, and all are well worth winning. Not only to the participants to such an affair very enjoyable but those who view it from the parlor windows also derive a great amusement. Added to the prize number, vocal selections will be given at all sessions by Miss Ethel Knowlton, Lowell's pre-eminent soloist.

LAKVIEW THEATRE

"A Western Girl," a mixture of riotous fun, singing, dancing and some odd complications, opened a week's engagement at the Lakview theatre, yesterday, and Manager Jewell ought to be tickled to death to think he has such an engaging combination. The offering is put forward by the Huffle Stock company, of which John Huffle, a local comedian, is the head and forefront. As the title indicates, the piece is laid in wild and woolly sections of the land and sombreroes, cowboys and cowgirls are the order of the day. The play is a comedy, and the fun making are featured. Performances will be given afternoon and evening during the remainder of the week.

The special attraction at the park during the week, is given by the Chamberlains, expert cowboy lariat throwers and swingers. This attraction holds forth on the open air stage and is free to all.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Five tastefully selected acts put on by clever vaudeville artists form the very pleasing and amusing program at the Merrimack Square theatre this week and a large number of patrons were delighted by the performance yesterday afternoon and evening. The whole bill is a very well selected assortment of good music, both classical and rag time, dancing and singing and there is no monotonous feature. It is just the right combination to please an audience.

A sketch by Egan and De Mars in which they introduced their "Texas Tommy Dance," scored a decided hit and led forth prolonged applause. Mr. Egan has the rare gift of originality which gives added pleasure to an audience. He has a good voice and his natural wit elicits a hearty laugh. Miss De Mars is a lively little miss and has a way of winning over her audience from the very start. In addition, she is a clever dancer as is also her partner and the two present a delightful act in which there is not a dull moment.

Mr. Egan is a "Composer," a well written and well staged playlet, with a pleasing and well balanced mingling of comedy and pathos. The parts are very well carried by Mr. Egan and Miss Williams, and former, though he experienced the setback of a severe cold, handled the piece in his usual entertaining way.

Mr. Egan and Miss Williams, the old songs, possess exceptionally good clear voices and render very well several difficult duets. This attraction has something decidedly new in the line of juggling and hoop rolling and his act is altogether very enjoyable.

Miss Eleanor Burke, the blind girl, is a violinist of rare talent and ability and executed a number of difficult pieces. Her repertoire is of pleasing variety and she had the audience on her side all through. Miss Burke presents one of the best acts on the bill and the applause and encores with which she was greeted were well deserved.

The entire program was evidently arranged with rare judgment as to the tastes and desires of lovers of vaudeville and should continue to be a strong drawing card throughout the week. Call up the box office, 2653, and order your tickets.

THE ACADEMY OF MUSIC

Last night the new Academy gave its initial performance of vaudeville and pictures and certainly it was a hummer for the evening. The sign "standing room only" was displayed, and the house was filled to its capacity. When the curtain went up the first feature on the program was the Great Latelle, who is a wonderful impersonator of a dog and is quite amusing. This impersonation was one of the leading features of the evening. In New York Judging by the applause which was given at the close of this act last evening it is well worth the title "Feathered Friend."

While Latelle himself is the whole act, nevertheless, his partner who is a charming young lady with a good voice and a talent for dancing, made a hit with the audience. Her performance serves as a preliminary to the appearance of the great Latelle himself and is a most interesting factor in the animal itself. He is seized with a fit of illness after endeavoring to smoke a pipe and his work here forms one of the best and amusing features of the act. The whole act is well staged and splendidly executed and Mr. Latelle should be a strong factor in drawing many patrons to the theatre.

Bob McDonald, the Scotch piper was quite a feature in his act with both songs and playing. The afternoon performance in good spirits while he was on the stage. The bawkins are not his only forte as he is doing a very nice selection on the xylophone.

His act is filled with real Scotch music and wit and his work in playing the several instruments with which he is evidently familiar, proved itself worthy of prolonged applause. Brisk and Briscoe, two comedy jugglers and balancers are very clever in their act of this pair is filled with comedy and besides has many new and difficult features which are well worth seeing. The act is very clear and sturdy, which is quite an advantage to any theatre. The program includes modern drama and stories of the wild west, all well portrayed and coming from the best studios. "A Western Courtship" is an example of the latter kind and "Scenes in Havana" is very pleasing as well as instructive.

On Thursday the bill will be changed and the special attractions for the remainder of the week will be the Arlon Quartet, Charles Willis, the Mad German and Harper and Lovell, singing and dancing comedians. The theatre has been thoroughly renovated and is very neat and clean in its appearance, as well as being built so as best to accommodate a large audience. The afternoon performances start at 2 o'clock and continue until 5 o'clock. That of the evening opens at 7:30 and continues until 10:30. The prices are exceedingly reasonable.

The ushers are under the direction of Miss Catherine McCann, who has served in that capacity for several seasons.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 20.—Being dependent on dry conditions there was little prospect of any tennis at the Casino during the forenoon hours today, owing to a heavy rainstorm. The Casino courts were flooded but the soil is so porous and the drainage so good that many of the players were ready to go on the courts as soon as the down-pour should cease.

AUTOMOBILE NEWS

THE LOCAL AUTO DEALERS HAVE HAD A GOOD SEASON

Are Now Waiting for the Arrival of Next Year's Models—Other Auto News

The local automobile dealers are now making big preparations for the arrival of the 1913 models and it is expected that within a month the different agents will be displaying the new models.

The 1912 season proved to be very successful and it is expected that the coming season will be even more successful.

The Popular Buick

The Lowell Automobile company, with sales and show rooms and garage in Appleton street, corner of Post Office avenue, and general repair shop in Arch street, near the Middlesex street station, has just closed one of the most successful years in the history of the company and the credit for the same is due in a large measure to the business ability and personality of Mr. Frederick B. Emerson, the general manager of the local company and Mr. Milo W. Hale, Jr., that clever salesman, together with expert demonstrators and machinists in the employ of the company.

This company is agent for the celebrated Buick pleasure and commercial cars and those who have lived in Lowell for any length of time know full well that there are more cars of that make in the city today than any other make of car. It might be said that the car is sold at a reasonable price, for it is, but it has the power, the beauty of design, the practically silent engine, an equipment which is not surpassed by cars which sell for more than twice the price of the Buick and all in all can well be called the popular automobile.

The Buick company has established an enviable reputation for building high grade serviceable cars and the 1913 line represents the best efforts of its mammoth organization. The success of the past season—when the entire output was sold early in June—is evidence of the quality of the Buick product and an indication of what may be expected for 1913. The claim of the company that "no car at any price can give more real motor car value" seems to be a well known fact or else there would not be so many Buicks in this city at the present time.

Every model in the line is so built that it will not only protect, but enhance the reputation so emphatically won and so firmly established.

The pleasure cars for 1913 vary from the model 24 roadster selling at $350 to the model 10 five passenger touring car which is listed at $1650. These prices include every practical improvement that has demonstrated its value, either in the operation of the car or the convenience and pleasure of its owner.

The slogan of the Buick company is "When better automobiles are built Buick will build them." In conversation with the automobile editor of The Sun this morning, Manager Emerson stated that although the number of Buick cars, both pleasure and commercial vehicles, far exceeded those of previous years, that at the present time there is not a new Buick for sale, even the demonstrating cars having been sold. The only Buick that is left is a second hand 2 A truck which has been completely overhauled and painted and is now on exhibition in the show room and will be sold at a sacrifice.

Sales During the Week

During the past week, which is considered by all dealers the worst week in the season, inasmuch as it is supposed to be the week just prior to the showing of next year's cars, several cars were sold through the agency of the Lowell Automobile company.

Mr. E. A. Lapham purchased a model 10 Buick and A. E. Wilson of Greenfield, Mass., is now the possessor of a 2 A truck. A model 25 will soon be delivered to Mr. E. A. Proctor of Ayer, Mass., and Supt. Royal P. White, of the Effingham mills has purchased a model 35 Buick.

Continuing Mr. Emerson said: "We have cleared out everything but a second hand truck and expect that our 1913 models will be on exhibition either next week or the week following. The demand for Buicks has been so great that we have got to send our orders in early but the order for next year's Buicks will be much larger than they were during the season of 1912 but we will surely sell every one of them as we have done this year."

Excellent Fire Equipment

The two Oakland cars for the use of the deputy chiefs of the fire department have been delivered and with the automobile protective and chief's car, already in service, and the three pieces of big apparatus which, Commissioner Barrett intends to purchase, will place the equipment of the Lowell fire department on a par with the fire department of any city the size of Lowell in the United States.

Commissioner Barrett, Chief Hosmer of the fire department and in fact every citizen in Lowell has realized by this time that the automobile will soon supplant the horse and put the department on a very high standard. Although the Lowell fire department under the careful guidance of Chief Hosmer is recognized as one of the best departments in the country the addition of self-propelled vehicles means better service and less loss of property and lives.

Deputy Chief Edward F. Saunders, who is proficient in the art of operating and caring for an automobile, has been operating his machine with success for several days and within a few days Deputy Chief James C. Sullivan will be seen racing his car through the streets when an alarm of fire rings in. Deputy Saunders' machine will be located at Engine 5 house in Fletcher street while Deputy Sullivan's car will be stationed at Hose Company No. 7 house in Central street.

F. E. Adams, agent for the Pratt-Elkhart car in Lowell and vicinity, delivered a 1913 model to J. B. Packard of Acton, last week. Among the improvements noted on this car this season is an electrically controlled lighting and self-starting device.

MATRIMONIAL

Mr. Ralph S. Hickey and Miss Margaret H. Hickey were united in marriage yesterday afternoon at St. Michael's parochial residence by Rev. F. J. Mullin. The bride was attended by Miss Helen E. Hickey, sister of the groom, while Mr. Hickey's best man was Mr. Alexander Harley of Fall River, Mass., a brother of the bride. After the ceremony, luncheon was served at the home of the bride, to all immediate relatives of the family. After a short wedding trip they will reside in this city.

MILITARY RIFLE TOURNAMENT

Wakenfield, Aug. 20.—Marksmen from the New England states, the marine corps, the United States army and New Jersey competed in the eighth annual meeting of the New England Military Rifle Association which opened today. Weather conditions were poor, steady rain falling during the early part of the day. Five matches were on the card.

THE NATIONAL TOUR

Their Will be Many Entries This Year

Entries are going to be numerous for the 1912 National Reliability Tour of the American Automobile Association, much known as the "Glidden," which will start from Detroit, Mich., during the second week of October, and will run through Adrian, Fort Wayne, Muncie, Anderson and Indianapolis to Louisville; thence from Louisville to Nashville, with two brief detours en route—one to visit the Lincoln farm near Hodgenville, and the other to the Mammoth cave.

From Nashville the route will go down through Columbia, Tenn., to Florence, Sheffield, and Tusculum, Ala., where a turn west will be made to the Mississippi river at Memphis. The tour will then go nearly directly south to Jackson, Miss., thence west to Vicksburg, and either return to Jackson or follow a southeasterly direction below Vicksburg, entering the main line at a point below Jackson. Its final course will be from Baton Rouge to New Orleans.

The A. A. A. National Tour is always the leading event of its kind in the automobile world, and this year should be greater than any of the previous ones. It will be, in effect, a "Lakes-to-Gulf-Tour," and a beside traversing interesting sections of Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, Tennessee, Mississippi and Louisiana, will open up a through line between the North and the South that will be sure to attract a great deal of tourist travel. It will also be the greatest possible stimulant to good roads in the territory through which the tour travels.

FROM OCEAN TO OCEAN

New Transcontinental Tour Mapped Out

The first complete road route between New York city and the Pacific Northwest has just been completed by the arrival in Seattle of A. L. Westgard, official A. A. A. representative, who left the metropolis on July 1 for the purpose of charting a complete transcontinental route via Buffalo, Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Bismarck, N. D., Miles City, Billings, Livingston, Butte, Missoula, Montana, and Spokane, Wash. Between New York and North Dakota, the schedule laid out in advance was easily kept; but owing to a cloudburst and heavy rain there was a delay of over a week along the Yellowstone river in Montana, which made it impossible for the expedition to reach the Anconada Good Roads convention. However, some of the stretches that were covered with difficulty have already been slated for improvement; and good roads interest has been aroused throughout Montana.

One excellent result of this trip, which appropriately was made with Pathfinder car, will be a complete log with odometer distances, all land marks and other necessary information through to Yellowstone National park, and also to Glacier National park. The transcontinental route passes through Livingston, Montana, but upon arrival there, Mr. Westgard went down to Gardiner, the northern entrance to the park, in order to get complete details. Similarly on arrival at Kalispell, he made a northward detour to Glacier National park, taking equally complete notes, and of course, this also makes a complete route, connecting Yellowstone and Glacier National parks.

SUMMER SCHOOL

HAS SOLVED A VERY IMPORTANT PROBLEM

No American teacher or adult student need go without higher training, no matter how deficient his early education may have been. The summer school has solved the problem.

In many ways the growth of the summer school movement is one of the most interesting aspects of education in the United States. About one-third of the colleges and universities hold summer sessions, and many of the normal schools have taken up the work. At the normal school of the United States, a session of eight weeks was held, the first in the history of the institution, and 290 enthusiastic teachers were in attendance. At the summer session of the Winthrop Normal college, Rock Hill, S. C., particular attention was paid to problems of instruction in education and rural schools, and men of national prominence participated in the work.

These are but a few of many indications of the marvelous spread of the summer school idea all over the country.

REBELS BEATEN

IN AN ATTEMPT TO CAPTURE MOCTEZUMA

DOUGLAS, Ariz., Aug. 20.—Rebels numbering 450 were defeated in an attempt to capture Moctezuma, according to advices received here. Moctezuma is an important town less than 100 miles southwest of this point on the border.

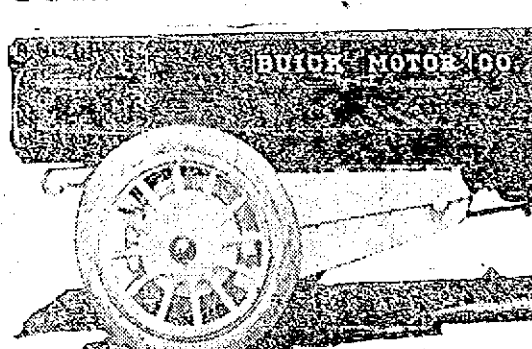

Foreigners are preparing to leave the district. There are many Americans at El Tigre, Nacozari and Gumpas. Many small towns have been taken by rebels. A group of 600 rebels held the San Luis pass and the rebels appear to be in a position to retain their position until the entrance of the main rebel army.

Two Beauty Secrets for Summer Months

Hair requires frequent shampooing in summer because of the great amount of dust and soot in the air, and if you dissolve a teaspoonful of cantbox in a cup of hot water you will have ample mixture for a cleansing, invigorating and wonderfully satisfying shampoo. After using cantbox, the hair dries quickly and evenly, and will be ever so soft and brilliant even in the hottest weather. Then you can do your hair up in any style with little effort.

A spumax lotion is ideal for hot weather, because it permits the pores to do their work properly, and when this is done pimples, blackheads, oiliness and fine lines vanish. To make, add 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine to 1 pint witch hazel (or not water), then put in 4 ounces spumax. After the spumax lotion is applied to the face it is invisible and imparts a youthful charm and tint to any complexion.

LOCAL GREEKS LEAVE
FOR NATIVE LANDFifty-Six Will Sail From
N. Y. Tomorrow

A large party of local Greeks left this city late yesterday afternoon, and they will sail from New York tomorrow for their native land. There were 56 in the party and they took the 5.05 train from the depot which brought them to Fall River. There they took the boat for New York, where they are to leave for the old country. They were accompanied to the station by a large number of friends, who were there to wish them bon voyage. One of the number said that he was going to the old country to bring his wife and children back here, and while many others expect to return, the greater number mean to remain in Greece for some time.

Five immigrants arrived at the station this morning on the Fall River train, and they later took a train for Franklin, N. H.

The Fall River train was one hour and twenty minutes late in arriving here today. The cause of the delay was due to the wreck to the White Mountain express train which was derailed near The Wells, N. H., this morning. There was a large crew of men at work on the wreck and during the afternoon the train was running on time.

Passage was reported as quite light today.

Dick Murphy's Baden
Baden is one of the fastest trotters at the Rockingham meet and has been one of the biggest money winners of the season. In fact, everything accounted for, he has probably been the biggest winner of the season. Baden was owned by Richard P. Murphy of this city two years ago and since that time Baden has trotted himself into highest favor in the horse world. He is one of the most consistent race horses in the country and is much sought after today.

Mr. Murphy bought Baden a three-year-old in 1910 and after he had taken a mark of 134. Before selling his good find Mr. Murphy had given Baden a mark of 134 and he has been trotting that time ever since. Mr. Murphy sold Baden to Louis Nephew of Jersey City, N. J. Baden has trotted a fine record of late. Walter Cox's trotting "Chatty" and as they will they cannot start Baden on his head. He has a good supply of gray matter and the pluck and endurance to go with it. Baden will start in the 2-15 class, trotting, tomorrow. The purse is $300.

CITY'S FINANCES

weekly; and for all salaries charged by ordinance, and all other charges of departments shall make up pay rolls of all employees in their departments required to be paid weekly, as aforesaid, and shall deliver said pay rolls to the city auditor on each day as he shall designate, and as soon as any pay roll is drawn and allowed by the city auditor, he shall immediately draw his draft upon the city treasurer for payment, and when said pay rolls are paid in full, they shall be returned to the city auditor for his file.

Payments

Section 12.—No money shall be paid out of the city treasury, except upon an order or resolution of the municipal council; provided, however, that any sum of money appropriated, and set apart by the municipal council to be paid or applied toward the interest or principal of any debt or bond of the city of Lowell, may be so paid upon a draft of the treasurer or of the finance committee, countersigned by the auditor, without any action of the municipal council; and provided, further, that, in all cases, interest coupons on any bond issued by the city may be paid upon a draft of the treasurer or of the finance committee, countersigned by the auditor, and provided, further, that, when any bond proceedings are pending in which the city of Lowell is a party, and in which it is necessary for the city to pay money in advance to the witnesses, such money may be paid to the city auditor by the city treasurer upon the written order of the municipal council.

Collection

Section 13.—The city treasurer shall demand payment in writing of all accounts due the city, and in case any such accounts are pending at the expiration of two months after such demand, the city treasurer shall report the same to the city auditor, who shall resort to the proper legal methods for collection.

Cemeteries

Section 14.—The city treasurer shall receive and have the care and custody of all sums of money paid by persons for the perpetual care of lots in any of the city cemeteries, and the treasurer shall constitute a special fund to be known as the cemetery fund for perpetual care of lots. He shall invest the money of this fund in securities in which, by law, the funds of savings banks may be invested, and pay the amount of interest realized thereon into the city treasury, and he shall notify, when occasion requires, the commissioner of public property and licenses of all such payments so made, on account of lots and graves together with a description of said lots and graves on account of which such payments are made. He shall annually, or at such times as the commissioner of public property and licenses shall request, pay to the commissioner the amount of interest received by him from the investment of said money.

Approvals

Section 15.—No money shall be paid out of the city treasury, except in the cases provided in this chapter, unless the expenditures or the terms of the contract shall be vouched for by the head of the department and commissioner under whose authority the same has been authorized and made, nor unless the same shall have been examined by the city auditor and approved by the municipal council.

Authorizations

Section 16.—Before the issuing of any order on the treasurer for the payment of any money from the city treasury on an ordinance, order, or resolution of the municipal council, a certified copy of the original resolution, ordinance, order or vote, authorizing or directing said payment, and bearing the official signature of the city clerk, shall be filed with the city auditor and city treasurer.

Debts

Section 18.—The city treasurer shall cause to be prepared a register of the number, date, amount, day of payment and rate of interest of every city note, bond or other obligation now outstanding, which register shall be placed in the custody of the city auditor, and whenever any note, bond or other obligation of the city shall hereafter be issued, the city treasurer shall present the same to the city auditor, who shall record in said register all the particulars above stated, and shall certify, upon said note, bond or other obligation, that it has been duly registered, and whenever any city note, bond or other obligation shall be paid or cancelled, the city treasurer shall immediately exhibit the same to the city auditor, who shall thereupon record in said register that such payment or cancellation has been made; and every person paying a property tax in this city shall have a right to inspect said register of the city debt.

Manifests

Section 19.—All officers and departments required to deposit bills with the city treasurer for collection, or to issue licenses upon the payment of fees to the city treasurer, shall file with the city auditor a certificate of the total amount of all bills to be deposited and of licenses so issued, with a statement of the accounts to which the same should be credited when paid.

Certificates

Section 20.—All officers and departments required by law to pay fees or moneys received by them to the city treasurer shall file with the city auditor certificates of the amounts to be paid to the city treasurer, with a statement of the sources from which said fees or moneys were received.

Taxes

Section 21.—The assessors of taxes shall file with the city auditor certificates of the amount of all taxes assessed by them whenever the same shall be certified to the city treasurer for collection.

Abatements

Section 22.—Upon the abatement of any unpaid tax or taxes, the board of assessors shall make duplicate certificates thereof, and one of the amounts so abated, and shall thereupon deliver one of said certificates to the city treasurer as collector of taxes, who has in his hands, for collection, the tax or taxes so abated, and one to the city auditor, and the sum or sums so abated and certified shall be credited to said treasurer in the settlements of his accounts.

Outstandings

Section 25.—Every city official shall present to the city auditor on or before the tenth day of January in each year, certified accounts of all sums due and unpaid for services rendered or labor performed by them, or under their direction, or for materials furnished, for or on account of the city during the fiscal year ending on the 31st day of December.

Incomplete Contracts

Section 26.—Departments shall present to the city auditor on the tenth day of January in each year, a statement of all incomplete contracts made by them, with the probable amounts to become due thereunder, as near as the same can be obtained or ascertained, and also a statement of any purchases made by them for or on account of the city, for which no account has been rendered, together with the reasons for the neglect to present said statement.

Bills

Section 27.—All bills for labor, material, also assessments, except taxes, shall be made in triplicate form, the original and duplicate to be left with the city auditor with a list of the bills, and the triplicate to be retained by the department issuing the bill. The city auditor shall record such bills and give them to the city treasurer and charge him with the collection of same.

Receipts

Section 28.—No official or employee of any department shall give a receipt to any person or persons for money collected. All accounts must be paid to the treasury department, as the city treasurer and city collector is the only authorized person to receive money for the city, all bills paid the city must have the stamp of that department.

Requisitions

Section 29.—All requisitions for material and supplies must be presented to the auditor's department for approval before the final order is given to furnish the same, said requisition to show the total amount of the contract and the departments to be supplied. No requisition shall be approved by the auditor unless the appropriation is sufficient to cover the same.

Real Estate, Etc.

Section 32.—The city auditor shall annually present to the municipal council a schedule of all the real estate of the city, also a summary of the inventories of departments, giving the valuation of all the personal property belonging to the city which may be in the custody of any officer or agent of the city; and for this purpose, every officer of the city, or other person in whose control or custody any such property may be, is hereby required to present to the city auditor, on or before the first Monday in February in each year a detailed inventory of all of such property, giving the items and valuation thereof.

Committee on Accounts

Section 33.—The following ordinances are hereby repealed: Accounts, finance and expenditures, chapter 1, 1894; auditor of accounts, chapter 2, 1894; city treasurer, chapter 3, 1894; providing for estimates for appropriations and for other purposes, 1898; treasurer to prescribe bookkeeping, 1906; auditor and treasurer to prescribe bookkeeping, 1908, and all ordinances or parts of ordinances inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed.

ELKS' OUTING

The annual outing of the Association of Massachusetts Elks will be held at Paragon park on Thursday of this week and elaborate arrangements have been made for the affair. The event will be one of the largest in Elks' history and representatives from all lodges in the state will be present. Lowell will be well represented, as over fifty members of the local lodge are to attend.

The festivities will be opened with a grand street parade from the Elks' rooms to Rowe's wharf, in which all will turn out, with full uniform. Upon reaching the wharf the members will march to the boats and sail down the bay to Nantasket. While many will remain at the beach, the exercises of the celebration will be held in the park. An entertainment in which "members only" will be the order will be carried out, and many speakers will be heard. Several of the talented members of Lowell lodge will be among the entertainers. Dinner will be served at the Palm garden. The return home will be made by boat to Boston, where the rooms will be thrown open to the guests.

TRAIN JUMPED THE TRACK WHILE GOING AT 25-MILE CLIP

Crash Occurred Near Lakeport, N. H.—Mail Clerk Though In- jured, Stuck to Post

LAKEPORT, N. H., Aug. 20.—That only one man, Harvey Conant of Concord, N. H., mail clerk in the mail car, was injured when passenger train No. 69 northbound on the White Mountain division of the Boston & Maine was wrecked about 2 1/2 miles above the Lakeport station at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon is considered a miracle by the railroad officials and the 200 passengers escaped without injury.

The train, made up of a locomotive, mail and express car, baggage car, smoker, two day coaches and two parlor cars, due to leave the Lakeport station at 3:15, was running 25 miles late and when on the curve, about 2 1/2 miles above Lakeport toward The Weirs, left the rails, the baggage car and mail cars standing up and jumping about 75 feet from the track.

The smoker and day coaches all left the track and the front trucks of the first parlor car left the track, the last parlor car remaining on. The tender of the engine turned over on its side, but the big engine while off the iron kept right side up.

The mail car was badly damaged, a part of the side being ripped away, while inside the mail was scattered in every direction. The mail clerk, Harvey Conant of Concord, was thrown against the side of the car and injured about the hips.

He refused to leave his post and, settling on the floor of the car, went to work to sort his mail. He was examined by Dr. A. H. Harriman of Laconia while at his work and pluckily stuck to his job, refusing all entreaties to be taken to a house or a hospital.

The express matter was in a section of this car and the express messenger, F. P. Hobbs of Concord, was thrown about in the car, but fortunately escaped with only a few scratches on the face.

The contents of this car were piled up in a heap with the express safe on top.

H. S. Rines, baggage master, from Dorchester, Mass., escaped without injury, although thrown about in this car. The trucks and grips were mixed, but the damage here was not so bad as in the mail car.

The smoker and day coaches, while leaving the rail, were not badly damaged and none of the passengers injured. The only damage to the smoker was to the forward trucks. The passengers were shaken up and for a second or so badly frightened, but there was not the least bit of excitement, and all rushed from the cars as soon as they came to a stop.

The coolness of the women passengers was remarkable, as they showed no excitement nor hurry, and after learning that no one had been seriously injured they stood about the wreck talking and laughing as if nothing had happened.

It is only with thankfulness that the passengers gaze at the position of the cars after leaving the train, for if the cars had gone off the other side to the right they would have plunged into the water of Lake Pausus and the wreck would have been another story.

Track Badly Torn Up

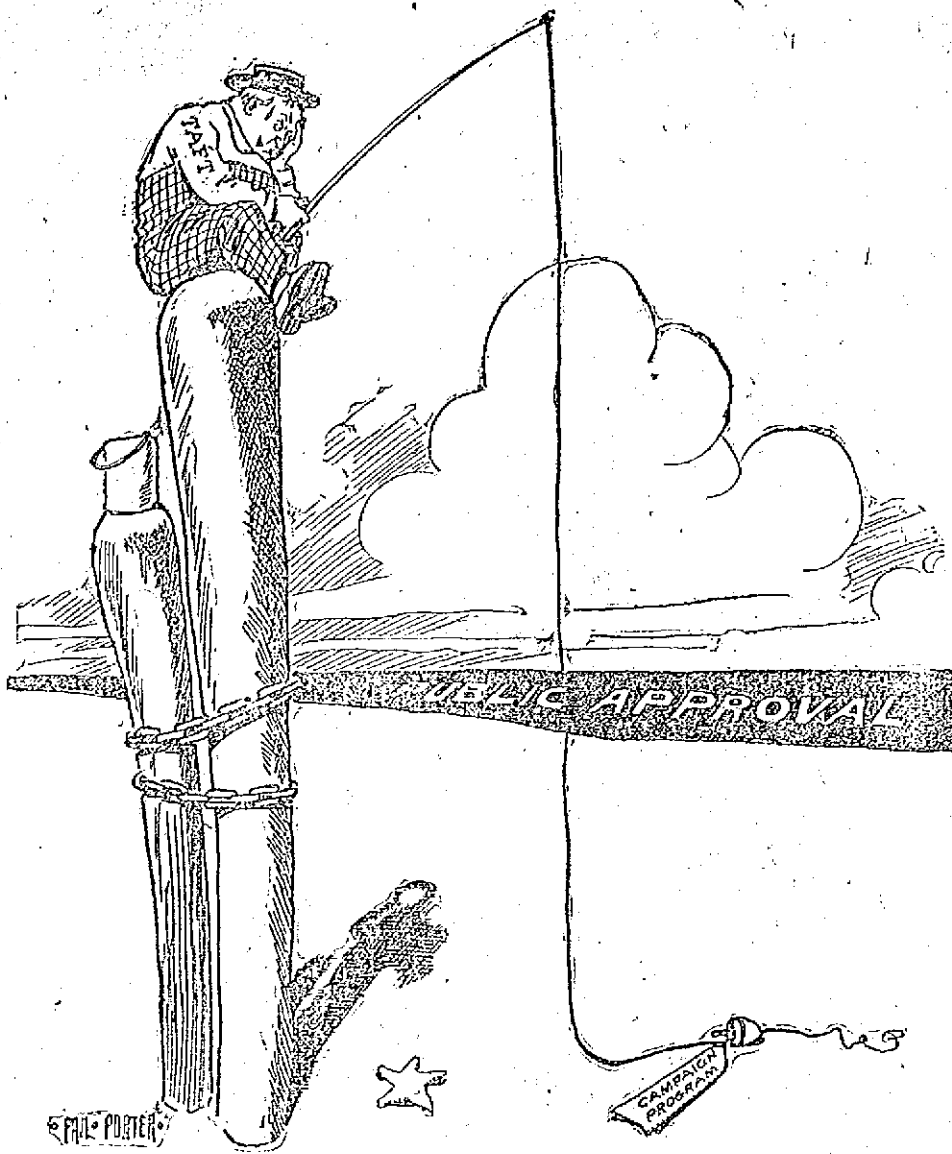

The track was torn up, rails twisted in every direction and telephone poles were completely demolished. Wrecking crews from Concord, Woodsville and Lyndonville, Vt., were rushed to the scene and are at work clearing away the wreck and getting the track opened for traffic, which will be resumed in the morning.

The express south was sent down over the northern road and the local train No. 72 was made up at Lakeport, the train from the north running to the wreck and the passengers being conveyed around.

The train was in charge of conductor T. B. Munk of Boston, Engineer George W. Calkins of Concord and Fireman Roy Knocks of Concord. When the news of the wreck reached Laconia doctors were rushed to the scene, but their services were not needed.

A large number of the members of the summer colony rushed to the scene of the wreck in their power boats, many of them living on the opposite shore of the lake having heard the crash of the wreck, and it was only a few minutes before they were on the spot to render aid if it had been necessary.

Mr. Calkins at that time was thrown from his cab into the lake and swam ashore.

WOMAN ALLEGES ALIENATION OF HUSBAND'S AFFECTIONS

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 20.—Charging a conspiracy on the part of her husband's family to alienate his affections and that the conspiracy was successful to such an extent that on May 20, 1910, he fraudulently procured a divorce while she was visiting friends in New York Mrs. Katherine N. White, has started suit for $100,000 against Arthur O. White; her husband's mother, Mrs. Catherine Scammon; his aunt, Mrs. Helen Tuttle, and Charles H. Gilman, son-in-law of Mrs. Scammon.

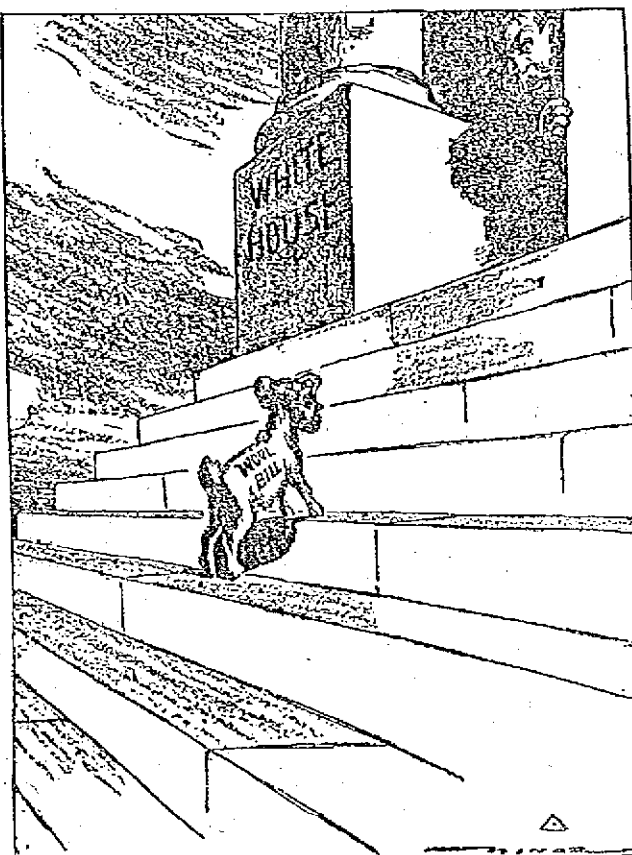

The suit has aroused much interest because of the position of the Scammons and Tuttle's and the immense amount of money said to be represented by the defendants in the action. It is said that the combined wealth of Mrs. Scammon and her sister, Mrs. Tuttle is between $50,000,000 and $50,000,000. In Milwaukee the family has immense property holdings and has property in New York and in Asbury Park, N. J.

How to See Colorado and the Yellowstone

By all means make your plans include Colorado. A week of that glorious air will do you good for a lifetime. And that wonderful sky, even litly cannot match it for clear, deep, turquoise beauty. Then the mountains—they tower above you everywhere seeming to raise your spirit with them into the cool and restful cloudland. It's a new experience. But you must also see the Yellowstone to complete your vacation. And it's easy if you take advantage of the reduced fare rates offered to summer tourists. Your ticket will take you through Colorado, the Regal Rockies and on to Salt Lake City and then bring you northward to the wonderful Yellowstone country. Neither pictures nor words can give you an idea of the beauty of the geysers, mud volcanoes, brilliantly colored rocks, mysterious rivers, thundering waterfalls, precipices, chasms, canyons and the million-year old mountains you will see there. Your trip will give you a fresh enthusiasm.

I am employed by the Burlington Route to answer all your questions. I'll tell you the cost, the best places to see, and your handsome folders, and even arrange to get your tickets and Pullman berth if you'll write telling me about when you would like to go. When you write me, a postal will do.

Your Hands Are Worth $4,000

That is the value given them if you lose the use of them.

You, therefore, wish to keep them smooth, soft, white and refined—a Lady's hands.

Some common laundry soaps eat color out of cloth and beauty out of hands.

We make a laundry soap which is good for the hands, which outsells all others in New England twice over.

It is also marvelously quick in washing the clothes clean, fresh, like new. It is safe for washing the daintiest fabrics.

One reason for its magic quality is the amount of Borax used in its manufacture—5 times as much as all other laundry soaps made in New England combined.

Costs the same as other laundry soaps—5c, at your dealer's.

Your grocer will give your money back if you can find a better laundry soap.

AMERICAN OUTLAW DEAD WAS HUNTED BY TROOPS

He Defied All Authority and Pursued Career of an Elephant Poacher

LONDON, Aug. 20.—Hunted down by British soldiers in the depths of the jungles of Central Africa where, for years, in defiance of all authority, he had pursued the career of an elephant poacher and illicit ivory trader, James Ward Rogers, an American, is dead. He was shot down by a little force of troops which had been sent into the wilderness in pursuit with orders not to return without the outlaw, dead or alive.

News of Rogers' death came formally today to the British colonial office from Capt. V. C. Fox, inspector of Mongalla province, who commanded the expedition. Although told in an official report, the story revealed is one of the most dramatic in colonial annals.

For years Rogers had carried on his lawless trade, which popular opinion credited with nothing but a fortune. The remote regions along the Lado Enclave and the Congo boundaries were the scene of his operations. Time after time British officials of the Sudan had tried in vain to trap him. It was this prolonged defiance which determined the government to crush the old man.

Capt. Fox's report shows that in his long operations Rogers had done more than had been dreamed of by the colonial office. He had established an organized administration over the wild, trackless country, and among the natives was a virtual if uncrowned king.

The success of the outlaw in handling his "subjects" and in the pursuit of his trade drew from Capt. Fox, in his report, the tribute that Rogers' work was worthy of a better cause. Not since the explorer, Henry M. Stanley, pierced the jungles in 1871 and found Dr. Livingstone, has such a tale of hardships, trials and dangers come out of Africa. Capt. Fox's report, in this respect, resembles most nearly perhaps the tale of Gen. Funston's dogged pursuit of Aguinaldo in the Philippines.

For the purpose of tracking the outlaw, the English commander was given a non-commissioned subordinate and six Sudanese soldiers. Body carriers and six mules for the transportation of supplies were part of his equipment. His instructions were plain—not to return until the outlaw was captured.

With a soldier's disregard for red tape, Capt. Fox, in his report fails to mention dates in describing the man hunt. Apparently the denouement of the jungle drama came three months ago.

The pursuers then had spent weeks plunging through the almost impassable jungle. Rogers cunningly led them through the densest swamps and forests and across deep streams. Before the outlaw was overtaken he had crossed the Nile into the Belgian Congo.

Crossed Nile

Creeping up the Uganda bank of the Nile, the expedition pushed forward for six weeks before the quarry was located. Fox and his men then had worn their clothes to tatters and exhausted their supplies, leaving them facing starvation in the wilderness.

The last 12 hours of the pursuit were particularly trying. The chase led over a mountain with Rogers' men only a short distance in advance. As they fled, the ape-like natives sent back taunts and jeers at their pursuers.

Dramatic in the extreme is Captain Fox's description of the death of Rogers. Into the jungle into which they descended from the mountain his party came suddenly upon a camp. A native approached the English officer and said:

"The commander wants you to come in. He is sick and cannot come out." Entering the hut, Captain Fox found himself in a room dimly lighted by a candle. A white man was lying on a couch, and beside him sat a companion, also white. For a time there was a dead silence. Captain Fox believing he had been led into a trap. Then he asked:

"Which is Mr. Rogers?"

"Mr. Rogers has been shot," replied the outlaw's companion.

"Yes," interrupted Rogers, "and by your men."

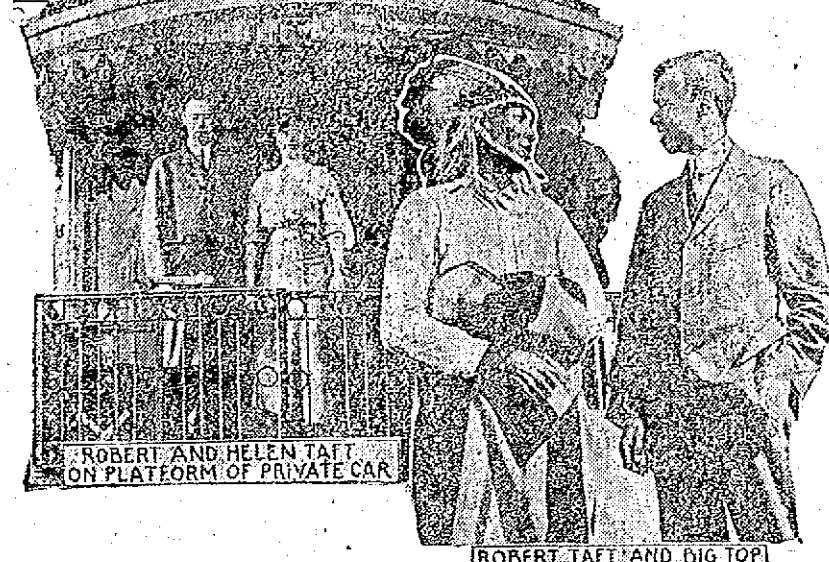

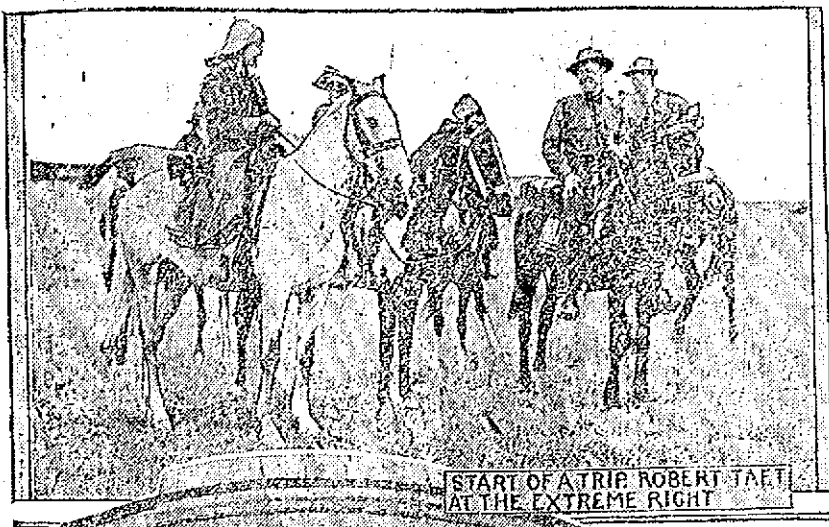

"Come stand right here so I can look at you," Rogers continued. His eyes were blazing, and from beneath a blanket he drew a revolver and pointed it at the officer.

"I am a dying man, I guess," he said. "I didn't think they could kill old Rogers, but they got him this time!"

"Still you are in Belgian territory,"

$5000 FORFEIT

TO STAGE THE JOHNSON-JEAN- NETTE BOUT

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—Assurance that the proposed bout between Jack Johnson and Joe Jeannette would be staged in this city advanced a step last night when the McMahon brothers posted with the sporting editor of a New York newspaper a certified check for $5000 as a forfeit binding them to stage the bout at the St. Nicholas A. C., Sept. 25. It was said here that Johnson was expected to post a $5000 forfeit in Chicago.

There is still great doubt that the state athletic commission, which registers boxing in New York state, will allow the two colored men to appear here. Some months ago when promoters here were trying to get Johnson to appear, the members of the commission let it be known that they would oppose the idea.

BOSTON, Aug. 20.—Mrs. Marie Savarino of South Boston, East Boston, was held in $1000 by the United States commissioner yesterday, charged with conspiracy in an alleged "white slave" case. She is accused of having purchased a ticket for Carmine Viorio and accompanying her to New York. Mrs. Savarino will have a hearing Aug. 28.

The commissioner also held in $3000 personal recognizance, Harry A. Wright, head of a detective agency, on a charge of concealing George Baum, an alleged deserter from the United States army. He will have a hearing Aug. 27.

THE CARDINAL

MAY GO TO THE EUCHARISTIC CONGRESS

It is the general opinion among the Catholic clergymen of the archdiocese who are intimate with the movements of Cardinal O'Connell that the latter will attend the Eucharistic congress to be held in Vienna, Sept. 12 to 15, and that in consequence he will not arrive home before the early part of October and possibly his arrival in Boston may be later.

His Eminence left New York the latter part of June on one of the Holland line boats for a tour of the continent and since he left no definite information has been received as to when he will be in Boston. Advice from those in Vienna, however, indicate that he will attend the Eucharistic congress.

Added weight is given to this news as the Rev. Frederick A. Murphy, O. F. M., who has been doing missionary work in China for some years, will leave on the Ivernia from New York for Vienna Thursday from the United States to the congress. On his arrival there it is expected that he will meet the cardinal to complete arrangements for a series of lectures to be given in the archdiocese by him in October to raise funds for the missions in Hupsh province, China.

LARCENY CHARGED

BOSTON, Aug. 20.—Claimed by the police to be interested in a $10,000,000 corporation for international financing, Dr. Solomon Lemor, a chiropractor, was arrested yesterday by Inspector Lynch of police headquarters and turned over to the Fitchburg authorities, who had a warrant charging Lemor with the securing of $115 worth of jewelry from J. P. Holbrook in Fitchburg May 3.

Lemor lives at 315 Essex street, Salem, where he is well known. Lynch arrested him in the business district, where he was trying to locate a friend who has an office in that vicinity.

GOODWIN WILL RECOVER From the Injuries That He Received

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 20.—Nat C. Goodwin, the actor, is not so seriously injured as was reported when he was dashed ashore on Rocky Point beach recently. While Mr. Goodwin sustained internal injuries, it has been found that no operation is necessary and that he will be able to be out again in a month's time. The early reports that Mr. Goodwin was perhaps mortally hurt were due to the fact that the physicians were unable to make a complete diagnosis of his injuries at the time.

GIVEN 18 MONTHS

MAN SENTENCED FOR LARCENY OF PINS

BOSTON, Aug. 20.—Charles P. Harris, 47 years old, of 28 West 139th street, New York, was sentenced to 18 months in jail by Judge Murray in the municipal court yesterday afternoon on the charge of the larceny of two stick pins valued at $1125.

The pins belonged to Manna, coo, leader of the orchestra at the new Copley-Plaza hotel, and were stolen on the trip from New York on the sleeper yesterday morning. Harris was the night porter.

When he arrived in Boston the musician reported his loss to the police and Inspector Harry Pierce of police headquarters was sent to investigate. The pins were found in the ice box of the buffet.

Harris appealed and was held in $1500 bail for the grand jury.

SUN YAT SEN

IS REPORTED TO HAVE BEEN MURDERED

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 20.—Rumors that Dr. Sun Yat Sen, first provisional president of China, had been assassinated in Peking yesterday by the soldiers of President Yuan Shi Kai caused great excitement in Chinatown. The rumors could be traced to no authentic source, but varying accounts of the alleged assassination were posted on bulletin boards throughout the Chinese quarter.

At the office of the Chinese consul general and the two Chinese daily newspapers, no news of an attack upon Dr. Sun had been received and the report of his death was given little credence.

Cablegrams were despatched to Peking, however, inquiring as to the safety of the former revolutionary leader.

According to Dr. Sun had left Shanghai for Peking yesterday, to undertake to save the republic from a threatened renewal of hostilities, as the result of the execution of Generals Chang Chen Wu and Aeng Wei.

SCHOONER ASHORE

IT PROBABLY WILL BE A TOTAL LOSS

PLYMOUTH, Mass., Aug. 20.—The schooner Petrel, owned by George Young of Boston, Capt. Hatfield master, lies on the rocks north of White Horse beach and will probably be a total loss, as the water is over her at high tide and it is thought her bottom is stove in.

The craft came in yesterday forenoon in the fog and ran on the rocks. Capt. Augustus Rogers and his crew from the Manomet life-saving station boarded her and took the captain and crew off and housed them at the station.

This was the boat's first trip here. She was a lobster smack and came in for a load of lobsters. The wind has been easterly all day and there was a heavy surf rolling, so, as the schooner struck at low tide, the sea made a clean sweep over her at high water.

The schooner was built four years ago and is of 10 tons and is valued at $5000 with $1000 insurance.

COMPLAINT MADE

THAT BREAD WAS KNEADED WITH BARE FEET.

BROCKTON, Aug. 20.—Complaint was made to Executive Officer Abbott W. Packard yesterday that bread is kneaded with bare feet in one bakery and that conditions about the bakery are such that interference by the board is warranted.

The people who have been buying and eating the bread are loud in their protests against conditions that exist. It is claimed that the flour is placed in a trough, water added and that the bakers step in a trough and tramp about in their bare feet until the composition is kneaded into dough.

A rigid investigation is being made. It is said that one of the bakers, when asked about the feet treading, said that everything was all right because all the men who did it washed their feet before so doing.

NEW VOTERS

5,000,000 EXPECTED TO APPEAR AT POLLS THIS YEAR

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—Nearly five million new voters are expected to appear at the polls this year, according to an estimate prepared here for the republican national committee. There will be 355,000 male voters enfranchised by August 31st and 1,350,000 women and newly naturalized citizens.

There will be 14,352,200 male voters. The number of women voters is estimated at 1,657,000, making a total of approximately 26,000,000 persons who may vote for president. In 1903 there were 22,517,500 eligible voters and the number of votes cast was 14,885,442.

Too Sick to Work—Doctor Advised Operation. Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y.—"I run a sewing machine in a large factory and got all run down. I had to give up work for I could not stand the pains in my back. The doctor said I needed an operation for female trouble but Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound helped me more than the doctors did. I hope that every one who is suffering will get the Compound. My pains, nervousness and backache are gone and I have gained five pounds. I love my thanks to your medicine for it is the working girls friend, and all women who suffer should write to you for special advice."—Miss THILLIS PLENZ, 3 Jay St., Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

When a remedy has lived for over thirty years, steadily growing in popularity and influence, and thousands upon thousands of women declare they owe their very lives to it, is it not reasonable to believe that it is an article of great merit?

We challenge anyone to show any other one remedy for a special class of disease which has attained such an enormous demand and maintained it for so many years as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Milady's Toilet Table

By Mlle. D'VILLE

"A neglected complexion makes a woman look older than she is. The easiest way to preserve or restore a girlish complexion is to lightly massage face, neck and arms with a scotch made by dissolving an original package of maytane in a half-pint witch hazel. This prevents sunburn, tan and freckles, and keeps the skin soft, satiny and altogether lovely. Men always will admire beautiful hair. Washing the head leaves the hair dull and lifeless. Dry shampooing removes dust, dirt and dandruff and leaves the scalp clean, cool and refreshed. Mix four ounces of newtared oris root with an original package of therox; sprinkle a little on the head, brush thoroughly through the hair—and your shampoo is done—your hair light, beautifully lustrous and easy to do up."

"A simple way has been found to remove superfluous hair from the face or forearms. Make a paste by mixing powdered delatone and water, and cover the hairy surface; leave it on once or two minutes, then remove and wash the skin. Short, thin eyelashes can be made long, thick and silky if pyroxin is applied to the roots with thumb and forefinger, and brushing gives them a curl. The eyebrows can be made to grow in well formed arches by brushing with pyroxin."

RATS ARE COMMON HERE SOME BIG SPECIMENS

One Scared Local Typewriter, Another Chased a Dog—Dr. Carroll's Views on Rats

The spread of the bubonic plague has called attention to the menace of rats everywhere in this country. Speaking of rats this morning a local grain merchant said that a few years ago when he was in a different store, his place was infested with rats. They were good strong, well fed rats too, and they did not seem much afraid. If a man came along boldly they would get out of the way, but if it were a boy or the lady typewriter they would hesitate to see which would step aside first.

"I remember one morning," said he, "the typewriter was first to open the store. When she unlocked the door and took a step inside she saw several rats intensely looking at her as if with great curiosity. She stopped and looked at them expecting to see them make a hasty retreat; but there they stood as if to say 'Good morning Miss Typewriter!'"

Finally one of the rats started to

And bit the babies in the cradles,
And ate the cheeses out of the vats,
And licked the soup from the cook's own plates,

Smelling first a little snuff,
As if he knew what music slept
In his quiet pipe, the whiff;
Then, like a musical god,
He drew out their strings
With shrieking and squeaking
In fifty different shrill and fluting.

Like a candle-flame where salt is sprinkled,
And ere three shrill notes the pipe uttered,
You heard as if an army muttered;
And the muttering grew to a grumbling;
And the grumbling grew to a mighty rumbling;
And out of the houses the rats came tumbling:
Great rats, small rats, lean rats,
Brawny rats, black rats, gray rats,
Tawny rats,
Grave old plovers, gay young frisks,
Fathers, mothers, uncles, cousins,
Cocking tails and pricking whiskers,
Families by tens and dozens,
Brothers, sisters, husbands, wives,
Followed the Piper for their lives,
From street to street he piped advance,
And step for step they followed dancing,

Dr. Carroll on Rats

Dr. Carroll, chairman of the board of health, when asked by a Sun representative what he knew about rats replied that while the subject is an unpleasant one, yet it is widely under discussion throughout the country in view of the fact that great precautions have been adopted to prevent the importation of rats from countries in which the bubonic plague has appeared. The infection is undoubtedly spread by rats. It is probable that this is not the only kind of disease that is disseminated by rats.

Entering upon a scientific view of the subject the doctor said:

Olive Oil Restores Health

Physicians generally are advising patients to use pure olive oil to restore health and strength. As a result, thousands of men, women and children, knowing its valuable nutritive and laxative properties, are taking olive oil daily as a most beneficial addition to their food.

Pompeian Olive Oil is as different from other kinds as night is from day. It is the purest Italian Olive Oil imported and it comes to you in its virgin state, without any chemical treatment or adulteration. It, therefore, has a distinctive, sweet, nutty flavor not found in other kinds and does not have a greasy taste.

To build up the system and restore health, take Pompeian Olive Oil in this way and very beneficial results will quickly follow—On arising in the morning, drink a glass of hot water and take one or two tablespoons of the oil. Take the same quantity before dinner, supper and at retiring. As you acquire the taste for the oil, increase the dose to four tablespoons four times a day. Invalids and those run down in health and strength will find Pompeian Olive Oil the best food-medicine and it will build up the body faster than any disease can tear it down.

Pompeian Olive Oil is sold by druggists and grocers. Full one-half pint cans, 25 cents; full pint cans, 50 cents; full quart cans, 90 cents.

happens due to the fact that man is by nature a lazy animal and will make no unnecessary effort unless spurred to it by some circumstance in his environment. It has been necessary for plague to ravage the world many times before he has learned that the rat, the mouse and the ground-squirrel, are among the most deadly animals with which he has to deal.

Severe Indictment of Rats

The doctor then turned to a periodical from which he quoted this indictment of the rat:

"That rats are the carriers of plague is too well known to merit more than a passing reference here. They are also afflicted with a leprosy-like disease which closely resembles, both in its etiology and in its pathology, the leprosy of man. A number of other diseases exist commonly among them, the organisms of which are believed to be capable of producing human disease. They are also the hosts for a legion of parasites, while fleas, lice and ticks, infest their hairy bodies.

"The rat, then is a menace to us physically. He also threatens us commercially. Traveling in the bodies of ships, and dogging the commercial highways of the world, he is the veritable 'old man of the sea' whose appearance in the community is the sign of impending pestilence and the resultant commercial disaster. Bubonic plague is essentially a disease of commerce and not only does harm through the human sacrifices which it claims, but also because of the great fear it engenders. A heavy commercial tribute is thus exacted from the community. A bushel of grain in a year, at the cost of this to be taken at $1.00, it can thus be seen that the community suffers an enormous loss in this way. But the depredations of rats are not confined to relatively cheap articles; the choicest fabrics and leathers, books and objects of art—none of these is spared; poultry and eggs, seeds and bulbs—all are destroyed by these vermin; and still the indictment against the rat is not complete unless we mention the many disastrous fires which have been caused by the rats' fondness for phosphorus which leads them to gnaw matches which have been carried to their nests. These are composed of dry and very inflammable material and are usually hidden in some secret labyrinth between floors and walls, and the fire reaches unquenchable proportions before its discovery. We must add to the charge of arson that of theft, for there are numerous instances on record in which rodents have carried away, for pure wantonness, jewelry and other articles of considerable value.

When we campaign against the rat, we are only destroying his abiding-place, and exclude him from the home of man, but we also endeavor to separate him from his food-supply as well, by cause the famished rat does not linger. The point of attack is the garbage-can. If we could ensure that every garbage-can in a city was water-tight, well covered and maintained in a cleanly condition, we could feel a reasonable security from rats and flies. It is not enough, however, that garbage-cans be tight and clean; the collection and disposal of their contents requires careful supervision. This comprehends a study of the city's entire refuse-disposal system and if necessary its reorganization to meet the sanitary needs of the municipality.

The stable, furnishing as it does both a harbor and a commissary for the rat, should be rat-proofed by the installation of concrete floors; the manure should be kept in airtight metal-lined boxes, and the stable itself should be screened and connected with the sewer.

Rats at Seaports

The Journal of the American Medical Association said the doctor is making a great fight for the extermination of rats especially at seaport towns where the plague has been rampant. Speaking of rats in the seaports a writer in this magazine says:

"The one thing for which the harbor or dock commissions of the interested municipalities should provide is a rat-killing brigade or corps whose duty would be to wage a constant war on rodents in and about wharves. In addition to their labors about the docks, they should also be sent aboard ship on arrival to rid it of rats. One of the interesting sights on arrival at the port of London is to observe the red-uniformed band of rat killers come aboard ship and commence their operations before the passengers have even disembarked."

GOVERNOR WILSON ADDRESSES GERMANS

Candidate Begins His Outdoor Campaign

HOBOKEN, N. J., Aug. 20.—Governor Woodrow Wilson tasted the difficulties of outdoor campaigning here yesterday when he addressed the annual picnic of the Plattdeutsch-Volkfest Verein, a German-American organization from the entire metropolitan district.

From a high improvised balcony the governor spoke while bands paraded in other parts of the park and thousands of people surged back and forth on the fringe of a crowd deeply massed about the speaker. Quite frequently there were interruptions of applause and remarks.

"We are asking ourselves this question," said the governor, "as we face the coming elections in November, which is the open road to get what we want?"

A man in the heart of the crowd took advantage of his rhetorical pause and answered, "Taft." There was a moment's silence, when another voice nearer the front shouted "Wilson." The crowd took it up and cheered. When the demonstration had subsided, the governor pointed in the direction of the man who had answered "Taft" and continued with a smile:

"Our friend over there is perfectly welcome to use his road, but if he goes that way he will find that he is in a blind alley, because there is one thing that was proved at Baltimore, and that is that the people of the United States choose their candidates and the bosses do not."

The governor dwelt upon the responsibility of the government in making this country attractive to the foreigner, so that when he did come he would find it a "place of economic opportunity, where a man may choose his own career."

My Ears Are Free

"Now, one of the things that make me confident of the future," continued the governor, "is that the men who are offering themselves to you on the ticket that I happen to be on are free men. Nobody owns them. So far as I am concerned, I not only have not made a promise to any man, but no man has dared ask me to make a promise. My ears are free, therefore, to hear the counsels of my fellow-citizens."

"If you people standing here want your government you can have it, and the people of the United States have made up their minds that they want their own government and they are going to have it. All I ask is the privilege in taking part in taking possession in the name of the people, for when I see a great company of people like this around, who will stand up merely to hear a speech, I know that something is going to happen in the United States. I know that the people of this country have determined to take possession of their own affairs in order that their own thoughts may get translated into the affairs of government, and I know by the present constitution of the great party that I belong to that there is a way in which they can get it. Therefore, I am one of those who is entering upon this campaign with absolute confidence."

The governor spoke of the hopes of immigrants in looking toward America as a place where they could escape "all of the things that seemed to limit them at home."

"For example," continued the governor, "one of those who have a great admiration for your distinguished emperor, and yet at the same time, I know why most of you came. The world is throwing off most of the older forms of government, and the men of the finest spirit are free in which their energies may be realized as they could be realized nowhere else, where government is bound by the confinement and restrictions of classes and order and old-established institutions which seem to put men upon a plane upon which they were born and not upon a plane where they worked to and achieved, because there is something in every one of us that makes up a democrat—not necessarily with a big 'D,' but necessary with a little 'd'."

Prosperity Basis

"It will be a fine day when we won't have to ask ourselves whether we do offer those who come from the other side of the water the kind of country and the kind of government they think they are going to get. It will be a fine day when we know that every man who comes in at the port to make this his permanent home will find that liberty and freedom and justice do obtain in America. When they find that there are big combinations of business, but that these big combinations are made to mind their own business; that there are great enterprises of industry in this country, but that these enterprises are kept within the strict limits of the law; just as soon as that comes to be the general understanding we shall be the first time have come upon the real basis of prosperity."

The noise of bands marching in other parts of the park became, at this juncture, so loud that the governor could hardly be heard.

"I am not accustomed to competing with a band," said the governor smilingly, "but the band quite expressed my own feeling of affairs. A band is not intellectual, but is very inspiring. It affects the emotions and I am ready to follow a band—after the fifth of November."

The governor motored to New York, where he had an appointment with Rolla Wells, the new national treasurer of the democratic campaign, and Henry Morgenthau, chairman of the finance committee. The governor will go to Trenton today, where, in addition to his regular administrative duties of Tuesday, he will address a rally of the state democratic league.

DETECTIVE HELD ON CHARGE OF CONCEALING A DESERTER

BOSTON, Aug. 20.—Harry A. Wright, head of the Wright Detective agency of Boston, was arrested yesterday by United States Deputy Marshal Ruhl, charged with concealing and harboring George Baum, a deserter from the United States army.

The arrest of Wright is said to be the first of a number which the federal authorities are contemplating in an effort to break up what is said to be an organized system of victimizing soldiers and sailors.

According to Special Agent Schmid of the department of justice, men in the army and navy have been lured to desert their leave in Boston by a gang of men who are said to have women in their employ and who have been collecting $10 a head for every straggler whose whereabouts has been disclosed to their superior officers.

In cases of desertion they have been able to collect $50 a head. Some of the deserters, it is said, have been used by members of the gang to spy on others before they themselves were turned over to the authorities.

BOUT STOPPED MADDEN WAS NO MATCH FOR JEANNETTE

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—Joe Jeannette, the Hoboken negro heavyweight, who expects to meet Jack Johnson next month, met Jeff Madden of Boston for a 10-round bout in Madison Square Garden last night and so outclassed his man that the fight was stopped in the second round. Jeannette weighed 196, five pounds heavier than his opponent.

The Boston pugilist appeared at poor advantage at the start and in the second round went to the floor three times. A short right uppercut sent him down the first time and he was so weak from this and previous blows that he practically fell down twice.

There were two other 10-round bouts on the program, the best of which was a good draw between Jesse Willard of Kansas City and Luther McCarthy of Springfield, Mo. McCarthy was awkward, but did most of the fighting. Willard had the advantage of reach and 20 pounds in the weight, however. Both men finished with their left eyes badly bleeding.

Jim Savage, a lifesaver of Rockaway beach, met Tom Kennedy, a local heavyweight. Savage was trained to the minutes, while Kennedy was in poor physical condition. The referee stopped the bout in the seventh, after Kennedy had taken a beating in almost every round and seemed on the verge of being knocked out.

Tom Sharkey was introduced to the ring, but he was not allowed to enter the ring, and was intended to meet Bob Fitzsimmons or Tom Burns.

MAINE AND VERMONT

It is not so long ago since the Maine election was awaited in the presidential year to sound the keynote for the republican party. But Maine so long ready to accept anything republican has become democratic, having now a democratic governor and democratic representatives in the United States senate. The republican party in Maine is split in twain as a result of the Roosevelt defection. Indeed the Bull Moose party seems to have the upper hand of the Taftites, yet both are working under a truce by which it is agreed that neither will try to annihilate the other. This will keep the differentiated national spellbinders away from Maine so far as the various divisions of the republican party are concerned. Governor Wilson will probably speak there; but interest will centre in the Maine election as indicating now, not republican but democratic strength to offset the result in Vermont which will be regarded as an accurate republican barometer. Maine sent Taft delegates to Chicago, Vermont sent six for Taft and two for Roosevelt. The republicans hope to carry Vermont, because the Roosevelt element is weak. If the latter should cut much of a figure, however, there is a possibility that Wilson might carry the state. The situation in both states is intensely interesting and is being closely watched by politicians throughout the country as affording a difficult study in probabilities. The democrats are hopeful of carrying Maine and it is alleged in some quarters that if Taft does not carry Vermont he may as well give up the contest as hopeless.

The Vermont election will be held early in September and that of Maine a week later. The result in each case will be hailed as indicating political sentiment all over the country.

Gov. Wilson is wise in deciding to read no more speeches. It is probable that if Mr. Bryan had not read his speech at Madison Square Garden in 1906 the result of the election would have been different.—Johnston Democrat.

The reading of Bryan's speech at Madison Square Garden was a memorable event in more ways than one. The heat was so oppressive that the audience cast off all the clothing that decency would permit and Bryan himself was the only man of the 10,000 present who was able to wear a coat. Several ambulances in the rear of the hall were kept busy carrying off those overcome with the heat. Bryan certainly got a warm reception and the sweltering thousands yelled themselves hoarse for the next president who as it happened was at a considerable distance away at that particular time. As to the merits of the speech very few who heard it read could pass an opinion until they read it in the newspapers, but it was a great speech. Its great length, not the reading, did the damage.

SWATTING THE FLY

There is little question that there have been fewer flies this summer than in other summers. The campaign against them now going on for some years has produced its expected and desired effect. The best part of it has been not the mere swatting of the fly but the prevention of its propagation. That is what told. With fewer breeding places for the pestiferous and disease-carrying insect, the crop has been smaller and less work produced for the swatters. Cleanliness is the pest's greatest foe, and householders and storekeepers can do much for its extermination by keeping their premises clean.

THE EAR MEN

The session of the otologists in Boston directed attention to the deafening noises from the elevated and surface cars, the early morning racket of the milkmen and other teams that do their work while the people sleep. The aurist must needs find much in Boston to increase his view of the importance of his calling. There is quite as much in the modern city to injure the hearing as there is to injure the sight, and that is saying a great deal.

WHY THE DELAY?

Our government is acting strangely in delaying so long in the matter of recognizing the Chinese republic. Possibly the fear of hurting the feelings of Japan or some of the other monarchial governments in the East explains the delay. If we did not have the Philippines on our hands we should not be so much afraid to act.

While the price of beef has increased over fifty per cent. in a year, the price of American meat in London has decreased very considerably in the same time. Why such a contrast? Because England has been importing cattle from her colonies, Canada, Australia and New Zealand as from Argentina and Mexico. Had President Taft signed the farmers' free list bill the importations of cattle from Canada, Argentina and Mexico would have reduced the price in this country. Yet the republicans tell us that their party tariff is not responsible for the high cost of living.

The fight for the gubernatorial nomination between Foss and Pelletier will wax warm from this time onward. The governor of course, has a great advantage in being in office and controlling the machinery of government; but Pelletier is a vigorous campaigner, a hard hitter, when he gets going. He represents the insurgent democracy. It is customary now to have the titles progressive and insurgent applied to the candidates that claim to branch out towards new policies.

The graft and vice revelations in New York as a result of the Rosenthal murder are really shocking. It is time now for other cities to see that no such grafting business is being carried on with the protection or connivance of the police. Is there any other city in the country harboring a vice trust with 1200 or even a smaller number of women under its control?

If Supt. Thomas knows his business, and we believe he does, he knows full well how the surplus water gets into the city mains. Yet while others carry on a controversy over the matter, the one man who knows is silent. Why?

Candidate Wilson is not making wild promises that can never be fulfilled. He is keeping within the range of probability.

CITY COUSIN

Seen and Heard

A little boy who was very much puzzled over the theory of evolution questioned his mother thus:

"Mamma, did I descend from a monkey?"

"I don't know," the mother replied. "I never knew any of your father's people."

A learned man has said that the three hardest words to pronounce in the English language are "I was mistaken." When Frederick the Great wrote to the senate, "I have just lost a battle, and it's entirely my own fault," Goldsmith says, "His confession showed more greatness than all his victories."

The Australians are evolving a new English language of their own. With threefold their words—"harracking," "harrick," and "kangaroo"—we are all familiar, but there are hundreds of others to be found in the dictionary of "Australian English" compiled by Professor Morris. The Sydney Bulletin is offering a prize for the "best sonnet written in the Australian language." That is to say, a sonnet that would not be understood outside of Australia, says the London Chronicle.

The blueness of sea water is in constant ratio to its saltness. In the tropics the tremendous evaporation induced by the blazing sun causes the water to be much saltier than it is in high latitudes. For about 30 degrees north and south of the equator the waters are of an exquisite azure. Beyond these latitudes the blue changes to green and in the Arctic and Antarctic oceans the greens are almost as vivid as the tropical blues.

The extraordinary blueness of the Mediterranean has two causes. Few large rivers of fresh water run into this sea, and, moreover, the Mediterranean is virtually landlocked and exposed to a powerful sun, so that evaporation is rapid. By actual test the waters of the Mediterranean are heavier and saltier than those of the Atlantic ocean. But blue and green are not the only colors observed in the sea. In January, 1899, a river of yellow water three miles wide was observed running parallel with the blue Gulf stream. It stretches from Cape Florida to Cape Hatteras, and its color was undoubtedly due to some tropical blueness.

Many women take perfect care of their face and clothes, yet neglect their hands. Rough, red hands are almost as unattractive as ill-kept teeth. It is a simple, easy matter to keep your hands smooth and beautiful. The following prescription, which you can compound at your own home, is famous for the marvelous, instantaneous result it gives:

Get from your druggist one ounce of Kellux Compound. Put it in a two-ounce bottle, add quarter of an ounce of witch hazel, fill with water and shake well.

You will be surprised at the result when applied to your hands, arms or neck. Blemishes of every kind disappear as if by magic. Freckles, tan, rough skin, coarse pores, yield instantly to this application. This is the private prescription of a famous Parisian beauty.

SECRETARY DUFFY HAS PEACE PLAN

To Put Before the New Bedford Weavers
NEW BEDFORD, Aug. 20.—Secretary Duffy, who finds that there is a feeling among the operatives that if it is possible to meet the manufacturers in conference it should be done, has been working on a plan which he will present to the executive committee of the Weavers' union Wednesday night. This plan is different from any heretofore offered or suggested, and while Secretary Duffy would not intimate the vital points before the executive committee has had a chance to pass upon it, he said that those associates to whom he had outlined the plan are favorably impressed with it.

It is the general impression that the weavers must make the first move toward settling the strike, and following the statement of a prominent manufacturer that the mills would not open labor day or for some time after Labor day, unless the present trouble was settled, it has been urged that some effort be made by the weavers to see if some plan could not be presented to the manufacturers which is better than the grueling system, which the manufacturers say must be shown to them before they will consider a conference. Secretary Duffy says he thinks he has hit on a plan that will protect both the weaver and the manufacturer, as well as any other operative who is at fault in the manufacture of bad cloth.

Transcriber Blacow of the general strike fund reports that the collections taken last week were better than the week before. All destitute cases are being taken care of, and there seems to be only a slight increase in the number of operatives who appear to ask for assistance.

An important meeting of the Spinnery union will be held tomorrow night, to take action on the strike.

MAY BE DROWNED
HAVERHILL MEN WENT ON A FISHING TRIP
HAVERHILL, Aug. 20.—Adelard Labelle and James Bradley, it is feared, were drowned while fishing Sunday at Chadwick's pond in the Bradford district.

Labelle, who lives on Lewis street, left his home last Saturday afternoon with Bradley, intending to go to the Powwow river at East Kensington, N. H. He told his wife that he would return Saturday evening, and as she has heard nothing from him since then, Mrs. Labelle last night reported his absence to the police.

An investigation showed that Labelle and Bradley missed the train to East Kensington, and instead went to Chadwick's pond. They spent Saturday afternoon fishing there, and were seen to leave last night. Mrs. Labelle became alarmed, and fears that the two men, while fishing, have been drowned. The police, after investigating last night and finding no trace of the men from the campers in the pond, decided to begin grappling today.

NASHUA PEOPLE
CLAIM LAW IS VIOLATED BY USE OF PARTY FLAGS
NASHUA, N. H., Aug. 20.—The progressives raised a Roosevelt flag on Main street last evening and as both the old parties have up flags for their candidates, the opponents of using the American colors to bear the names of presidential candidates say they will not be accused of partisanship by urging the withdrawal of all three flags.

The matter will be taken up at a meeting this evening of John G. Foster Post, G. A. R. The objectors to such use of flags maintain that the spirit of the law which forbids the use of the flag for advertising is being violated when it is thrown out with the names of candidates.

The same question was raised here four years ago and it was then decided that there was no legal obstacle to flags bearing pictures of presidential candidates.

This year the objectors will attempt to arouse a public sentiment which will compel a "clean flag."

CARMEN MAY STRIKE

Haverhill Employees Have List of Grievances

HAVERHILL, Aug. 20.—David A. Belden, president of the Massachusetts Northeastern Street Railway Company, and Franklin Woodman, the general manager, will hold a conference today with a committee of the newly formed local of the Amalgamated Association of Street Railway employees, when a list of grievances prepared by the union will be discussed.

The union was recently formed by National Pres. Fay and National Sec. Sullivan of the Amalgamated Association and it is said that 135 employees have joined. Yesterday morning a meeting was held, at which it was decided to apply for a charter, and officers were elected. A committee prepared a list of grievances and last evening 100 employees held a meeting in Tanner's hall at which addresses were made by Pres. Belden and Mr. Woodman.

The committee submitted the list of grievances and it was agreed to hold a conference today. The company operates 140 miles of tracks extending from this city to Hampton and Salisbury beaches, Newburyport, Lawrence, Lowell and Nashua, N. H. The company employs 250 motormen and conductors, and those prominent in the union say that if their demands are not granted the union men will quit work. The principal demand is for the recognition of the union, as there is no question of wages.

The men also ask that employees be given the choice of cars according to seniority. The men, under the present system, are assigned to cars by the division superintendents. An article asking impartial treatment regarding Sundays or duty is also included. Pres. Belden said tonight that he knew little regarding the movement and could not make a statement about the attitude of the road toward the union, which, he understood, had been formed. He said that whatever demand was made would have to be considered by the directors.

He is a member of that board, which is composed of five members, two of whom are in Europe, so that he said it would be impossible for him to call them together before September. He believed that the success of the Boston Elevated strike increased interest in the union movement, and that his road was feeling the result of it. Another meeting for the night forces of motormen and conductors was scheduled after they finished their work. It was not believed that it would be over before 3 a. m. tomorrow.

ELOPING BRIDE

PLACED UNDER ARREST ON FATHER'S COMPLAINT
WORCESTER, Aug. 20.—Because her father, it is said, objected to her marriage with the man of her choice, Lillian J. Marble, aged 17, daughter of Frank E. Marble of 393 Pleasant street, ran away from home Saturday and married Frank Tracey, aged 21 in Putnam, Conn.

Her father swore out a warrant for her arrest on a charge of being a stubborn child and last night she was arrested and booked at the Worcester police station. She was booked under the name of Marble, but told the officer in charge that her name is Mrs. Frank Tracey in spite of what her father says.

"Father had a man picked out for me, but I did not love him. I loved Frank, so I ran away and married him," she told the police.

MAN FOUND $2600

AND RETURNED MONEY TO RIGHTFUL OWNER
WORCESTER, Aug. 20.—After picking up a roll of money containing $2600, Alfred Mayhew, a collector for the C. T. Sherer company, located the owner and returned it. He made a tour of the banks and found that the package was made up for the Standard Elevator company, and delivered the bankroll to its rightful owner.

The money was dropped by one of the company's paymasters. The elevator company refused to discuss the case, but it is understood that a substantial reward was paid Mayhew for his honesty.

GRIMSHAW—The funeral of William Grimshaw took place Monday afternoon at 1 o'clock from the home of his parents, Samuel and Catherine, of 25 Rogers street, and was largely attended. The burial was in the family lot in St. Patrick's cemetery. Among the beautiful floral offerings placed upon the grave were the following: Large pillow inscribed "Our Willie" from the parents; large spray, Theresa Riley; large spray, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gilman; large spray, Mabel and William McFadden; spray inscribed on ribbon, "Willie" from Mr. and Mrs. McFadden; spray with ribbon inscribed "Willie" from Hugh Kelly. The funeral was in charge of Undertaker Charles H. McDermott.

SHEDDY—The funeral of the late Timothy J. Shеды, a popular young resident of this city who met with an untimely accident at the Lowell Beach, Saturday night, took place this morning at 9 o'clock from the home of his mother, Mrs. John Shеды, 45 Madison street. The cortege wound its way to St. Peter's church where at 9 o'clock a high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Fr. John P. Bion. The choir under the direction of Mr. James E. Donnelly sang the Gregorian mass. At the offertory "O Meritum Patris" was sung by Miss Mary E. Whiteley. After the elevation "The Jesus" was rendered by Mr. Donnelly. As the casket was being borne from the church the choir sang "I have a dream." Mrs. John W. McKennedy presided at the organ. The bearers were Messrs. Thomas Brennan, Thomas Stoughton, Michael Slattery, Frank Munrovan, John Donlon, Michael Daley, John Nealon and Thomas Markham. Among the many beautiful floral tributes showing the high esteem in which the deceased was held, were: A mammoth pillow with the inscription "Our Brother" from the bereaved brothers; large standing cross base inscribed "Consoling" from Katherine and Michael Slattery; large wreath inscribed "Gone, But Not Forgotten" from Mr. and Mrs. John O'Neil; large wreath, Mr. and Mrs. Munrovan; large standing wreath on base, sympathy of Mr. Ralph J. Cullinan and Mr. Michael J. Markham; large standing cross on base inscribed "At Rest" from Daniel Quenley, Michael Miskell and John Quenley; spray of carnations, Misses Susie and Edith McCarthy; spray of roses and ferns, Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Kierman; large wreath of roses, pink and white, from Misses Della, Kitty and Madeline O'Brien; also several other wreaths and sprays from other friends. The funeral was largely attended by sorrowing relatives and friends, including many from out of town. A large delegation from Division H, A. O. U. consisting of Daniel Quenley, Michael Quenley, John Quenley and James Quenley. The interment was in the family lot in St. Patrick's cemetery, where the last sad rites of the Catholic church were read by Rev. Fr. John P. Bion. The funeral arrangements were in charge of Undertaker James H. McDermott.

TO ATTEND MANEUVERS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—Major-General Wood will accept the invitation of the German government to attend the maneuvers this fall. He will leave Washington about Aug. 29.

TAX ASSESSMENT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—The 10,000 small homes of government clerks and workmen in Washington are assessed for taxes at 50 per cent of their true value, while the fine residences of the fashionable northwest section of the capital average only 50 per cent of their value. A report today from a house committee led by Henry George of New York, which has been investigating the taxation of real estate in the District of Columbia. The report condemns what it says is the under assessment of homes of Senator Depout, John R. McLean and other railroads and charges gross discrimination between classes of property. It says the present system is a party and the latest improved property.

The Chalifoux Building of Four Stories
Now Being Erected on Merrimack Square

Picture from the Architect's Drawing.

THE NEW CHALIFOUX BUILDING BEING CONSTRUCTED BETWEEN THE COLONIAL AND THE NEW SUN BUILDING ON MERRIMACK SQUARE

The R. H. Howes Construction company, which is erecting the new Sun building, was awarded the general contract for the new building for the J. L. Chalifoux estate, which is being constructed between the Sun and the Colonial buildings, and the work is progressing rapidly. The steel is now set up to the third story and the entire building it is expected will be finished by Nov. 15.

The plans, which were drawn by Derby, Robinson and Shepard, call for five stories, but only four will be built at the present time. The fifth floor will be set and covered with a false roof.

The building will be four stories high and will be used by the D. L. Page Company for their bakery, candy shop, restaurant and catering place. It will be divided into two sections, separated by a large partition from one end of the building to the other. One section will consist of a large salesroom, a banquet hall, candy factory and the catering department, while the other will consist of a main entrance, a quick lunch room and a kitchenette.

The basement will extend underneath the sidewalk and will be very deep. It will be used as a cold storage room for ice cream manufacturing. There will be no heating plant in the building inasmuch as the heat will be supplied from the Colonial building.

On the street floor will be a large store in one end and on the other will be the main entrance which will lead to the quick lunch room on the second floor, which will be equipped with a kitchenette. The main dining room and main kitchen will be on the third floor.

second floor, while the third floor will consist of three sections, the banquet hall, candy factory and catering department.

On the fourth floor will be constructed two large ovens, each weighing 150 tons. This floor will be used for the bakery. The fifth floor when completed will be in line with the cornice of the Colonial building.

The building will be constructed of steel and bulk of the same color and grade as that used on the Colonial building. Above the first floor on the front of the building will be a large gallery made of steel, which may be utilized for flowers and decorations. The inserts in all the columns of the edifice will be of marble, while the transoms will be of prism glass, the windows to be of large plate glass. The window frames in the front and rear will be of iron, while in the rear the glass will be covered with wire, making them fireproof.

The floors will be constructed with terra cotta tile, while the finish will be of mosaic tile, and of the preparation supplied by the American Safety Tread Co. The freight elevator will be set in the rear as well as the fire escape. There will be two small dumb waiter elevators, one from the basement to the salesroom and the other from the second to the fourth floors at the other section of the building.

The edifice when completed will be one of the prettiest in the city and with The Sun building will be a great improvement to Merrimack square.

LIGHT 'DOCKET' IN POLICE COURT

But a Few Heavy Sentences Were Imposed

Patrick Maloney was arraigned before Judge Enright in police court this morning on a complaint charging him with the larceny of $16.82 from Mrs. Mary A. Clark. Maloney pleaded guilty and at the conclusion of the hearing of the case he was sentenced to six months in the house of correction.

Maloney was in the employ of Mrs. Clark and on August 14th she gave him the money to go to the bank and get a cashier's check, but he failed to return. The matter was reported to the police and yesterday he was placed under arrest.

When asked to explain what he did with the money he said that on the way to the bank he met some friends and they went off and got drunk. He said he would not have taken the money but for the fact that he had been drinking.

Heavy Sentence Imposed
Catherine C. Cashman, who created a scene in police court yesterday after pleading not guilty to charges of drunkenness, was sent down stairs to sober off, appeared in court this morning and after changing her plea to that of guilty was sentenced to six months in the house of correction.

Other Offenders
Mary Cavanaugh pleaded not guilty to being drunk. Her husband complained that she drank too much and neglected her home. Patrolman Timothy Dewey said that he arrested the woman on complaint of her husband. She was sentenced to three months in jail.

Joseph Bachesno was charged with two counts of drunkenness. He was found guilty on both, one being placed

GENERAL NICOLAI

WAS WOUNDED BY SHOT FIRED BY SOLDIER

WARSAW, Russian Poland, Aug. 20.—General Prince Nicolai Zumanoff, commander of a brigade in the garrison here, was wounded in the chest today while one of the legs of his wife was shattered by bullets fired by Private Powansky of the Russian army, who entered the general's flat and discharged a number of shots from his carbine. Several orderly officers who were in the room at the time were also wounded but they shot and killed Powansky. The motive for the crime was vengeance for punishment that had been inflicted on Powansky by his superior officer.

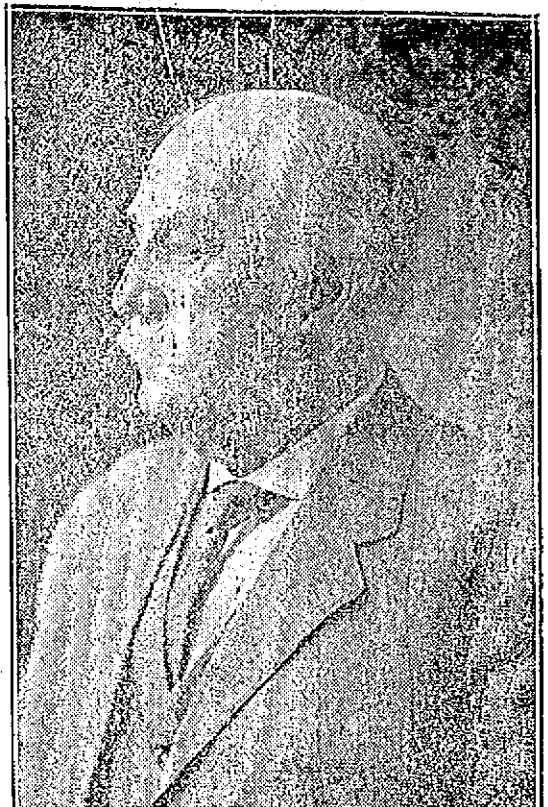

NOVEL APPARATUS
PARIS, Aug. 20.—Maurice Perens, an old sailor, created a mild sensation today by giving an exhibition in the Seine of a simple apparatus he has invented which enables him to remain under water a long time without suffering apparently the slightest inconvenience.

Attired in an ordinary bathing suit, Perens made several promenades, each lasting from 10 to 20 minutes along the bottom of the river.

The apparatus consists of a mouth-piece arranged so as to permit of the escape of the wearer's breath, and attached to it is a rubber tube connected with a bicycle pump which can be operated by an assistant either in a boat or on shore. It can be put on in 30 seconds and used by anyone. A number of officials and doctors who superintended the experiments declared the apparatus a remarkable success.

AGREEMENT REACHED
CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 20.—A telegram received here from Saloniki states that an agreement has been reached between the representatives of the Turkish government and the Albanian insurgents who were marching toward Saloniki in considerable force. The Albanians are said to have agreed to return to their homes.

FUNERAL OF WILLIAM S. LAMSON

THE LATE WILLIAM S. LAMSON

Large Attendance of Business Associates and Employees

All that was mortal of the late William S. Lamson was tenderly consigned to his last resting place in the Lowell cemetery yesterday afternoon after imposing services at the home of deceased and the Talbot Memorial chapel in the Lowell cemetery. There was a very large attendance showing the esteem in which deceased was held.

The first service which was strictly private, was held at the home of deceased, 194 Nesmith street, where prayers were conducted by Rev. Charles T. Billings, pastor of the First Unitarian church. The cortege then proceeded to the Talbot Memorial chapel in the Lowell cemetery, where a very large congregation was present to pay a last tribute to one whom they loved and cherished. Among those present were the entire working force of the Boston office of the American Mason Safety Tread company as well as all the local employees of the company of which deceased was the president. Mr. F. A. Speirs represented the American Safety Tread company, another concern which was under the presidency of deceased. Agent Herman Puffer of the American Mason Safety Tread company of New York, was present as were also Messrs. L. H. Myrick and Edward T. Kuennerle, both of Philadelphia. The delegation from Kilmanning lodge, A. F. and A. M., was as follows: Chas. J. Bartlett, Charles L. Knapp, Thomas W. Stott and Frank L. Weaver. The local employees of the American Mason Safety Tread company served as body guard at the service, and the ceremony was most impressive. Rev. Charles T. Billings also officiated at the chapel, and he read very appropriate passages from the scripture.

The bearers were H. C. King, J. L. Campbell, John Carver, A. I. Davis, J. H. Gamble and James A. Spellers, all close friends of deceased.

Burial, which was private was held in the family lot. Funeral arrangements were in charge of Frank P. Putnam, and Undertaker George W. Healey had charge of the burial. The local plants of the Mason Safety Tread company, as well as the American Safety Tread company in Walker street were closed for the day out of respect for their president. It was noticeable that among the employees of the company of which Mr. Lamson was president, deep sorrow was shown from the highest to the lowest for Mr. Lamson's generosity and kindness of heart had endeared him to all.

RUNAWAY YOUTH

CAUGHT BY POLICE AFTER DRIVING AWAY WITH STYLISH RIG

BOSTON, Aug. 20.—Jacob Platzman, 9 years old, who lives with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Platzman, at 1 Wilkes street, South End, ended a four days' tramp abroad in a blaze of glory yesterday afternoon. With the police of the whole city and suburbs looking for him, and sought day and night by frantic parents, at last, by his own bold acts, he was undone.

Jako was tired. No one knows where or how he spent the nights since his unceremonious departure last Thursday forenoon, and he isn't disposed to tell. Anyhow, he was weary of walking yesterday afternoon. A splintered horse, attached to a shabby Goddard buggy on Woodward street, Roxbury, attracted his attention.

The carriage, belonged to the Oak Grove Farm Bilk Company, but since the driver was not in sight, Jacob didn't care who owned the outfit. He climbed to the seat, picked up the reins and, with a chirp to the horse, sped away.

Up Elm Hill avenue to Grove Hall the youngster sent his newly-acquired nag at a lively clip. People around the transfer station stared in amazement at the diminutive driver. No one interfered. Taking the corner on two wheels, Jacob turned into Washington street, Dorchester. The animal was getting warmed up. By the time he swung into Columbia road the horse was literally flying.

Jacob soon reached the confines of Roxbury again by a circuitous route, and, veering into Dudley street, was just starting on the second lap of his wild ride when Officer Kellard spotted him, and took him to the Dudley street police station.

At the desk, the young prisoner gave the name of Sam Cohen, but gave his address, correctly. It required but a little work to run down the clue. His parents went directly to claim him, kiss him and incidentally punish him.

The conveyance was held until claimed by the driver.

CITY OFFICIAL

MET WITH INJURIES THAT MAY PROVE FATAL

BROCKTON, Aug. 20.—As the result of his light demerit wagon coming in collision with a heavy motor truck driven by Arthur Holland, 32, William S. Cleveland, 52, sewer commissioner of Brockton and the eldest city official in the state, is at his home and is not expected to live.

The accident occurred on Pleasant street this afternoon. Mr. Cleveland was thrown to the ground and received multiple bruises and internal injuries, while his wagon was smashed to kindling.

On account of his age, the doctors stated that his recovery is very doubtful.

OUT ON STRIKE

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 20.—All Canadian Northern railroad trucks on docks and in freight sheds at Port Arthur, Ont., struck today for higher wages. They demand 27 1/2 cents an hour. Eight thousand men are affected.
